NAVY'S BLUNDER SANK COOLIDGE, OWNER CHARGES

Claims Captain Told Harbor Was Safe.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—A shipping company official said today that a navy blunder led to the sinking of the 21,936 ton former liner President Coolidge, while operating in the Solomons area as a troop transport. Meanwhile, the navy undertook a "very thoro investigation."

J. Hugh Jackson.

The accusation came from J. Hugh Jackson, a director of the American President Line, which chartered the ship to the government. He told a luncheon meeting at Stockton, Cal., that the captain of the transport, about to enter a harbor, met two United States destroyers outside. He stopped, asked whether the harbor was safe, and was assured there was nothing to worry about. The ship entered and struck two mines, Jackson said.

Question Raised by Reporter.

A reporter raised the question of the President Coolidge at President Roosevelt's press conference. The chief executive said he did not know whether the transport hit an American mine, and asked how an official of a shipping line would be in a position to know what happened.

Asserting that a "question of possible fault" was involved, Secretary of the Navy Knox announced that a naval board of inquiry was looking into the incident. He was asked whether the vessel might have struck an American mine.

"Question of Possible Fault."

"I have no information that it hit one of our mines," he replied, adding that the area in which the vessel sank was no proof that the mine was part of an American-laid field. Japanese submarines, he said, had been sowing mines in the same waters.

Since all but 4 of 4,000 crewmen and troops were saved, a questioner suggested a thrilling rescue story must have been involved. The navy head said the full story would be given out eventually, but that for the present "there is a question of possible fault there" which made it inadvisable to release any additional information.

Hit U. S. Mines, Say Crew.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 15 [Special].—Several members of the crew of the transport President Coolidge, lost in the South Pacific, agreed here today that the ship must have struck two American mines in the harbor of a port.

"Everybody seemed to know we'd hit our own mines," said Boatswain Al Stang, as other survivors nodded agreement. "We can't see why there's any secret about it. We'd sure like to know who is to blame."

Stang said the explosions came about three minutes apart at 9:30 a. m.

"It seemed as if the ship was running over a bump. The Coolidge lurched a bit and went on its way. Then the second blast went off. We knew then it must have been mines."

All Off in an Hour.

An hour later, 15 minutes before the Coolidge went down, nearly every soldier was off the ship and on his way to a nearby beach. Nets had been lowered over the sides and officers and men climbed into waiting boats and rafts.

"Those men gave the most perfect example of discipline I've ever seen," said Stang. "Not one even let out a yip. That's why only four out of 4,000 were lost."

14 Meals a Week in Same Place Costs Ration Book

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—Persons who eat 14 or more meals a week at the same restaurant or boarding house must give their sugar and coffee ration book to the owner of the establishment. The office of price administration issued this ruling today to clear up a conflict in its own regulations. Formerly the deadline was 12 meals for sugar and 14 for coffee.

RECRUITS MUST ACT THRU THEIR DRAFT BOARDS

Services Act to Meet Man Power Needs.

CONSCRIPTION LAWS.

A summary of the conscription laws in the United States and Great Britain and her empire appears on page 3. This summary includes changes and revisions which have been made recently in the various laws.

Men 18 thru 37 years old again may volunteer for service in the army, navy, marine corps, or coast guard. The order was issued yesterday by selective service headquarters in Washington, D. C., and will expire Feb. 1.

Arrangements for drafting men for the four services will not be completed for six weeks and the volunteer plan was established as a temporary measure to maintain the supply of man power.

Under the temporary volunteer plan a draft registrant must volunteer thru his draft board. If the board approves the volunteer's application it will waive examination by its physicians and send the applicant directly to the recruiting office of the branch of service selected.

Status Remains Same.

If the chosen service rejects the volunteer his draft status will be the same as before he volunteered and he still will remain subject to induction for another service or for limited service. A volunteer rejected by the navy or marine corps might be found fit for the army because army physical requirements are less strict.

Applications will still be taken for advance induction into the army. In other words, men who have not been summoned for induction can apply for enlistment in the army the same as in the navy, marine corps, and coast guard.

Exact Provisions in Doubt.

Exact provisions of the order reopening enlistments seemed uncertain when Lt. Comm. David Goldenson, navy recruiting officer in Chicago, announced that he has notified state selective service headquarters that he has been instructed to accept no more volunteers until further notice.

Recruiting stations of the army, navy, marine corps, coast guard, army aviation cadets, and naval aviation cadets worked almost to the midnight deadline last night to complete enlistment of applicants who were on file at midnight, Dec. 5, when President Roosevelt ordered all recruiting stopped.

ORDERED INTO FIELD

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson has issued an order that all army officers less than 28 years old must be out of Washington and on field service, troops training for action, by Jan. 31. The order further provides that all officers less than 35 years old must be out of the capital by next June 30. It is understood no exceptions will be permitted.

The young men are to be replaced by older officers, who have been found physically unsuited for the rigors of campaigning or by older men who have been granted commissions for the purpose of releasing younger men for active duty.

Follows Earlier Directive.

The exodus of young men began last summer when Secretary Stimson declared "there are too darn many combat officers in Washington" and directed that younger men be sent into the field.

When the evacuation did not proceed rapidly enough to suit the secretary, he issued the order calling for compulsory transfer of young men to active duty. The order was inspired by rumblings thruout the nation against slackers in and out of uniform in the nation's capital.

In justice to the young officers, it must be stated that large numbers of them applied for field duty because they did not like to be branded as men who did not want to fight and were using political pull to avoid it.

BOMBS SHATTER NEW JAP FORCE

ALLIED HDQ. IN AUSTRALIA, Dec. 16 [Wednesday] (AP).—Remnants of a Japanese force which made a landing despite bloody losses at Cape Ward Hunt, half way between Lae and Buna, are being harassed by allied planes, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's noon communique reported today.

The same air arm which sank landing barges, drove off two cruisers and three destroyers, and permitted only a portion—perhaps as many as 1,000 Japs—to reach land rained a hail of deadly bombs and bullets upon the group which reached shore.

"Our air force," the communique said, "continued incessant bombing and strafing attacks thruout the day on remnants of the enemy landing force at the mouth of the Mambare river. The entire area is strewn with derelict barges, wreckage, and enemy dead."

Keep Pressure on Buna.

On either side of newly captured Buna, where Japs still cling to restricted sectors of opposition, allied ground forces were maintaining heavy pressure.

Under cover of darkness a Japanese plane bombed the allied base at Port Moresby on the southeast New Guinea shore last night, but the communique said the bombs fell "harmlessly."

Heavy bombers raided the airdrome last night at Gasmata on New Britain Island. Twelve Jap fighters attempted to intercept. Three were shot down and two others damaged. Allied bombers also raided the Jap airdrome at Lae.

Attack Buna Mission.

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Dec. 15 (AP).—American sharpshooters strapped in the trees in Japanese fashion poured a deadly fire into the Buna Mission area today, after taking Buna village in a fierce hand to hand fight. To their rear they and Australian allies kept a wary eye for an enemy force which landed and opened a new sector.

The new enemy landing was made

Arrow locates Utah crash scene.

The two survivors lay seriously injured for hours in the wrecked plane until rescuers removed them this afternoon. The crash occurred in Cedar Valley, four miles south of an emergency airport at Fairfield and about 50 miles south of Salt Lake City. The plane had left the Salt Lake airport en route to Los Angeles at 1:05 a. m.

The survivors were identified at a Lehi, Utah, hospital as A. J. Mallett, Springfield, Ark., and Lt. A. F. Gardner, a marine officer whose home was said to be in Alexander, N. Y.

Only Partly Conscious.

Mallett was partly conscious when rescuers arrived, but Gardner was able to talk. M. J. Dahl, a rancher who lives nearby, reached the wreckage on horseback.

He said Gardner told him that "I tried all night to get some blankets on me—I was freezing." His injuries included a fractured leg and shoulder injuries and prevented his moving.

"It seems as if one of the wings hit a peak," Gardner said later in a hospital.

"I was knocked unconscious and was out for a minute or two. When I came to the cabin was filled with gas fumes. Several passengers were moaning and groaning when I first regained consciousness, but they later became quiet."

The wreckage was headed north. This and the fact that the plane had struck at not too sharp an angle was believed to indicate that the pilot sought to reach the emergency field after encountering trouble.

List 17 Victims.

Lt. Thomas A. Baldwin, U. S. N., Kellogg, Ia.; 2d Lt. Hugh E. McCrae, army air corps, believed to be from La Grange, Ill.; Mrs. George Skystead, Las Vegas, Nev.; Mrs. Leona Rosell, Salt Lake City; Miss Caroline Weersing, believed to be of Los Angeles.

W. O. Hart, co-publisher of the Orange [Cal.] Daily News; Knight Bennett, Glendale; Fred Lewis, Los Angeles; Guy Talbot Jr., Great Falls, Mont., traffic manager for Western Air Lines; J. R. Bratt, Salt Lake City; Donald E. Cummings, Denver, head of the industrial hygiene department of Colorado university's medical department; R. H. Hultman, Omaha, Neb., and Richard W. James, Salt Lake City, an air lines employé.

Cummings was a past president of the American Industrial Hygiene association.

VICTIM'S WIFE HERE.

Mrs. Helen Cummings, wife of Donald E. Cummings, Denver, Colo., who was listed as a victim of a plane crash near Fairfield, Utah, has been in Chicago since last Friday, when her 12 year old son, John, was admitted to Presbyterian hospital for treatment for glandular disturbances.

Plane Crashes Barn

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 15 (AP).—A plane believed to be an army bomber crashed near Lambert-St. Louis field here tonight. Witnesses said an explosion and fire followed the crash. An airport official said nine persons were aboard. William Cope, a farmer, said he heard the crash and a series of explosions. He said he and his wife reached the wreckage in time to see two men climb from the flaming fuselage. The plane was reported to have struck the roof of a barn.

Nine Navy Flyers Missing.

San Diego, Cal., Dec. 15 (AP).—A twin engine navy patrol bomber and its crew of nine, unreported for 11 days, today was listed as missing at sea off the southern California coast. The plane has not been heard from since it set out Dec. 4 on a routine flight.

WASHINGTON SENDS AID TO STUDY CITY'S NEEDS

Gov. Green Proposes Suspension of Rationing.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 15 [Special].—Gov. Dwight H. Green recommended tonight that fuel oil rationing be suspended until Jan. 15 because it is a peril to public health, and called on the governors of seven other midwestern states to join Illinois in an appeal to OPA authorities in Washington to take immediate steps to alleviate existing conditions.

The governor's recommendation of a suspension in fuel oil rationing was made in collaboration with the Illinois state defense council's committee on public health during a conference in which Green charged that much unnecessary suffering has resulted in Illinois and will continue to result unless immediate steps are taken to relieve fuel shortages.

The recommendation for suspension was routed from the committee to the full state defense council for any further action.

Ask 68 to 72 Degrees.

The committee declared that the 65 degree temperature basis for allotment of fuel oil for residential heating is "insufficient," and recommended a basis of 68 to 72 degrees. It said further that the method for determining fuel oil needs should be figured on cubic rather than square footage.

Gov. Green telegraphed the governors of Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas requesting them to place their fuel oil problems before Leon Henderson's office of price administration in Washington and their respective congressional delegations. He did not ask the other governors to join in the recommendation for suspension of rationing.

Convinced of Suffering.

His telegram read: "After consultation with Illinois health authorities, and after receiving many presentations of personal suffering by very young and elderly and infirm persons, I am convinced that the true evidence of existing conditions under the fuel oil rationing program must be laid forcefuly before the authorities in Washington in the expectation that steps can be taken to alleviate those conditions.

"I am asking you, as the governor of another midwestern state where people are working tirelessly and sacrificing unselfishly in the war effort, that you join Illinois in taking the steps necessary to safeguard public health.

"If you find in your own community that the arbitrary regulations which ignore individual needs threaten the conservation of public health and thus weaken the war effort on the home front, I ask, in behalf of your own loyal citizens, that you present their difficulties to the OPA and to the congressional delegation from your state.

Local Boards Helpless.

"Despite their willingness to protect the public, local rationing boards are powerless in that they must conform to burocratic and confusing red tape orders which permit no discretion in meeting emergencies of those people whose safety is threatened by insufficient warmth in their homes."

At the meeting of the health officials with the governor, Rodney H. Brandon, state director of public welfare, said the oil heated state reformatory for women at Dwight had been on a 65 degree heat level for several days and that all inmates are extremely uncomfortable.

Sees Disease Threat.

Dr. Edwin S. Hamilton of Kankakee, chairman of the executive committee of the Illinois State Medical society, said the 65 degree temperature level called for in the OPA regulations threatens to cause an increase in respiratory diseases, such as bronchitis and pneumonia, which "can assume the proportions of an epidemic."

FUEL OIL DEVELOPMENTS.

1. Congressmen assailed the OPA directors of the rationing program as bunglers. Details on page 5.
2. Cities thruout the midwest reported confusion and suffering as ration boards were unable to unwind the red tape of rationing. Story on page 7.
3. OPA and WPB continued pressure on fuel users to convert to coal by issuing new rules to permit any one now using an oil heating stove to turn it in and purchase a coal stove. Turn to page 3.
4. Chicago faces possible shortage of coal as OPA urges conversion of more oil burners to coal furnaces. Page 6.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

Leon Henderson's office of price administration in Washington last night announced that Charles H. Abbott was being sent to Chicago as a special representative of the fuel oil rationing division to investigate the request of Michael F. Mulcahy, local rationing boss, for increased fuel oil allotments.

Frank Phillips.

Abbott will arrive in Chicago this morning and will confer with Mulcahy.

OPA officials apparently questioned Mulcahy's figures showing that this December has been the coldest in Chicago for 65 years, despite the fact that Mulcahy cited official weather bureau statistics. Washington officials said they were investigating Mulcahy's data.

Denies Fuel Shortage.

Other developments in the fuel oil crisis yesterday were highlighted by the following:

1. Frank Phillips, head of the 246 million dollar oil corporation bearing his name and chairman of the powerful petroleum industry committee for 15 midwestern states, issued a statement asserting there is no shortage of fuel oil in Chicago, that refineries and oil companies have facilities to make all deliveries and that all the present chaos is due to the "complexities of the rationing system."

2. Frank E. Spencer, president of the Burning Oil Distributors' association, announced the appointment of a committee of 15 members of that organization to meet at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the Union League club with Gov. Dwight H. Green. Spencer also announced that the fuel dealers' committee today will seek a conference with John C. Weigel, regional OPA administrator, on what steps he plans to take to alleviate the suffering caused by the breakdown of the rationing system.

First Denial of Shortage.

Mr. Phillips' statement attracted wide attention, inasmuch as it was the first public denial by the big oil companies of the OPA's contention that there is an actual shortage of fuel oil in the middle western states. The oil companies have been timid about arguing with the Washington burocrats. Phillips, however, flatly said that the alleged shortage of fuel oil is a fake.

Phillips' statement in full read:

"There has been much publicity in the last few days about troubles householders are encountering in securing enough fuel oil to keep warm during the current cold spell.

"In order to set the record clear and straight, I wish to emphasize that there is no shortage of domestic fuel oil in the Chicago area. The refineries here have plenty of fuel oil to keep all oil burning homes comfortable. They have the transportation facilities also to make all necessary deliveries.

"Such difficulties as have appeared are occasioned by the complexities of the rationing system and the sudden imposition of it on the normal distribution system. It is greatly increasing the bookkeeping and paper work of the oil companies, but they seem to

CONGRESS QUITS TODAY; PASSES U. S. PAY RAISE

Votes 1¼ Overtime on 40 Hour Week.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—Nearing the end of its stormy, two year tenure, the 77th congress today passed and sent to the White House a temporary pay raise and overtime pay bill affecting the bulk of the nation's 2½ million federal employés. The measure calls for time and a quarter overtime for work above 40 hours a week for those making up to $5,000 a year except in certain cases in which a flat 10 per cent increase is granted.

Earlier the two chambers, eyeing the calendar which shows only 20 days remaining in the present session, wound up all except a few odds and ends of their affairs and prepared to adjourn sine die before nightfall tomorrow, thus making way for the 78th congress.

It has already been agreed that the new congress will be convened on Jan. 6, with President Roosevelt scheduled to deliver his annual message on the state of the nation before a joint session the following day.

Longest Session in History.

When the adjournment motion is finally passed it will make the end of the 1,079th day that congress has remained in session, a period that undoubtedly will be remembered as the most momentous in our history. It is also the longest period since the founding of the republic in which there has been no adjournment of the legislative branch.

Interrupted only by some brief recesses, this period extends from the beginning of the third session of the 76th congress on Jan. 3, 1940, thru both sessions of the 77th.

Thru legislation adopted during this span, the nation saw the beginning of the armament program and the formulation of administration policies that preceded the historic meeting on Dec. 8 of last year, the day after Pearl Harbor, when war was declared on Japan. Afterwards there came the surrender of vast powers to the executive branch and the hurried passage of many war measures, now followed by the first signs of a revolt against the administration among conservative Democrats which is expected to burst forth early in the next congress.

Pay Bill Passed Unexpectedly.

Passage of the pay raise bill for government pay rollers, probably the last piece of major legislation to be handled in this session, came unexpectedly late this afternoon. It was passed by a voice vote in both chambers after having been brought on the floor under a unanimous consent agreement.

All employés paid on an annual basis and making up to $2,900 a year will receive the time and a quarter overtime, it was explained. Those making between $2,900 and $5,000 will be paid overtime also but only on the basis of $2,900. In no case, the bill provides, can the aggregate salary of any employé—regular pay plus overtime—exceed $5,000.

Legislative, judicial and per diem employés, whose hours are not regular and who do not have an opportunity to work overtime, are to receive a flat 10 per cent increase on the first $2,900 of their earnings, under the same $5,000 ceiling. The measure also revives overtime pay for civilian employés of the army, navy, maritime commission and the national advisory committee for aeronautics, which expired automatically Nov. 30.

Stranded in Chicago

MRS. KATHRYN VELESKA GREGORY LEEMING.

Mrs. Kathryn Veleska Gregory Leeming, who was stripped of her WAAC uniform Monday for strip teasing while AWOL under the name of Amber D'Georg, was stranded in Chicago yesterday without a job, without her brief theatrical accoutrements which were confiscated by the army, and with only a khaki slip to testify to her short spell in the WAAC.

The flip, auburn haired miss, whose curvaceous figure has adorned calenders for several years, sat in a north side hotel room yesterday. "I just got bored with the army and with getting up at the hour when I used to go to bed," she explained.

She went "over the hill," as she called it, from Fort Des Moines, Ia., on Nov. 26 and returned forcibly on Nov. 28 after having given a burlesque audience a Thanksgiving day strip tease treat. She was officially discharged "not with honor," from the WAAC last Saturday.

ALL OF SENATE'S INVESTIGATIONS ARE CALLED OFF

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—The senate adopted a sweeping resolution today which will wipe out, as of next Jan. 31, all authority for senate committee investigations.

Called up by Chairman Lucas [D., Ill.] of the committee on audit and control, the resolution affects 29 investigations by standing committees and 16 by special committees. It includes the committee headed by Sen. Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.] to investigate national defense, the Maloney committee on oil and gasoline shortages, and many others.

Lucas explained he believed the new senate should decide for itself which investigations should continue. Majority Leader Alben Barkley said the resolution did not necessarily mean none of the committees would get an extension of authority.

Soldier Found Dead of Gas; Chicago Relative Listed

A soldier wearing an identification disc bearing the name of Richard Charleston, 43 years old, whose nearest relative is listed as Mrs. Loretta Charleston, 4035 Sheridan road, Chicago, was found dead yesterday in a rooming house in Kansas City, Mo. Another roomer told police he found the man with a blanket wrapped around his head and a tube leading from a gas jet to his mouth. Records in an army radio school in Kansas City show a man named Richard Charleston is enrolled there.

VANDENBERG HITS SNIPING IN U. S. AT DARLAN DEAL

Blasts Willkie's Attack on Gen. Eisenhower.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] charged in the senate today that Wendell Willkie and other "unofficial strategists" on the safe home front are menacing Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's military operations in North Africa by shooting at him from the rear.

By implication Sen. Vandenberg imputed seditious utterances and sabotage of our war in North Africa to Willkie and the other home front critics of Gen. Eisenhower's military arrangement with Adm. Jean Francois Darlan, head of the French government in North Africa. Their assaults are hamstringing Gen. Eisenhower's conduct of the war and imperiling the lives of American, British, and French soldiers, he said.

Quotes Willkie Charge.

The senator did not mention Willkie by name but identified him unmistakably by quoting his charge that Gen. Eisenhower was guilty of "false finagling with expediency."

Altho Willkie, a former Democrat, defeated Vandenberg for the Republican Presidential nomination in 1940, the senator withdrew himself from consideration for the 1944 nomination only yesterday; hence his renunciation of Willkie cannot be ascribed to political rivalry.

Vandenberg, a member of the foreign relations committee, was one of a group of senators with whom Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the army, discussed the whole North African military and political situation shortly after Gen. Eisenhower made his arrangement with Adm. Darlan, which gave up all of French North and West Africa without further bloodshed.

Others Have Been Critical.

Willkie, Dorothy Thompson, the Communist press, Marshall Field's newspapers, and other ideological warriors have accused Gen. Eisenhower of compromising with "Fascism" in collaborating with Adm. Darlan, former No. 2 man in the Vichy French régime.

The so-called Fighting French faction, headed by Gen. Charles de Gaulle, also has condemned the agreement with Darlan on the ground that it will give him a preferential post-war political status in France. They deny that Darlan will keep his promise to retire after the war is won. They contend that the anti-Vichy French underground movement and the French people generally will hesitate to coöperate with the allies when an ultimate landing is made in France unless Darlan is repudiated.

Some of the De Gaullists even predict civil war in France as a result of the military collaboration with Darlan. Implicit in such a prediction is the threat of revolution to overthrow the Vichy régime and set up a De Gaullist government which the allied forces would have to recognize.

Wants "Peace for Keeps."

Sen. Vanderberg conceded that the "post-war pattern of things to come is of supreme concern."

"We want a righteous peace for keeps," he said. "It would be greatly helpful if our complex war objectives could at once be given simple and conclusive definitions—and I certainly have no quarrel with this pursuit. I can understand, for instance, the De Gaullist factional anxieties over African developments—and the De Gaullists have long and honorable credentials. I can understand the reluctance of long distance, long range analysts to rely upon ex-enemies and to embrace them. But I can also understand that our first objective is to win the war. Otherwise our post-war discussions debate a futility in a vacuum. The North African campaign is in the hands of Gen. Eisenhower."

Sen. Vandenberg recalled President Roosevelt's statement that Gen. Eisenhower's arrangement with Darlan "saved British and American lives on the one hand and French lives on the other hand" and that it also "saved a month or two of valuable time."

Points to Broad Scope.

"It obviously has been and is of supreme military importance to the united nations," Vandenberg continued. "It has reached north to Toulon and robbed the axis of most of the French fleet, which, in enemy hands, would have threatened our entire Mediterranean operations. It has reached as far south as Dakar and delivered to our cause—without the firing of a gun—the whole of the most threatening African outpost which we confronted. The entire allied strategy on total 'second front' is interwoven with Eisenhower's coöperative contacts with Darlan, who has magnificently kept every engagement he has made with us.

"Under such life and death circumstances I respectfully suggest that some of our unofficial strategists at home, who by their current criticisms of the Darlan arrangement might succeed in upsetting it, would do better for their country and its fighting sons if they would allow Gen. Eisenhower to win his war as cheaply and as swiftly as possible—saving as many American and British and French lives as possible—saving as much precious time and material as possible—instead of hamstringing him with their anti-Darlan resentments and their post-war ideologies.

Pleads for Eisenhower.

"The general may be guilty of 'false finagling with expediency,' to quote one of his critics. But he is also guilty of 'saving American lives' and of saving 'months of valuable time' and of amazing bloodless victories in the winning of the war.

"If that be a crime I should like to sign his bond. He is out where the shooting is. He is supported by our chief of staff and our commander in chief. He should not be shot at from the rear—and especially from the sanctuary of this safe home front.

"I do not plead for Darlan. I plead for Eisenhower. I plead for his armies. I plead for his forward march. We can cross these other bridges when we have bridges to cross. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

CLAIR HUME.

In the marine corps less than a year, Clair Hume, 23 years old, of Indianapolis, Ind., went to Guadalcanal with the first detachments engaged in the island assault, was wounded and now is convalescing at Great Lakes Naval Training station. Two beds away is George L. Turzal, 18, of Gary, who took part in the same attack. They met for the first time in the hospital.

Hume said most of the early fighting on the island was done at night and that for the most part Japs were easy to shoot because they attacked en masse. A few snipers worked thru the marine lines under cover of darkness, he said, and caused some damage.

Hume and a companion were manning a gun when a Jap leaped into their emplacement at night. His companion killed the Jap. At dawn a shell struck the emplacement and when the smoke cleared Hume was alone. He found shelter behind some sandbags, but a short time later a Jap machine gunner shot him thru his leg. Marines dragged him to safety and naval hospital corpsmen treated his wounds. Hume was placed aboard a destroyer and taken to a Pacific island base hospital where he remained a month and then was returned to San Diego. He was transferred to Great Lakes two weeks ago.

PRESS WIRELESS OPENS PICTURE LINK WITH CHINA

President Sends Message to Chiang Kai-shek.

The first radio-photo service between Asia and America was formally opened yesterday by Press Wireless, Inc., the communications company which distributes foreign news to newspapers and radio stations.

Photographs and other pictorial matter henceforth will be transmitted between Chungking and Los Angeles and then relayed to New York on a daily basis. The same service is available from the United States to China. From New York material received will be distributed to photo and news services and to governmental agencies. The service also will be available to the army and navy for military uses.

President Sends Letter.

President Roosevelt inaugurated the new service by sending a longhand letter for transmission from Washington, D. C., to Chiang Kai-shek, generalissimo of China.

The President told his press conference about the new service, saying that his letter would be in Chungking in about an hour or an hour and a half. Mr. Roosevelt's letter follows in part:

"My dear Generalissimo:

"The once vast distances between our two countries have been successively diminished by the steamship, the radio, the cable, the airplane, and now by this marvel of science I am utilizing today.

"Always sincerely yours,

"FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT."

Complete Accuracy.

Opening of the service made possible for the first time accurate transmission of the Chinese language, with its thousands of characters, between the eastern and western hemispheres.

The Morse code handles only Roman characters. Thus, it has never been able to telegraph the Chinese and other non-Roman languages with complete fidelity.

Such languages heretofore have had to be reduced to Romaji, an approximate phonetic equivalent in Roman characters of the original tongue, before transmission by telegraph.

The new Press Wireless facsimile transmission system, invented by John V. L. Hogan of New York, with W-G-N technicians collaborating, has been placed at the disposal of the Chinese government for use by the press in the distribution of news.

Press Wireless handles all picture and diagrammatic matter now transmitted between the United States and Moscow. This link between America and Russia already greatly speeds the delivery orders for war equipment. Drawings and working instructions for weapons, ammunition, and other machinery of war can be directly transmitted over this circuit. Besides saving time, the danger of error in transmitting such information is obviated.

Prevention of Interception.

Press Wireless is developing a system to prevent interception by enemies of such communications.

Press Wireless now is looking ahead to the establishment of international facsimile circuits which will greatly increase the amount of pictorial matter that can be handled each day.

Joseph Pierson, president and general manager, can recall the beginning of the company, developed under THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's leadership, when the volume of news handled daily was exceedingly meager. Today the company's total newscast is about six million words a day.

Reproduction By Radio.

Facsimile represents the reproduction by radio of pictorial, diagrammatic, drawn, or typographical matter in black and white. Weather maps illustrate well the capacity of this medium. The facsimile system developed by Press Wireless records the matter on a chemically treated roll of white paper about as wide as an ordinary typewritten sheet.

The paper is "scanned," with the contact effected by a spiral wire passing back and forth over the sheet. The process is electrolytic and involves response to light of the black and white matter transmitted. The paper is propelled forward as the scanning continues at the rate of about two inches a minute.

ASSERTS ALLIED WAR COUNCIL IS NOT PRACTICAL

LONDON, Dec. 15 (AP).—Dominions Secretary Clement Attlee today said the formation of a supreme imperial war cabinet or supreme allied war council "sounds nice and logical but, unfortunately, it is completey impractical. You cannot conduct a war by means of a massmeeting," Attlee told the Royal Empire society. "The assemblage of delegates who would have to report back very important questions to their governments would slow down the whole machine."

CANADA [population, 11,419,896]—Active army, 335,000; navy, 45,000 and 450 ships; air force, 150,000.

AUSTRALIA [population, 6,997,326]—Navy, 20,000; air force, 100,000; army, "a tremendous increase."

NEW ZEALAND [population, 1,573,810]—Overseas army, 66,000; air force, more than 20,000.

SOUTH AFRICA [population, 2,003,857 Europeans]—In 1941: Army, 130,000; air force, 22,000.

NEWFOUNDLAND [population about 300,000]—One man in every four between the ages of 20 and 40 has volunteered to serve abroad.

SOUTHERN RHODESIA [population, 69,013 European, 1,372,905 native]—Air force, more than 1,000 Europeans.

HOW DRAFT LAWS WORK IN AMERICA, BRITAIN, EMPIRE

Summary of Regulations Shows Who Is Called.

Announcement of recent selective service regulations in the United States, one of which reduced the draft age to 18 years, has renewed interest in comparison of the draft laws of the United States and those in force thruout the British empire. Herewith is a summary of the conscription laws of the United States and Britain and its empire.

UNITED STATES

All men between 18 and 64 inclusive have been registered for conscription, but only those between 18 and 44 can be called for combat duty. Men over 38 are being temporarily withheld from induction until the McNutt war man power commission puts them into war production, if qualified. If not qualified, they may be inducted.

All American draftees may be sent to foreign duty, no special units being restricted to home guard. Altho regulations were issued recently to halt enlistments, except for the 17-18 group and those between 38 and 45 with special skills, these restrictions were lifted on Dec. 15. Until Feb. 1 volunteers will be accepted for the army, navy, marine corps, or coast guard. After Feb. 1 it is planned to place the navy, marine corps, and coast guard under the same draft quota system as operates for the army. Those registered for conscription who are not called for military service may be drafted for war labor.

There has been no conscription of women, but women's auxiliaries are being organized from volunteers to relieve men for combat service.

GREAT BRITAIN

All men and women aged 18-50 may be called for the forces or civil defense, except for married women living with their husbands or women with their own or adopted children under 14 living with them. All men aged 18-50 and women 18-45 have been registered for the forces [including civil defense] or for war labor. All Britons 16-60 may be called for part time civil defense duties.

Of the men, the 18-45 group has been called up. Men 46-50 have been registered for industry. Single women 20-30 are liable to be called for the forces and the 20-24 class already has been inducted. All British forces, except the home guard, may be sent anywhere for service.

CANADA

Men 20-25 and women 20-24 have been conscripted, altho all men up to 45 are eligible for draft. Draftees have no choice of branch of service, altho preferences are given consideration. Canada's draft law prohibits draftees being sent outside Canada, but a recent plebiscite gave the government permission to delete that barrier. Altho no new law has been passed to send conscriptees overseas, actually both conscripts and volunteers are being sent outside Canada. A general labor draft for war industries is in effect in Canada.

AUSTRALIA

All men and women between 16 and 60 may be drafted for military service or industry. All single men 18-45 and married men 18-35 have been called for home defense. Women have been drafted for auxiliary war service. The man power authority functions somewhat as a war labor draft board in its rule of workers.

While overseas service is voluntary and draftees are restricted to home duty, the government is seeking authority to send Australian conscripts outside the commonwealth. Selectees have no choice of branch of service. Volunteer women's auxiliaries are being raised.

NEW ZEALAND

Men 18-45 are liable to conscription, with the 21-40 group subject to overseas duty. On Dec. 22 the last class of married men between 40 and 45 will be called. Air raid precaution or home guard duty are compulsory. Women 21-30, except those with dependent children, may be drafted for essential industry. Men in the 18-66 group not in the services have been called for civil defense. A women's army corps is being organized among those 21 to 45.

INDIA

All European British subjects [other than those permanently domiciled in India] between 18 and 50 may be conscripted for army or labor. There is no conscription among Indian natives, the native army of 1,500,000 having been raised among volunteers, who are signing up at rate of about 70,000 monthly. There is no restriction on overseas service.

SOUTH AFRICA

While there is no conscription in South Africa, the 1912 defense act provides that every citizen shall be liable between his 17th and 60th year, inclusive, to render in time of war personal service in the defense of the union in any part of South Africa. All men in this class are liable only for home defense, but a volunteer force of 200,000 has been raised to serve anywhere in Africa. The government now is seeking authority to send troops outside the continent.

NORTHERN IRELAND

No draft law is in effect in Northern Ireland, all service being voluntary. In May, 1941, widespread opposition caused Britain to drop a move to apply its general conscription to Ulster.

In other parts of the British empire, home defense units and volunteer fighting forces are being raised.

MRS. JOHN ROOSEVELT.

San Diego, Cal., Dec. 15 (AP).—A girl was born tonight to Lt. [j. g.] John Roosevelt, the President's youngest son, and Mrs. Roosevelt, the former Anne Lindsay Clark of Nahant, Mass. The Roosevelts, married in 1938, have a son, Haven, 2½. The new arrival's name was not reported. Lt. Roosevelt is on navy duty in San Diego.

DOCTORS MAY BE CONSCRIPTED FOR CIVILIAN SERVICE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—A naval officer concerned with the procurement of physicians for wartime duties said today that compulsory assignment of doctors might be necessary to serve some civilian areas.

Comm. Max Lapham, executive officer of the procurement and assignment service, said he believed many of the approximately 1,500 yearly graduates in medicine would voluntarily go to critical areas, but if the voluntary relocation failed to work, "some form of compulsion will be necessary."

Comm. Lapham and Dr. Joseph Mountin, assistant surgeon general of the public health service, told an education and labor subcommittee that PHS has requested funds to subsidize doctors who voluntarily undertook practice in communities lacking physicians.

Col. George Baehr, chief medical officer for the office of civilian defense, suggested the commissioning of doctors by the PHS, a uniformed organization, for assignment to civilian duty. Dr. Mountin said he believed that would present difficulties because of varied state medical practice acts.

Dr. Mountin said a survey showed Norfolk, Va., physicians had dwindled from 135 to 100 while the city's population doubled.

DEMAND ACTION TO CUT FUEL OIL BARRIER AT ONCE

Says Supply Adequate.

"Fuel oil distributors here can supply the needed oil and still ship to the east all the domestic fuel oil for which transportation facilities can be provided at this time."

Spencer said the fact Mulcahy had telegraphed Washington to ask for more fuel oil for metropolitan Chicago users was an indication the local rationing boss recognized the chaos into which the regulations, and red tape accompanying them, have thrown the fuel oil situation here.

Spencer contended that Mulcahy has not gone half far enough in his appeal for relief.

Ask Immediate Action.

"We demand that Mulcahy and John P. Weigel ask Henderson to make radical changes and remove the red tape and impossible provisions from the oil delivery regulations," Spencer said. "That is the only way to bring some kind of order out of the muddle into which oil rationing has plunged us."

The committee appointed by President Spencer of the distributors to work out a substitute and workable program and to meet with the governor tomorrow consists of the following:

E. W. Miles of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana; M. H. Holmgren of the Hughes Oil company; F. B. Caldwell, secretary of the distributors' association; R. F. Doepel, Braun Brothers Oil company; A. H. Sus of the Sinclair Refining company; R. J. Kelly of the Deep Rock Oil corporation; J. P. Barclay of the Pure Oil company; George S. Speaker of the Cities Service company; C. R. Jonswold of the Triangle Oil company; Fred V. Ockerlund of Socony-Vacuum company; Julius Loeffler of Commerce Petroleum company; C. S. Rosenthal of Apex Motor Fuel Oil company, and Oscar Peterson of the George C. Peterson company.

Show Need Thru Area.

Reports from surrounding towns and counties, including Joliet in Will county, Elgin in Kane county, and Waukegan in Lake county, showed that the chaos in Chicago also obtains in the outlying districts and that at least 10 per cent of those who should have their oil coupons still have not been rationed them by the boards.

Oil companies reported that in virtually every one of their offices are hundreds of orders for oil which they can't deliver because consumers have not obtained coupons. Walter J. Jacobsen, head of the A. & A. Oil company, at 2053 S. Grove street, said he has more than 2,000 such orders for from 50 to 150 gallons each on file and that most of these are for persons who burn small oil stoves in their flats and homes.

Weigel Studies Needs.

Weigel, regional OPA administrator, said he has received a copy of Mulcahy's plea for more oil and that he is studying the statistics set forth by the rationing administrator.

Mulcahy, after he had investigated some 72 of 150 complaints from oil users handed him Monday by the distributors, continued to insist "there has been no hardship in Chicago because of lack of oil, and there will be none."

The Evanston city council approved a resolution introduced by Ald. Clinton Merrick of the suburb's 2d ward, instructing Mayor S. G. Ingraham to telegraph Illinois senators and congressmen protesting the fuel oil muddle and urging that it be rectified immediately.

Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th], a physician, who heads Mayor Kelly's special council committee to investigate fuel oil rationing, announced he has called a meeting of that body in the city council chambers for 2 p. m. Friday. He said distributors, consumers, and all others interested are invited and that the hearing will be a public one.

In Lake county, an effort by Paul King, chairman of the rationing board, to have major oil dealers make small emergency deliveries until the end of the week, when boards will have caught up with coupon issuing, met with indifferent success.

The Socony-Vacuum company of Chicago refused flatly to go along with the King request on the ground that it would violate federal law and lay the violators open to $10,000 fines and one year prison terms. Similar response came from the Liberty Oil company of Grayslake and Waukegan.

The S. & S. Petroleum Products company of Round Lake and the Fox Lake Oil company announced they would issue 5 and 10 gallon allotments without coupons to those filing affidavits of need.

OFFICIALS HEAR WOES

Aldermen and county commissioners yesterday expressed their opinions and told their experiences with rationing. Both said they had complaints from constituents. Practically all the aldermen said they thought the amounts rationed to people too low; most of them said a lot of the red tape which goes with the system can and should be eliminated.

"The home owners need more oil and they should have it," said Ald. James R. Quinn [50th]. "Many people in my ward are dissatisfied and rightly so."

Ald. Joseph S. Gillespie [29th] said: "Naturally a lot of the people are worried. They just haven't enough oil allotted to them to get by. Personally, I'm worrying about what I'm going to do. I know I won't get by on my oil allotment."

Poor Man Suffers.

Ald. Bryan Hartnett [12th] said: "The poor man, who can't afford to insulate and put on storm windows is the one who suffers most." He said the program simply does not allow enough oil.

Most of those using oil for heating in his ward use only small room units, Ald. George D. Kells [28th] said. "The big trouble," he added, "is that those who have central units using oil don't have large enough allotments."

President Clayton F. Smith of the county board said: "Rationing has been a tremendous job, aggravated by a record cold spell. When the proper adjustments are made I think it will work out."

Commissioner William Erickson said "it is highly unfortunate that the citizens are deprived of heat and winter comfort thru the burocratic handling of rationing."

Every One Is Confused.

"Everything seems to be confusion in the north end of the county," said Commissioner William Busse. "The record cold should be taken into consideration and more oil allotted."

"Answering the oil questionnaires requires the services of an engineer," said Commissioner Frank Bobritzke. "It seems the boards haven't sufficient personnel."

"There have been too many complications," said Commissioner George Miller. People don't understand the purpose of the cutdown. People never wasted oil and now that their normal needs are reduced they face hardship."

She's a Cab Driver

MRS. VIOLET MARIE WYETH.

Action on the divorce bill of Mrs. Violet Marie Wyeth, 20 years old, 11569 Lafayette avenue, a cab driver, was delayed by Judge Thomas J. Lynch in Circuit court yesterday pending an investigation by Master-in-Chancery Isadore Brown to determine whether her husband, Pvt. Woodrow Wilson Wyeth, 27, Camp Polk, La., is aware of the proceedings. Mrs. Wyeth, represented by Sander A. Kane, charged that Wyeth was cruel to her when she criticized him for drinking.

FRESH HOARDING ADDS TO CRISIS ON WEST COAST

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 15 [Special].—Southern California's food crisis became more aggravated today with fresh runs on canned goods and other commodities which can be hoarded.

Packers, dairymen, farmers, and jobbers joined retailers and consumers in hoping for governmental relief by Jan. 1, but they agreed almost unanimously that Christmas dinners will be strange indeed.

Furthermore, runs began today on soap and soap powder, and fresh vegetable prices continued to rise. A milk industry authority warned of an impending milk shortage to cap the area's troubles.

Blame Worker Influx.

A survey disclosed that spokesmen blame high raw material costs, high labor costs, the flood of war workers who have increased food demands, and the huge supplies being sent to the army, navy, marine corps and lend-lease destinations.

A packers' spokesman said rationing will distribute meat more equally to civilians. He declared there is plenty of live stock on hand, but that it is impossible to predict what the situation would be in a year if slaughterers were permitted to kill at will.

The office of price administration contends that the critical meat shortage resulted because some slaughterers failed to spread their meat kill over the October-November-December quarter, with the result that their quotas were exhausted early in the period. Slow trains accented the trouble.

Eggs are almost as rare as Gutenburg Bibles. F. M. Hudson, produce exchange manager, explained that the chaotic situation developed when the government set ceilings on the retail base from Sept. 28 thru Oct. 2.

Ceiling Brings Problem.

Large eggs at that time were selling at 49½ cents wholesale in Los Angeles and 50½ cents wholesale in San Francisco. Los Angeles produces only 40 per cent of the eggs it consumes. It has to get eggs from Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and Utah.

But shippers in these areas are sending eggs to San Francisco because the higher retail ceiling there permits higher payments to producers.

Tradesmen large and small excoriated officials in Washington, D. C., for bungling the situation, and several pointed accusing fingers at housewives who hoard.

W. D. Hadeler, San Francisco executive secretary of the California Retail Grocers and Merchants association, arrived here after a statewide inspection tour and said some areas have ample butter supplies and he cannot understand why it is not being shipped here.

STILLS ARE DOWN, BUT CHRISTMAS CHEER ABOUNDS

U. S. Sees No Shortage of Liquor Soon.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—Altho liquor production is at a standstill because of the war, government experts see no dearth of Christmas cheer this year for those who have the money to buy. Or next year, either, for that matter.

In fact, says Stewart Berkshire, deputy commissioner of the treasury's alcohol tax unit, government warehouses are bulging with enough liquor to meet normal requirements for about three and a half years.

Reports of shortages developing in some sections, he said, are probably due to transportation difficulties or other causes of a purely local nature.

Rationing in Some States.

Rationing on the basis of a quart a day per person has been instituted by Ohio state liquor stores and a more comprehensive card rationing system is planned next month. North Carolina stores also have begun rationing and in New York some dealers have suggested a voluntary plan. In Utah purchases have been limited to a quart a week.

Shortages in areas where rationing has been adopted or is under consideration were attributed to shipping difficulties, heavy buying by consumers anxious to avoid payment of the additional tax which became effective Nov. 1, and in some cases to speculative buying.

550,000,000 Gallons Ready.

Except in isolated cases, Berkshire sees no prospect of serious shortages in the immediate future. He estimated there are about 550,000,000 gallons of liquor stored thruout the country and pointed out that normal consumption is about 150,000,000 gallons a year.

Whisky production has been shut down under a war production board order converting distilleries to the production of industrial alcohol, but the distillers have been given to understand that they may get occasional "vacations" during which they can turn out whisky.

Scotch drinkers, too, apparently are assured of a steady supply. Importers estimated that despite the war, Scotch imports are being maintained at normal levels of around 7,000,000 gallons a year.

15,000 Face Draft for British Coal Industry

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Altho hundreds of young men between 18 and 25 years old volunteered to work in the coal mines rather than be conscripted for war, at least 15,000 more will be drafted into the coal industry by next March, the ministry of fuel announced today.

DEWEY CHARGES OPA BUNGLERS CAUSE OIL CHAOS

Tells Congress People Are Duped by Theorists.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rep. Charles S. Dewey.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—Members of congress today laid the responsibility for Chicago's chaotic oil situation directly on the bungling and theoretical methods of burocrats who are administering oil rationing.

Rep. Charles S. Dewey [R., Ill.] charged in the house that university professors in OPA, instead of having a rationing program that would be understandable and easily administered, have devised a "rationing system that even Dr. Einstein would find difficult to comprehend."

Dewey said he referred to Joel Dean, director of the OPA fuel oil rationing division, who was imported to the OPA from the faculty of the University of Chicago. During the day a request by Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago OPA director, for an increase in fuel oil rations for Chicago was referred to Dean for investigation.

OPA Threatens Oil Firms.

Thus the investigation of com-complaints that the rationing system has broken down will be investigated by Dean, the man who devised the system.

It was learned also that the OPA has brought pressure on large oil companies to "call off" the torrents of protests by Chicago oil distributors who have charged that the oil ration plan is unworkable. This intimidation campaign, it was said, has taken the form of threats by OPA to take drastic action against the big oil companies unless they gag the criticism by distributors.

Rep. Dewey, in his speech before the house, stressed that the shortage of fuel oil for Chicagoans is not caused by lack of transportation.

Says Choice Unwise.

"The people of Chicago are suffering today," he said, "simply because those in charge of oil rationing lack the administrative ability to handle the problem. While I have the highest regard for university professors in the performance of their tasks of instruction, it is beyond my understanding why one of them, however, learned he may be in the classroom or however erudite he may be on the lecture platform, should be selected to administer the rationing of an important commodity such as fuel oil.

"Contrary to the apparent impression of the learned Prof. Dean, the American people are not immature school boys. It is not necessary that they be regimented. They will accept rationing, but the American people expect and have the right to expect that those in charge of the program show some sense and administrativ ability.

"The complicated, impractical formula which the learned university professor has devised starts with the premise that the American public is not honest and that in the winter of 1941-'42 they burned fuel oil in their furnaces, not to provide necessary heat but just for the sheer joy of consuming it. It is another example of the 'reform complex' so evident in this burocratic administration."

Have Surplus, Says Johnson.

Rep. Anton J. Johnson [R., Ill.] declared that fuel oil rationing in his district is entirely unnecessary because small oil companies are already producing more oil than they know what to do with and the surplus cannot be shipped to the east coast because of a lack of transportation. Johnson's home is in Macomb, Ill., near an area of producing oil wells.

Rep. Stephen A. Day [R., Ill.] asserted that the involved OPA rationing plan was an "experiment" evolved by the burocrats and has resulted in a "purely artificial basis" for making allotments. There is plenty of oil available in the midwest and capable administration would relieve the hardships on householders, Day said.

Rep. James V. Heidinger [R., Ill.] said he has opposed fuel oil rationing in Illinois from the start because there is plenty of oil there.

Beats Deadline to Enter Navy

State Police Help

Assistance of the state police was necessary yesterday to get Vernon Stogsdill, 20 years old, 5022 South Ashland avenue, past the naval flight selection board before midnight, then the deadline for enlistments. Stogsdill, a defense worker, needed a waiver signed by his parents to permit the navy to perform a minor operation. With only 24 hours to get the signed paper back to the board, Stogsdill drove to the farm home of his parents near Argenta, Ill., Monday night. Returning yesterday, his car skidded on an icy road near Peotone and crashed into a filling station. He finished the 34 mile trip to Chicago in a state police car. Later the six weeks extension of the period for enlistments was announced in Washington, D. C.

HOTEL WINS RENT SUIT TO INCREASE RATES OF ROOMS

Judge John P. Barnes in the federal District court yesterday entered a consent decree against the Croydon hotel, 616 Rush street, under which the hotel agreed to abide by price ceilings. The Croydon was one of several hotels accused of charging higher rentals to army officers. The hotel won an important finding in that under the consent decree it is classified as a hotel proper and thus is able to charge rates for multiple occupancy; also it is entitled to slightly higher rates. Originally, the Croydon had been classified as a nonhotel on the ground that more than 50 per cent of its occupancy was permanent. This served to place it in the category of an apartment house, which under the regulations may charge so much per room whether occupied by one or more persons.

CITY TO DELAY ANY ACTION ON MILK CARTONS

The city council's health committee has no intention of considering an ordinance declaring sale of milk in paper containers legal until there is a final decision by the courts as to weather the city has authority to ban the paper milk cartons, Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th], committee chairman, said last night.

"There is more involved here than paper milk bottles," Ross said. "The big question is whether the city has the right to determine what food containers can be used within the city limits. Under the injunction by the court, the paper cartons are being used at least until the court finally rules on the matter, and therefore there would be no hurry about passing such an ordinance should the council favor it."

MISSION ON WAY TO FIND OUT HOW REDS GET RUBBER

U. S. to Study Successful Soviet Methods.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—An American rubber mission of four men is en route to Russia, it was announced today by Rubber Director William M. Jeffers. The trip is planned as an initial exchange between the two allies of technical information on this vital war material.

The Russians have been producing synthetic rubber successfully for 10 years, using both petroleum and alcohol as raw materials. The soviet also has been obtaining large quantities of natural rubber from a native dandelion, now being cultivated in experimental plots in America by the department of agriculture.

Reported Getting Jap Rubber.

A third source of rubber for Stalin's armies is Japan, according to a report widely circulated in official Washington but lacking official confirmation. The Nipponese have captured the peace time source of 90 per cent of the world's natural rubber. Japan and Russia are not at war with each other altho their troops are face to face in Asia.

The rubber mission, which departed last Saturday, more than a year after America and Russia became engaged in a common war against Hitler, is headed by Ernest W. Pittman of New York, president of the Interchemical corporation. He was a dollar a year consultant to the war production board's rubber coördinator before Jeffers' post was created.

The other three members of the mission are Dr. Willis A. Gibbons of Montclair, N. J., director of development for the United States Rubber company; Irving L. Murray of Charleston, W. Va., chief process engineer for the Carbide and Carbon Chemicals corporation; and Dr. Aristid V. Grosse of New York City, who has been engaged in war research work for the office of scientific research and development at Columbia university.

Delay Criticized.

The tardiness of this interchange of technical information was roundly condemned two months ago in a report to the President by a special rubber advisory committee headed by Bernard M. Baruch. The report said this delinquency was "one example of inexplicable administration."

"Had the offer of the soviet government made in February to exchange full information been accepted," the Baruch committee continued, "it is conceivable that plants for producing synthetic rubber by the Russian processes might well be on the way to completion. To date we have no information as to the Russian experience or analyses of Russian tires."

In the meantime, American industry is still perplexed by technical problems encountered in developing a synthetic rubber industry here. Jeffers about 10 days ago reported publicly that there is risk of a military and economic crisis late next year due to a rubber shortage, including delays in the synthetic program.

The bureau of plant industries of the United States department of agriculture has experimental plots of Russian dandelion in 42 states, in Canada and in Alaska. The plant resembles the American weed, which lacks the rubber content in practical quantities.

The experimental plots are too small to produce substantial quantities, but the yield has been promising, according to bureau attachés.

VINDICATED IN U.S. COURT'S DECISION, BOWEN ASSERTS

A. L. Bowen, former state director of public welfare, said in Springfield yesterday that a United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruling that state public officials may not be sued by individuals for acts or failures to act in performance of their official duties was a vindication of his administration.

The court recently dismissed civil suits aggregating $190,000 against Bowen and three employés in his department. The suits were filed after a typhoid epidemic at the Manteno State hospital in 1939 which cost the lives of several patients.

The court held that the officials are responsible to the state alone and may not be sued by private citizens for damages. Bowen was found guilty of malfeasance in connection with the epidemic, but the Illinois Supreme court reversed the decision.

COAL HARD TO GET BUT OPA WANTS MORE OF IT USED

City Hall Bins Running Low; Dealers Pressed.

Despite the fact that a serious coal shortage is possible in Chicago, oil rationing officials in Washington, D. C., continue to seek conversion of all oil plants to furnaces burning coal. Only yesterday a new order shutting down purchases of oil heaters was issued by Leon Henderson, OPA ditor. [Details in another column on this page.]

Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works, who purchases all coal for the city hall, the central police building at 11th and State streets, and the water cribs, said last night that only on three or four days out of the last month has there been a supply of more than 36 hours of coal in the city hall bins.

18 Hours' Supply.

"Once in the last few weeks we got down to a supply sufficient for only 18 hours," Hewitt said. "I thought then I would have to suggest the closing of the city hall for lack of heat. I still think I might have had to do it if I hadn't gone into the open market and been able to purchase 300 tons to last until we got more from the regular coal contractor and mine owners from whom we buy.

"The mine owners blamed their failure to supply the city properly on a fire they'd had in the mines in October, when, they said, it took them two weeks to get it out. Then, they said, a turbine had broken down.

"They also said the railroads were demanding a lot more coal.

Police Building Too.

"The same condition that obtains at the city hall also may be found at the police building. If we got a really bitter cold spell I don't know how we'd get by. We might under such conditions be compelled to close one or both buildings. It all depends, of course, on how the supply, which recently has seemed so short, keeps up."

Other coal men admit there is a shortage of coal due to the unusual demand. Oil men recently said several of the larger coal merchants were hoping that too many oil users would not be able to convert to coal. They said coal men were not seeking new business.

At an oil men's meeting a few days ago, John Wagner of Cutten Brothers of Wilmette, said coal men were having their troubles as well as the oil men.

"We have range hard coal that has been on order eight to ten weeks," Wagner said. "We have cannel [fine texture] coal that has been on order and that we cannot get. We've been out of it since Sept. 17.

"Our mines refuse to accept any orders for any deliveries at any time soon. The Indiana mines were asked to submit bids for 100,000 tons of coal. The government sent out 20 bids and received no answers. The mine owners were asked why. They replied, 'We are all sold out, it is impossible to submit any bids.'

"The government said, 'We want 100,000 tons of coal and it is coming out of the domestic trade or what goes to the domestic trade.'"

Report Sen. Brown to Replace Henderson as OPA Director

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—The resignation of Leon Henderson as head of the office of price administration and his replacement by Sen. Prentiss M. Brown [D., Mich.] who was defeated in his race for reelection last November, is under consideration, it was learned today.

Prentiss M. Brown.

It was reported that Henderson, discouraged by increasing opposition from members of congress and citizens to his autocratic price and rationing policies, has offered his resignation to President Roosevelt and his recommended Brown, a faithful administration follower, as his successor.

Lunch with President.

Brown and James F. Byrnes, economic stabilization director, had lunch with the President today, and the proposed appointment of Brown to the OPA job was discussed altho no decision was reached, according to informed sources.

"The President invited Justice Byrnes and myself to lunch," Brown said. "We talked over various matters in connection with the administrative and legislative situation. Discussion was had as to how I might be of assistance to the administration, but no definite commitments were made."

Brown is reported to have told the President he would take the job of OPA director on the condition that he be allowed to rule out the arbitrary Gestapo methods which have been increasingly employed by Henderson. According to his friends, Brown believes that far greater emphasis should be placed on voluntary compliance with rationing and price regulations and that the use of thousands of inspectors to check up on the nation's citizens should be abandoned.

Brown Sponsored Act.

It was said that Brown, who sponsored the emergency price control act adopted by congress in September, is not proposing to lift the lid completely on price and rationing regulations, but wants to rely largely on the loyalty of citizens for compliance with OPA rulings.

President Roosevelt said at his press conference today that reports Henderson would resign were not true. In some quarters, it was believed likely that the President, who is noted for making new appointments without ousting any one else, might make room for both Henderson and Brown in the OPA setup.

One such plan, reported to be under consideration, would split the OPA into two parts and place either Henderson or Brown in charge of rationing and the other in charge of price control. Both of these functions are at present administered by Henderson as OPA director.

BRODIE + ELROD + JOURNEY = 24TH WARD MYSTERY

Coroner A. L. Brodie and Arthur X. Elrod, newly chosen Democratic committeeman of the 24th ward, left Chicago yesterday aboard a Santa Fe train bound for the far west and thereby set in motion two stories or rumors: [1] That all is not well in the 24th ward; and [2] that all is well in the 24th ward.

One set of guesses was that Brodie and Elrod were on their way to lay their troubles and the ward's in the lap of Lieut. Col. Jacob M. Arvey, former Democratic boss and alderman of the west side ward that goes 24 to 1 or 2 for the Kelly-Nash Democratic machine. Others surmised that, inasmuch as Elrod is now the titular boss of the ward, he and Brodie, who has been the chairman of the ward club, were merely going away for a rest.

A few weeks ago there was talk of seeking excursion rates for 24th ward Democrats who were going in droves to see Lieut. Col. Arvey in camp near Tacoma, Wash. A few weeks ago Arvey was reported to have sent back a peace pact and his former secretary, Elrod, was named ward committeeman, in place of Ald. Fred Fischman, who, under the Arvey peace plan, was to be permitted to keep Arvey's seat in the city council warm until the war is over. Elrod is to swing Arvey's baton in marshaling the voters to rally back of Mayor Kelly's battle cry, a caller was advised, and there is no need right now to ask Arvey to get the war off his mind and help his old pal, Kelly.

New Lake County Sheriff Gets Gold Star at Dinner

City officials of North Chicago were hosts at an inauguration dinner in the American Legion home in North Chicago last night in honor of Walter L. Atkinson, who took office as Lake county sheriff Dec. 7. Police and city officials were present from Waukegan and other Lake county cities and towns. A turkey dinner was served and Mayor John P. Dromey of North Chicago presented Atkinson with a gold star.

ORDER RATIONING OF COAL AND OIL HEATING STOVES

Seek to Spur Conversion from Petroleum.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 [Special].—Rationing of coal and oil heating stoves for private dwellings will be put into effect Friday in the 30 state fuel oil rationing area, the office of price administration announced today.

The program virtually suspends oil heater sales, but makes coal heaters freely available to householders wishing to convert from oil to coal.

OPA officials said the action was taken as a result of an emergency request from the war production board. The program aims at stimulating conversion to coal by assuring coal stoves to those seeking to convert. It also seeks to insure that deserving persons get coal heating stoves made from iron and steel recently diverted for the purpose by WPB. Cooking stoves and those designed to burn wood exclusively are not affected by the order.

Seek to Replace Oil Units.

Primarily eligible to buy a coal heater are householders who will use the new stove to replace oil burning equipment.

Others eligible are persons needing a stove to heat essential living or working space now unheated and who have not disposed of any usable heating equipment within 60 days before applying.

Also eligible are persons whose present coal burning equipment is damaged or worn out and persons who are entitled under fuel oil rationing to an auxiliary ration of 350 gallons or more of oil and who will use coal burning equipment instead.

Oil Stove Curbs Tight.

Restrictions on oil stove sales were regarded as severe. Issuance of purchase certificates will be limited to those replacing oil burning equipment beyond repair.

Such applicants must be prepared to satisfy their boards on one of the following counts: That no one in the household is physically able to operate coal burning equipment; that the space to be heated is a house-trailer; that no coal burning equipment is available, or that the space to be heated has no flue, chimney, or other provision for venting.

ENTIRE MIDWEST STRUGGLES WITH FUEL OIL CHAOS

City After City Reports Ration Muddle.

A survey of the fuel oil rationing situation thruout the middle west, conducted yesterday by THE TRIBUNE, disclosed that confusion and dissatisfaction over rationing regulations is general, and that fears of heatless homes under inequitable quotas are widespread and apparently well grounded. Loudest protests came from west of the Mississippi river where coal shortages have been regular occurrences, even in normal times, and where abundant oil surpluses add to the bewilderment of dealers and consumers.

Here are the dispatches:

KANSAS CITY, MO.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 15 [Special]. —The oil users of this city—an estimated 9,000 of them—are up in arms over fuel oil rationing with heatless homes in prospect in many instances unless regulations are relaxed.

Several members of rationing boards have resigned within the last few days, explaining that government restrictions have made it impossible for them to handle the job with any degree of fairness. C. Hubert Tinsman, chairman of the Jackson county fuel oil advisory committee, has sent a demand to Washington under threat of resignation that "inequalities and injustices" of the rationing program be eliminated.

Community of Oil Surpluses.

Bitter criticism has been directed against imposition of rationing in a community overflowing with oil surpluses and where there is a shortage of solid fuels every winter, even in normal times. The coal shortage confronting western Missouri, eastern Kansas and portions of Iowa, Nebraska and Oklahoma has been estimated at from one to two million tons this winter, with an additional 1,650,000 ton shortage expected to result from a decrease in natural gas supplies resulting from bans on pipeline construction to new fields.

A rationing board official said protests were coming from all classes of fuel users, those in small as well as large homes. Some persons have received cuts of as much as 75 per cent, he said.

Instances of Hardships.

Instances of rationing shortcomings included the following:

One woman with three children under 4 years old found that her coupons entitled her to only 280 gallons of oil for the year. She had burned 150 gallons of oil in the last 45 days in her parlor furnace type oil burner and was told these must come out of her 280 gallon quota. With oil in her tank for about 10 days, she was informed by her dealer that he could not deliver any oil to her until the latter part of December.

A suburban resident, protesting the decrease in his gallonage from 1,600 to 1,100, said he was told, "You should have asked for 2,600 gallons. We cut them all a third."

Cut to Less Than Half.

Another householder, wife of a soldier, said she used 2,800 gallons last year to heat her seven room house, in which five persons live, and that her quota has been set at 1,343 gallons.

"We will be driven from our home," exclaimed a man who heated his five room duplex flat with 1,200 gallons last winter. He said his quota has been fixed at 855 gallons.

An apartment house owner whose ration was cut in half said he was happy about it. "My tenants will all be driven out," he exclaimed. "Then I can fix up the building and get a good price for it in the present real estate market."

MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 15 [Special]. —Immediate revision of fuel oil ration regulations was demanded here today by 40 wholesale oil dealers of Milwaukee and adjoining counties who held a protest meeting in the office of Don Allen, chief rationing director in Wisconsin for the office of price administration.

Allen promised the dealers he would make a full report of the meeting to his superiors in Washington and said he would summarize reasons advanced by them in support of their demands for revision.

Charges Bungling at Worst.

"The present method of rationing fuel oil is the worst job of bungling I have ever seen in any methods of handling oil," H. A. Rohde of the Great Lakes Petroleum company, who has been in the fuel oil business here since 1912, asserted at the meeting. "It is worse than amateurish.

"Thru the present method of rationing more man hours are wasted than would be balanced by the saving on fuel oil," Rohde said. "We, like all other industries, are short of man power. We can now make only two deliveries where we used to make five. Present rationing methods waste tires which we are called upon to conserve."

Rohde predicted that the whole rationing project will fall to pieces unless the program is promptly revised.

John Budde, Wisconsin manager for the Standard Oil company, presided at the meeting. Others who denounced rationing regulations were Julius Sely of Cudahy, J. G. Peterson of Waukesha, Louis Kern, Lew Barnes and Walter Schroeder of Milwaukee, all wholesale oil dealers, and Roy L. Brecke, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Petroleum association.

Brecke described the coupon system of delivering oil as a "headache." He said his organization is advising drivers to leave oil at homes where they find no one at home who can give them coupons. Unless this is done the oil would have to be hauled back and the trip would be a complete loss, he said.

The dealers said that Wisconsin normally uses about 100,000,000 gallons of fuel oil a year. There is now no oil shortage in the state, it was said, altho the fear was expressed that a shortage may develop if normal supplies are diverted to eastern sections of the country.

OMAHA, NEB.

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 15 [Special].—Nebraskans are confused by a contradictory situation confronting them. OPA is rationing their plentiful supply of oil flowing into Omaha thru four pipelines and into other sections by more lines. They are told they must use coal, which has to be shipped in and is getting progressively harder to get because of labor shortages in mines and transport facilities.

Many people, including dealers, are of the opinion that fuel oil rationing was imposed here merely to satisfy the east "because misery loves company."

"I see nothing acceptable in fuel oil rationing for Nebraska," said Gov. Dwight Griswold. "I have received numerous complaints from persons subjected to tremendous difficulties because of the program. People are being rationed here, altho fuel is standing around in pools on the ground."

DETROIT, MICH.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 15 [Special].—Distribution difficulties are prolonging the fuel oil bottleneck which existed here over the week-end, a survey of the oil rationing situation here revealed today. Representatives of the office of price administration asserted that less than 5 per cent of the 120,000 fuel oil users in the Detroit area now lack coupons and said only one rationing board has failed to process any of its applications.

Offices of rationing boards were crowded today, as they have been for several days, with persons wanting to know what has happened to their oil applications and by oil users asking for emergency coupons. The large oil companies were reported unable to keep up with delivery orders.

Small Distributors Disappear.

Disappearance from the field of many small distributors was blamed by rationing officials for distribution difficulties. Many of these small dealers, operating only one or two light trucks each but collectively serving a large number of customers, have gone out of business, they said, passing the burden of serving their former customers to the big companies.

Nine reasons for Detroit's oil rationing difficulties were listed by M. J. Vierling, state fuel oil rationing chief. They were failure of application forms to arrive on time and in sufficient quantities; distribution of wrong forms to consumers by oil companies; tardy availability of computing tables; disruption of fuel oil program by gasoline rationing; failure of public to register promptly; lack of oil storage facilities by persons using space heaters; lack of consideration in regulations for needs of space heater users; failure of oil companies to get executive approval on credit arrangements, and inability of oil companies to meet delivery demands.

5,000 Homes Lack Coupons.

When the deadline for credit deliveries expired Dec. 10, it was estimated at least 5,000 homes in the Detroit area had no legal means of getting new oil supplies, largely because coupon applications had not been processed. Some oil dealers made deliveries on credit on their own responsibility, and official extensions were granted Saturday and Sunday. Other dealers, receiving no notification of the extensions, refused to make any deliveries.

Instances were reported over the week-end of householders who shut up their homes and moved to hotels pending deliveries of oil to their homes. Coupons for the first heating period have now been extended a week to Dec. 20, and second period coupons have been extended from Jan. 20 to Jan. 27.

BENTON HARBOR, MICH.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Dec. 15 [Special]. — Altho oil ration officials claimed there were few complaints about the program in this area, Jay J. Theisen, St. Joseph oil dealer, who handles about 85 per cent of the fuel oil distributed in Benton Harbor and St. Joseph, declared that the program is not functioning well.

"They didn't start soon enough," he said. "The government should have taken time to enlighten people instead of trying to cram it down their throats. The American people won't stand for that, as we learned during prohibition. I told the rationing board we would keep our people warm regardless."

Dealers have been serving customers who do not have coupons on promises of getting them later.

DES MOINES, IA.

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 15 [Special].—Fuel oil dealers here reported that they are swamped with complaints against the oil rationing program, which one operator described as a "mess." A survey disclosed several cases in which people already have exhausted their fuel and apparently will be unable to get any more before Jan. 6.

One dealer explained that the early cold snap in Iowa increased heating requirements 30 per cent. He estimated that 50 per cent of his customers would have empty tanks before Jan. 6.

Many of the complaints are about what dealers refer to as the "mistake" in enforcing the five period system. Others relate to the requirement that consumers must appear in person to obtain their coupons, instead of receiving them thru the mail, a great waster of rubber and gasoline for rural residents.

ROCKFORD, ILL.

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 15 [Special].—Distribution of fuel oil to consumers without coupons is proceeding here under an informal agreement between oil dealers and the state office of the office of price administration.

P. O. Driscoll, chief clerk of the county rationing board, issued a new appeal today for volunteer clerks at the rationing office and said he hopes to have coupons in the mail by the end of the week for all persons in the city who have filed applications. New applications are still pouring into the office from oil users, he said.

A threatened shortage of oil in the 200-unit government trailer camp was averted with the issuance yesterday and last night of coupons to all families living in these trailers. Trailer residents needed coupons to make oil purchases because dealers have refused credit to the trailer colony, explaining that 20 families who made earlier purchases left the city without turning in coupons.

ROCK ISLAND, ILL.

Rock Island, Ill., Dec. 15 [Special]. —Technicalities of the fuel oil rationing system have been ignored by fuel oil dealers here, who have gone ahead and delivered oil to homes running low on fuel, a survey disclosed today.

Dealers explained that they have tried not to violate the spirit or intent of the rationing program but that they have refused to let details in the administration of the program cause Rock Island residents to suffer from the cold. The rationing board has described itself as following "a common sense policy" and has winked at these practices of the dealers.

PEORIA, ILL.

Peoria, Ill., Dec. 15 [Special].—Peorians who use oil for heating and cooking are not suffering for lack of it at present, despite some confusion here in rationing, but it is considered likely that some shivering is in store for them.

Most of the confusion was attributed to the delay in issuing rules and regulations to local boards. Like most board members, these here had to await rulings before they could open an office and begin handling complaints and applications.

"Winter was upon us and many consumers were without oil because we were unable to provide them with coupons," a member of the board complained. "So much work is involved because each case being different, they all require personal attention."

SOUTH BEND, IND.

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 15 [Special]. —Admitting that there are "some kinks" in the functioning of fuel oil rationing in St. Joseph county, Max Walker, county fuel coördinator, today blamed confusion on consumers who misunderstand the program or refuse to coöperate.

"Every one who has coöperated has been taken care of," Walker said. "The situation here is not serious and we don't intend to deny any one heating rights if they will coöperate with us." He complained that a majority of consumers failed to fill out applications properly, causing delays.

Criticism of oil allowances made by the rationing board was voiced by H. E. Koenigshof, office manager of the Gafill Oil company, who said that many consumers to whom he has made deliveries have already used coupons into the third rationing period.

"A lot of people can't hope to get thru the winter," he said. "The board is off base in many cases. A 4 or 5 year old child could do better."

Robert Myers, bulk plant manager for a farm bureau coöperative association serving rural areas, said most of his customers believe the amount allowed them will not be sufficient.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 15 [Special.] —"The worst job of rationing yet," is the appellation many irate Indiana residents are giving the oil rationing program. Some persons were reported living in their kitchens, with a consequent heavy drain on Indianapolis' artificial gas supply.

Volunteer workers on ration boards were swamped with appeals for adjustments before they had completed issuance of coupons. Even board members were said to be disgusted with the red tape involved, delays in supplying forms, and inefficient methods required.

Physicians were reported to have complained of insufficient oil in some houses where there were illnesses. Dealers adopted a policy of "let the chips fall where they may" and supplied oil regardless of quota regulations in some cases of extreme emergency.

CLEVELAND, O.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 15 [Special].—From the city's poorest Negroes to the suburbanites of adjacent Lakewood, residents of greater Cleveland have complained about the oil rationing program.

Not knowing where or how to appeal for sufficient oil to heat their homes, Negroes were reported ripping out woodwork in rented houses to burn in crude home made stoves in their kitchens.

At the request of representatives of the office of defense transportation, oil dealers surveyed deliveries necessary under the OPA's "hand to mouth" rationing and found it required twice as much mileage as formerly.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 15 [Special].—Oil dealers here agreed today that there will be "hell to pay" in this area in another month or so when oil users began to run out of fuel because of temperatures being so much lower than they were a year ago.

They expressed the belief, however, that back of many of the complaints against the rationing program is the public's growing discontent with rationing—first sugar, then gasoline, and now oil—until they are "just fed up."

CINCINNATI, O.

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 15 [Special].—The validity date of No. 1 fuel oil rationing coupons has been extended from tomorrow until next Wednesday in this area because of unexpectedly heavy registration by small consumers, Edward J. Wuest, district fuel oil official for the office of price administration, said today.

Wuest said the rationing program has been put into effect here with a minimum of confusion and that the public has been coöperative. Small customers, who use oil for space heating, lighting and cooking, have now been taken care of, he said.

Hardships have been encountered in a few cases where large houses are occupied by a few persons, Wuest admitted. He said the formula employed is based on an allowance of floor space per person. He estimated that the average cut in consumption for furnace users will be slightly more than 25 per cent.

REDS CAPTURE 2 TOWNS ON FRONT WEST OF MOSCOW

MOSCOW, Dec. 16 [Wednesday].—(AP).—The Russians today announced the capture of two more populated places west of Rzhev on the frozen central front. Nevertheless, the midnight communique made it apparent that steady German counter-attacks still were slowing the Red army both there and on the two wings of the Stalingrad sector. This was the 114th day of the siege of Stalingrad.

More than 1,000 Germans were reported killed and 40 tanks and 10 planes destroyed, but no significant changes in the general situation were reported. Waves of German infantrymen supported by tanks were meeting nearly every Russian thrust.

About 400 Germans were killed west of Rzhev. The soviets also reported the destruction of several dozen enemy blockhouses and artillery nests near the Rzhev-Vyazma railway.

Disperse Nazi Battalion.

This railway, roughly 150 miles west of Moscow, is one side of the Rzhev-Vyazma-Veliki Luki triangle the Russians have undertaken to smash. About one battalion of enemy infantry was dispersed and partly destroyed in the railway area, the communique said. The Veliki Luki sector, only 90 miles east of the Latvian border, was not mentioned in the war bulletin.

Twenty-six German tanks were knocked out on the central front, and the remainder were disabled in the repulse of German counter-attacks northwest and southwest of Stalingrad.

Inside Stalingrad the Russians continued their methodical artillery barrages interspersed with small infantry charges to destroy 16 enemy blockhouses, 10 dugouts, 6 guns, and 20 machineguns.

"Our troops engaged big forces of enemy infantry and tanks" southwest of Stalingrad, the communique said.

In this southwestern sector earlier dispatches had summarized the situation thus:

The Germans, with advantage of a rolling fog to mask their surprise attack, struck with the weight of reserves massed for three days in the Stalingrad sector. They attacked presumably at the approaches to Kotelnikovo on the Caucasus rail line 90 miles southwest of Stalingrad.

Dive bombers assaulted Red army positions. Tanks rolled ghostlike out of the fog to spearhead the assault. In the following infantry clashes, the Russians said, fighting was hand-to-hand, with bayonets and grenades.

The Russian account said the Germans were unable to develop early gains in the thrust.

Repel Attacks, Nazis Say.

BERLIN, Dec. 15 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The high command said today that a noose had been tightened around Russian troops "trapped southeast of Toropets." Toropets, on the central front, is some 40 miles east of Veliki Luki.

"Enemy forces which are encircled southeast of Toropets tried in vain to break out," the war bulletin said.

TRAIN, ENGINES, BARGES BOMBED BY RAF FIGHTERS

LONDON, Dec. 15 (AP).—A number of railway engines were damaged, and a train and several barges set afire in fighter sweeps over France and Belgium again today, the air ministry announced.

At least six persons were killed and others injured when a lone German raider dropped bombs and machine gunned a street of a small coastal town in East Anglia. All patients had to be removed from a heavily hit hospital. Later a few enemy fighters flew over the southeast coast.

A small number of German war planes bombed points of the northeast coast of England last night and some damage and casualties were reported.

[A Berlin communique said German planes attacked the harbor district of Hartlepool and an industrial plant on the east coast of England and "considerable damage was done, particularly to harbor facilities."]

HARLEM PLOTS TO WIN NEGROES TO AXIS BARED

Planned to Make President a Cotton Picker.

New York, Dec. 15 [Special].—Leonard Robert Jordan, leader of a highly unsuccessful movement to bring the Negroes of Harlem into the axis camp, planned to have "President Roosevelt picking cotton and Secretaries Knox and Stimson riding me around in rickshaws" when the United States had lost the war.

The diminutive British West Indian, one of four Negroes on trial in federal court for sedition, was reported to have revealed his intentions in a speech to a meeting of his Ethiopian-Pacific movement in Harlem.

Pleaded Axis Cause.

The testimony drawn from witnesses by John F. Sonnett, the prosecutor, and by defense attorneys as well, was consistent in picturing Jordan and his fellows as pleaders for the axis cause, which they claimed was the cause also of the Negro.

Miss Princess Wynder, chief clerk of a draft board, who acted as an undercover attendant at meetings for the federal bureau of investigation, testified that Jordan declared that if a Negro soldier were sent to fight he "should throw down his weapons and open up his arms to his Japanese brothers."

Served with Japs.

Jordan said he had been an officer in the Japanese navy in 1922 and owed allegiance only to Japan, Miss Wynder testified.

Testimony of similar admonitions delivered by Jordan and the others, Lester Holness, James H. Thornbill, and the Rev. Ralph Green Best, was given by Joseph A. Carrington, a New York City detective. This witness also described Jordan's expression of distaste for Joe Louis, the Negro boxing champion who is now in the army.

LONDON PAPER USES UP LIMITED SPACE IN DEFENSE OF TITLES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 15.—The Daily Telegraph continues to give up restricted space to what it describes as The Chicago Tribune's "war on titles." The latest report from its Chicago correspondent, published this morning, said:

"The fight to expunge British titles from its columns still is being waged by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. It published a report from Toronto commencing with these words, 'Alexander Cambridge, governor general of Canada, declared today . . .'

"Since this newspaper has explained it won't confuse its readers at any cost, it can only be concluded that it assumes they all know the family name of the earl of Athlone.

"In another Tribune report, one finds, 'Capt. Shuttleworth, 25 year old British baron.'

"Field Marshal Sir John Dill has also lost his title—in THE TRIBUNE. Sir Walter Raleigh, perhaps in recognition of his interest in the new world, is the only knight who has managed to hold on to his title under The Tribune's new order."

ALLIED BOMBERS SMASH AT TUNIS HARBOR 4 HOURS

Other Planes Pound Axis Retreat in Libya.

LONDON, Dec. 15 (AP).—Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's axis army in Libya retreated on to the west today along a harsh and perilous road. Allied planes kept Rommel's columns under almost unending assault. At the same time official reports indicated that in Libya, in Tunisia, and over the Mediterranean the allied air arm was striking with sharply growing power.

From allied headquarters in North Africa, a spokesman for the 12th United States air force, which has operated with the British in powerful, rolling attacks on axis troops, harbors, and other positions, announced that thru Dec. 11 American planes had destroyed 70 enemy planes and damaged 43 more while losing only 35 definitely with eight more missing.

Allied air attacks, described by British headquarters in Cairo as "the most successful" yet, battered Tunis and its harbor, La Goulette, for four hours.

Three Enemy Ships Hit.

In La Goulette at least three enemy ships were reported hit squarely and set aflame and great fires were set off on La Goulette Island and near the main axis docks at Tunis. One fire, in a fuel dump, was visible 100 miles away.

A Morocco radio broadcast recorded by Reuters [British] news agency reported that American planes started two great fires at the port of Sfax and raided railway installations.

British fighters, presumably operating from Malta, shot down two north bound German planes near Lampedusa Island, midway between Malta and the coast of Tunisia. Only two British planes were reported missing after these widespread operations. Ground action in Tunisia was limited to patrol activity.

40 Miles West of El Agheila.

The position reached by the advanced British forces in Libya was not officially disclosed during the day. However, it was estimated here that they had gone beyond the Marble Arch air field, which lies 40 miles to the west of El Agheila.

Rommel's flight, which continued orderly but as rapid as he could make it, was characterized by a British military informant as a full scale retreat, and it appeared that only the mine fields he had left behind, and not his minor rear guard action, was delaying Gen. Bernard Montgomery's pursuit.

"They are hindering our advance by means of large numbers of mines which are being methodically cleared up by our forward troops," the British command announced in Cairo.

Field dispatches reported that every sort of booby-trap had been left in Rommel's abandoned El Agheila positions and beyond. These and hidden parcels of TNT had to be probed gingerly with bayonets before the main British forces could go forward.

Aloft, British headquarters in Cairo said, allied fighter bombers were going ahead with "extensive raiding on enemy transport moving westward." During such operations yesterday, it was added, an ammunition dump and scores of vehicles were hit.

Naples also was attacked last night by heavy R. A. F. bombers which caused numerous fires among important port installations, it was announced in Cairo. The Italian high command had said earlier that "dozens of bombs" fell in that vital naval base and supply depot for North Africa, but claimed little damage was done.

Claim Allies Retreat in Tunisia.

BERLIN, Dec. 15 [from German broadcasts] (AP).—The Berlin radio today claimed that several hundred allied troops landed on the northern coast of Tunisia had been compelled to retreat. Another broadcast asserted that allied forces in Tunisia were retreating westward.

The high command reported night attacks were carried out by the German air force against Bone and "caused considerable destruction" in that allied supply port in eastern Algeria. It also said German submarines sank a 6,000 ton transport and damaged an American destroyer in a torpedo attack off the Algerian port of Oran.

On the Libyan front the high command said heavy battles against numerically superior enemy forces were fought by axis troops yesterday. "During our successful resistance . . . the enemy lost 22 tanks. Ten enemy planes were shot down."

[Berlin dispatches by way of Vichy reported that Marshal Rommel was expected to attempt a stand aganist the British about 125 miles west of El Agheila, which would be near the waterhole community at Zauta en Nofilia.]

Report Bomb Toll of 200.

ROME, Dec. 15 [from German broadcasts] (AP).—The high command said today that Tunis and Sousse, axis held ports in Tunisia, were bombed heavily. A communique said 200 persons were killed and some hundreds injured in the two places.

Wrecked Axis Ammunition Ship in Bengazi Harbor

Wrecked ammunition vessel found by allied troops when they entered Bengazi, Libya. Its bow plates curled over the shattered superstructure amidships, the wreckage lay in Bengazi harbor. The British official caption said a direct hit bomb prevented any of the ammunition aboard the ship from reaching the enemy.

JURY DECIDES DEATH NORMAL.

A coroner's jury decided yesterday that Mrs. Eva Clifton, 31 years old, 4117 Sheridan road, died of natural causes Nov. 18. The inquest was ordered after Joseph Clifton, the woman's husband, told police she had undergone an illegal operation two months before her death.

TANK REPAIRMEN FLIP A COIN FOR DANGEROUS JOBS

WITH THE ALLIED ARMIES ON THE TUNISIAN FRONT, Dec. 15 (AP).—Maintenance men far to the rear of the front lines almost quarrel for the opportunity to do the dangerous jobs. At one tank repair depot orders came thru for a wrecker unit to be sent forward. Three lieutenants, Harry Geebie, 636 Melrose street, Chicago; W. C. Bradshaw, Houston, Tex.; and Leo Cobensteiner, Albert Lea, Minn., asked for the assignment. They flipped coins to see who got the job.

Great recovery trucks bring battered tanks to the depot. Men with pistols and bayonets on their belts work to mend damaged American tanks.

A sentry high in a nearby tower keeps watch for enemy aircraft. If one is sighted he blows four short blasts on a whistle. Some men spring to gun positions while others pick up their rifles in hope of a lucky shot.

SOAKED TO SKIN, YANKS FIGHT ON SHORT RATIONS

Re-enforced Just Before Taking Buna.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, Dec. 15.—The capture of Buna village, a tiny palm studded enclosure of a dozen destroyed grass huts, marks only the first stage of the subjugation of the enemy in the Buna area.

A week ago, this correspondent described the Buna front as shaped like a tennis racquet, with the ball lying off the end of the handle. Buna village was the ball. Now it has been captured.

But the bulk of the enemy's forces, concentrated at Buna Mission, around two contested air strips and on Cape Endaiadere, remain at bay.

Yanks on Short Rations.

There were about 1,200 Jap troops in the Buna area, 200 of whom were in Buna village. About 50 of these were casualties. In the remainder of the area there is believed to be about 1,000 Japs, heavily dug in to defend the air strips.

The American units outside Buna were reënforced by fresh troops a few days before the village was captured. The men they relieved had endured almost inconceivable hardships. They had marched 120 miles over the Owen Stanley range, crossing peaks 1,000 feet high or more.

They went into action stripped for fighting. They had neither mosquito nets, blankets, nor shelter halves. For four weeks they lay outside Buna village, soaked to the skin every night. They had no change of clothing; many I saw were in rags. Those who had socks and shoes hadn't had them off for days. When they did take them off, their feet were shrunken and blue.

A War of Supplies.

Until a week ago, these boys were on one-third rations. They had one can of light and one can of heavy CCC rations daily. Light CCC rations consist of several pieces of hard candy, two lumps of sugar, a portion of powdered coffee, and several cookies. The heavy CCC ration is meat and vegetables or meat and beans. It is good food, but when I had two meals daily of it for a month, I lost 20 pounds.

This situation now has been remedied, and the rations are adequate, but during the first couple of weeks of this campaign, the supply position was difficult.

This is a "Q" war—a quartermaster's war. It is a war of supplies, every pound of which must be flown over the Owen Stanley range or shipped around the southeast tip of New Guinea. Both of these routes are hazardous.

Must Kill Every Jap.

The Japs in the Buna area have been asked by their emperor to fight to the end, and this they undoubtedly will do. A few days ago an American general said:

"We've got the Jap in a position where he is going to have to surrender or be annihilated. He doesn't know the meaning of the word 'surrender,' so we are going to have to kill every one. Killing 1,200 men who are determined to fight is a big job. There is no doubt that we will do it, but it will take some time to clean up the Buna front."

The main center of Jap resistance is inland from Sananada Point, where the enemy holds a beach head two miles deep. Off Sananada Point is an opening in the reef thru which his destroyers and cruisers enter when they see to reinforce the front. He cannot afford to let allied forces get near enough to this beach to fire on his vessels coming thru the reef.

The allies have made very little progress in this area for a couple of weeks. The situation here is as follows:

The Australians are pressing the Jap force on Sananada Point track. In back of the Japs is an American force, between the Japs and the sea. In back of the Americans is another Jap force. It's a double decker sandwich: Australians, Japs, Americans, Japs, and then the sea.

Japs Count on Weather.

At the Kumusi river mouth the Australians have encountered an enemy force heavily dug in, altho at first they thought the enemy parties represented only isolated Japs who had floated down the Kumusi river on rafts.

The enemy is counting on the weather to save him. Friday night it rained from midnight to 9 a. m. Next morning the roads were bogged down and an official communique said the rain had made action difficult. This correspondent waded three miles thru mud and water up to his knees to get to the airport, and altho the flying field was not in bad shape, it is his opinion that the northeast coast of New Guinea will have to be taken within the next three weeks or the weather will make military operations difficult for many months.

New Jap Landing on New Guinea

BOMBERS STREW GUINEA BEACH WITH JAP DEAD

Remnants of Landing Party Strafed.

in the Cape Ward Hunt area, 44 miles northwest of Buna, despite a sizzling attack by Flying Fortresses, Havocs, Airacobras, and Beaufighters which smashed Japanese landing boats, left Japanese dead draped over the sides of barges and scattered on the beaches, and wrecked supply rafts.

Two Japanese cruisers and three destroyers seeking to effect the landing had only two hours before dawn to execute the operation.

From each of the five ships four motor landing craft, each with an estimated capacity of 50 soldiers were launched.

1,000 Japs Get Ashore.

The first wave of probably 1,000 Japanese got ashore, and the barges were in the process of repeating the operation when the allied dawn patrol came on the scene with machine guns and cannon blazing.

Hundreds of Japanese leaped overboard. At least five of the barges were strafed and sunk and many others were damaged beyond repair. One was seen drifting out of control with Japanese dead hanging over the sides. At least a 100 swimmers were killed in the water, the airmen estimated. Hundreds more Japanese dead littered the beach.

The Japanese had unloaded at least 500 oil drums lashed together in rafts of 40 drums, and crates in nets were lashed to the underside where they would draw the least fire.

The Americans and Australians fired thousands of rounds into the small swarming area of water, blowing up the rafts and scattering and killing swimmers who were towing them to shore. Supplies which had been stacked on the beach were blown to bits.

Warship Raked by Bomb.

Japanese ran like mad for the shelter of foliage and hugged the beach as tracer bullets ripped across the sand. Fire quickly spread thru the whole area. The Duvira mission, where the Japanese made their main landing, went up in smoke, and as the Americans and Australians departed, abandoned barges and broken supply rafts were drifting four miles out to sea.

The cruisers and destroyers were raked by repeated bomb hits and near misses and were last seen fleeing northward. But it was not claimed any were sunk.

The cruiser and destroyer force was sighted two days before the landing attempt was made. Flying Fortresses and Liberators dropped bombs in their path and the four motored bombers took up the pursuit today.

The Liberators were attacked in the New Britain area by seven zeros today and two of the enemy fighters were shot down. Another flight of Liberators was attacked by 15 zeros when the fleeing warships were 150 miles from Buna, and two of these fighters were brought down.

United States General Leads Attack.

An American general led the attacking force which swept thru the churned-up ruins of Buna and captured the place under a heavy mortar barrage yesterday.

Capture of Buna left the fighting centered in two main areas, the Cape Endaiadere and Buna Mission area immediately east of Buna, and the Cape Sananada area northwest of Buna. Cape Endaiadere and Buna Mission, already had been cut off from Buna by an American spearhead.

TRIBUNE WAR WRITER'S JOB GETS 2 SOLDIERS INTO AN ARGUMENT

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, Dec. 15.—Here is a page 1 story from the Sydney Sun, by F. C. Folkard, printed yesterday:

"The first half of an 18 foot python climbed into bed with Al Noderer, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's ace reporter. Al decided two was a crowd, and beat it into the bush to contemplate nature.

"Nature got him down, so now he's back from the American troops near Buna, 20 pounds lighter than when he went there a month ago, and full of interesting information about the local flora and fauna.

"Noderer began his trek home by falling from a bamboo plank into the mud. As he lay flat on his back, trying to recover his breath, two soldiers came up to him.

"'Say, we've been having an argument,' said the spokesman. 'I said you were drafted for this work, otherwise you wouldn't be here. My buddy says you don't have to do this if you don't want to. How about it?'

"Noderer said some sort of blowfly buzzed into his mouth when he opened it to reply."

Hoover Speaks Tonight Before Executives' Club

Former President Herbert C. Hoover will arrive here this morning to speak at 8 p. m. tonight at a dinner of the Executives' Club of Chicago in the grand ballroom of Hotel Sherman. His address, "The Approaches to Peace," will be broadcast. The meeting will be followed by a question period.

HUGE U. S. PLANES RAIN BOMBS ON NEW JAP FIELD

Dive Bombers, Flying Forts Raid Munda Base.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—The navy announced today that American air forces in the South Pacific had poured more bombs on the Japanese air base at Munda on New Georgia Island on Dec. 14, the fifth day of such attacks.

The communique said:

"On Dec. 14 United States air forces continued to attack the Japanese installations and air field which are being constructed in the Munda area of New Georgia Island.

"Seven army flying fortresses [Boeing B-17] attacked the area during the morning. Later in the day a striking force of Douglas Dauntless dive bombers and Grumman "Wildcat" fighters attacked the same objectives. No enemy air opposition was encountered during either attack."

Japs Offer No Defense.

The dive bombers apparently were used because the Japanese have not been able to defend their field with fighter planes.

Ordinarily dive bombers would be employed for high precision attack on specific enemy targets such as ammunition or gasoline dumps and operations posts. The assignment of the Grumman fighters undoubtedly was to shoot up the Japanese troops and workmen.

Both these types of planes operate from Guadacanal, whereas the flying fortresses ordinarily use Guadalcanal only as a refueling base and make their home field somewhere else on the Solomons.

Wounded Well Cared For.

Rear. Adm. William Chambers of the medical corps reported today that men wounded on Guadalcanal are speedily placed in modern, well equipped hospitals, and that the mortality rate is very low.

Chambers, just back from inspection tour in the South Pacific, said the wounded were removed by ambulance plane to evacuation hospitals scattered thru the area and that the mortality rate of 1 per cent for the first thousand wounded was continuing. He said the normal expectancy of mortality was 5 per cent.

The navy released the admiral's report, which mentioned the efficiency and bravery of doctors and hospital corpsmen, use of sulfa drugs, blood plasma, and tetanous toxoid as aiding in the saving of the wounded men.

U-BOAT DAMAGED BY CANADIAN PLANE IN ST. LAWRENCE GULF

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 15 (AP).—The air ministry in one of its rare official reports on enemy submarine operations told tonight of the almost certain destruction of a U-boat by an RCAF plane in the Gulf of St. Lawrence last September.

The story was a tribute to the skill of the crew captained by Flying Officer R. S. Keetley of Moose Jaw, Sask., in a plane called "Lulu," which now has three U-boat silhouettes painted on her nose to denote three attacks on submarines, two of them with Keetley in command.

Returning from a routine patrol "Lulu" spotted the U-boat surfaced on the gulf. The pilot returned as the target began to submerge and dropped depth charges in a pattern to bracket the craft's diving swirl. Next morning "Lulu" returned and found an oil slick a mile long, and the official summary noted that "the submarine was likely damaged at the stern."

RICKENBACKER'S PLANE REVEALED AS SCARRED VET

Freehold, N. J., Dec. 15 (AP).—The plane in which Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and companions fell into the Pacific was a scarred veteran of the Dec. 7 bombing of Hawaii, Pvt. John Bartek, one of the craft's survivors, said today. Bartek, a member of the army air forces on furlough, told the Rotary club of his home town that a new plane had been prepared for the Rickenbacker flight, but suddenly was transferred to another purpose.

Rickenbacker decided the urgency of his mission precluded any delay, Bartek continued, so they took off in a rechecked B-17 bomber damaged by bombs and bearing more than 100 bullet holes.

The plane was only 500 miles at sea when the navigation instruments failed, he said. Shortly afterwards, Bartek added, other instruments went dead, and the plane, lost at sea, ran out of gas and alighted on the ocean.

Rickenbacker and his companions were rescued after drifting three weeks.

F. D. R. APPOINTS JOSH LEE TO CIVIL AIR BOARD

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—President Roosevelt today nominated Sen. Josh Lee [D., Okla.], who was defeated for reëlection last month, for membership on the Civil Aeronautics board. Lee would succeed George Baker, who resigned and is expected to undertake a mission abroad.

Ed H. Moore, a Republican, scored a surprise victory over Lee, who had served only one term in the senate after a term in the house of representatives.

Mr. Roosevelt also nominated Oswald Ryan of Indiana for reappointment to the aeronautics board.

Aurora to Vote Feb. 22 on Airport Bond Issue

Aurora citizens will vote Feb. 22 on whether to issue $150,000 in bonds to purchase land for a large airport for which the civil aeronautics authority has earmarked $1,200,000.

CHICAGOLANDERS GIVE JAPS MORE THAN THEY TAKE

Wisconsin Men Hold the Lines at Buna.

BY MURLIN SPENCER.

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN NEW GUINEA, Dec. 13 (AP).—[Delayed].—A small group of American doughboys are holding one of the hottest spots on New Guinea, so close to the Japanese base at Buna that every move invites a sniper's bullet.

There's never a quiet moment. When Jap snipers aren't shooting at the Yanks they are shooting at snipers. When night falls the Japs shoot rifle grenades into the area.

But Capt. Alfred E. Meyer of Sheboygan, Wis., and 1st Lieut. F. J. Endl of Jefferson, Wis., and their men are giving out more than they are taking.

I told the commanding officer I wanted to see the Buna battlefield. The officer gave me a guide armed with a tommygun and pistol. We headed across a field where I saw 21 large crosses — American — and plunged into a jungle where we stopped briefly.

In Sight of Buna.

"There are snipers in those trees," the guide said, pointing to trees overlooking the field.

He then started off thru the jungle and stopped when he reached a number of trenches where a group of men were keeping low.

"This correspondent wants to see the battlefront," he told the men and then left hurriedly.

Looking to the east I was able to see the ocean, and the palm trees of Buna village to the north. It was then too late to stop. The Japs had twice attempted to take the beachhead back and only the night before had attempted to sneak supplies from Buna mission to Buna village. They were stopped by American machine guns.

Gets Jap in Pants.

The men were seeking out snipers in palm trees. But even after crawling long the trench to the beach and peering thru glasses I was able to see only three Japs, and those were dead.

Lt. Endl touched me, pointed to the nearest tree, and said:

"I see a sniper there." Endl took a Garand rifle and fired two quick shots. "I think I got him," he said. "The bullets knocked him into a leaning position and about all you can see is his rear end. If I dared I would use a tracer to warm his pants for him, but that would show our positions."

Corporal Wounded.

He handed me the glasses and I was able to make out the camouflaged pants.

I moved back from the trench into what appeared to be safety until Lt. Paul Krasne of Council Bluffs, Ia., pointed out I was visible from the nearest palm tree. I moved hastily.

Comparative quiet then settled over the beachhead.

The Americans went into action. They peppered the trees with tommyguns. Pvt. Stanley Orlowski of Milwaukee; Sergt. Ronald McCann of Madison, Wis.; Corp. Elwin Baird of Sturgis, Mich., and Pvt. Ira Nichlaus of Ogden, Utah, took positions in trenches and began firing whenever they thought they saw a target.

Gets His Eighth Jap.

McCann came galloping back to get more ammunition. Some one asked:

"You get one?"

"Damned right I did, and he's my eighth," McCann replied.

Orlowski shouted: "I loosened one. He is slipping."

He fired again and then came the words: "There, I got the ———. Now he's hanging by his feet."

There was no return fire from the Japanese.

"They're short of ammunition," some one said.

Just as it was beginning to get dark I heard an exclamation, "I got one!"

"Damned if I can't hear him jabbering. I bet he's praying."

Then everything was quiet and the only motion was that of men bringing up ammunition for the night. At 9:15 heavy mortar fire started from our rear. We could hear the discharge of shells and then heavy explositions and sheels landed in the Buna Mission area.

The men took positions in trenches about three feet deep. To my left in the next trench was Pvt. Edward Wiskowski of Milwaukee, and to my right, Pvt. Ralph Erno, also of Milwaukee. Both provided rifle cover for a machine gun.

Artillery Opens Up.

Suddenly artillery far behind opened up. There was a dull crack as the guns fired, then the whine of a shell. Finally came a deafening explosion in the mission area.

After midnight the Japs opened up with rifle grenades. No one dared to move. A number of grenades seemed to shake the trench but no one was injured.

Later our artillery opened up again. I almost felt sorry for the Japs, who were taking the worst kind of a beating.

I hesitated to leave the comparative security of the trench to expose myself to snipers. All that is life to the American soldier in this jungle. They take it day after day. I took it only an afternoon and night, and for me it was nervewracking.

Strike Over Afteroon Tea Hits British War Output

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 15.—War production was tied up today at one of the Vickers-Armstrong armament factories by a strike. Five hundred workers engaged in a dispute about afternoon tea. Hitherto workers have been allowed extra rations to make their own tea, but the management decided to turn over the job to caterers. Workers laid down their tools but agreed to resume work after the management gave them the right to brew a cup of tea.

30,000 JAPS GATHER FOR DRIVE DEEP INTO CHINA ON BURMA ROAD

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 15 (AP).—Japanese troops in western Yunnan number 30,000 and two more divisions may be sent there for an attempt to strike deep into China along the old Burma road, a Chinese government spokesman said today.

Recent Japanese operations, he said, have formed an arc-shaped line 18 miles north and east of Tengyueh, the enemy's advance base, which lies north of the Burma road.

In this fighting, the Japanese intended to force the Chinese to withdraw eastward across the Salween river gorge so they would not constitute a threat to the Japanese flank if they pushed toward central Yunnan on the Burma road itself, the spokesman declared.

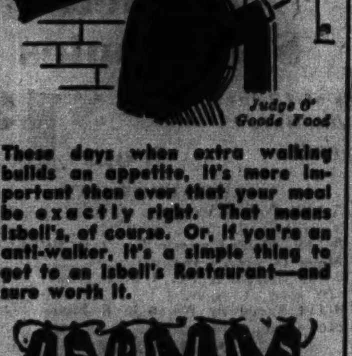
Tonight's high command communique said Chinese forces had beaten off an attempt by three Japanese warships Dec. 8 to land troops on the Luichow peninsula on the south China coast just opposite the Japanese held Island of Hainan. The warships, fully loaded with men and supplies, fled southward, the communique said.

HALSEY HONORS TWO SKIPPERS AND TWO GOBS

WITH THE U. S. FLEET IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Dec. 6 [Delayed] (AP).—Two seamen who risked their lives and a destroyer captain who risked his ship to save survivors from a carrier sunk in the battle of Santa Cruz Island Oct. 26 were cited for heroism today.

Adm. William F. Halsey, fleet commander, made the awards aboard a ship. The navy cross was given to Comm. Wallis Frederick Peterson, Council Bluffs, Ia., and silver stars to Torpedoman James A. Golden and Seaman O. S. Downie, both of Vineyard Haven, Mass.

The navy cross and distinguished service medal were presented to Comm. Arnold Ellsworth True of San Carlos, Cal. He was the captain of a destroyer which rescued survivors of the carrier Lexington in the battle of the Coral sea and later was sunk trying to save the carrier Yorktown.



These days when extra walking builds an appetite, it's more important than ever that your meal be exactly right. That means Isbell's, of course. Or, if you're an anti-walker, it's a simple thing to get to an Isbell's Restaurant—and sure worth it.

HOW COAST GUARD LANDED MARINES ON GUADALCANAL

Japs Flew Only 20 Feet Above Surf Craft.

New York, Dec. 15 [Special].—John S. Lambarski of Philadelphia, boatswain's mate second class, United States coast guard, told here today how the coast guard landed marines and their equipment on Guadalcanal in early August under intense attack by Japanese surface and aircraft.

Guadacanal, Lambarski said, was known to the surfboat landing crews as Boomtown, because it was then under incessant aerial bombardment. The coast guard operated boats which brought in marines, ammunition, and general supplies, were called the Boomtown express.

Lambarski said the men of his service, many of whom were killed, or lie wounded in South Pacific hospitals, resent the fact that news dispatches give full credit to the marines, the army, and the navy for their part in the Guadalcanal action, but never—or seldom, to the coast guard.

Landed at Dawn.

The coast guard boats, filled with marines and supplies, ran thru the Guadalcanal surf at dawn on Aug. 7. Jap bombers and fighters harassed them, coming in to the attack again and again, but were finally discouraged after navy gunners got the range and started knocking them out of the air.

In some of these runs the Japanese bombers flew not more than 15 to 20 feet over the landing craft, spraying them with machine gun fire and dropping bombs. Lambarski recalled also that a Japanese submarine had surfaced and trained its gun on one of the coast guard boats.

Navy Gets Range.

One night, in utter black-out, the Japanese flyers tried a run on the landing boats, Lambarski recalled, and the navy guns on ships beyond the surf line, quickly got the range. The Japanese aircraft plopped into the water, burst into flame, and the glare, while it lasted only briefly, was dramatic.

Lambarski is rather short. His blond hair is burned a peculiar gold by Pacific sun and his complexion is nut brown.

AXIS U-BOATS ADD 2 SHIPS TO TOLL IN ATLANTIC

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—Axis submarines destroyed two medium sized united nations vessels—of Belgian and British registry—the navy announced today.

The British ship was torpedoed and shelled in the South Atlantic off the coast of South America early in November and three men, including the captain, were killed by the U-boat's deck gun. The other 49 crewmen were rescued by United States warships 51 hours after the sinking.

Only one man was lost with the Belgian boat, which went down in the North Atlantic in September. Fifty-one other seamen were saved.

Sinking of the two ships brought the total in American coastal waters since Pearl Harbor to 559. In these actions 3,756 persons have been killed, 2,258 are missing, and 16,911 have been rescued.

Report Japanese Set Fire to Brazil Rubber Field

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Dec. 15. —Japanese have set fire to a rubber plantation, the newspaper Globo said today. It declared that violent fire had destroyed rubber trees in Villa Amazonia in a section inhabited by Japanese. The fire was attributed to sabotage by Japanese working with other axis elements and seeking to damage the 1943 crop.

CHURCHILL TANKS STAND UP IN WAR, PREMIER ARGUES

Defends Weapon and Fight on Axis U-Boats.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 15.—In a fighting mood, Prime Minister Winston Churchill today defended the Churchill tanks against "mischievous attacks" and the organization which he set up to combat axis submarines.

Last week, Richard Stokes, Laborite member of the house of commons, asked Churchill why he had authorized construction of the Churchill tanks before they had passed official tests. Stokes charged that the tanks were a failure.

Churchill explained that the reason why he authorized construction of the tank from blueprints was that after Dunkirk, Britain had only 100 tanks in the United Kingdom. He said the tanks had proven themselves inadequate against German anti-tank guns.

Cites Invasion Threat.

The prime minister said production of the Churchill would have been held up six months if Britain had waited to test the tanks. This, he said, would have been very dangerous for Britain's defenses against invasion, which he expected in the spring of 1941.

Churchill said the blueprints had been approved by the military board and by other experts. These men, he said, recommended that the blueprints be put into production immediately, and he accepted the responsibility for this decision.

The tank itself, he contended, was much better than its critics have said. Altho not intended for—and therefore unequal to desert warfare—the weapon would have served its purpose here admirably if an invasion had been attempted, Churchill added. He said 400 out of 600 tanks ordered had been completed by the autumn of 1941.

Stand Up Under Fire.

Even in the desert, he said, these tanks proved successful, standing up in Egypt against terrific fire. They now have been modified, and even those originally built have been "very serviceable," he said.

Churchill disclaimed responsibility for the tanks being named Churchills. One member of parliament suggested it was because they had been called Churchill tanks that they had evoked criticism. The prime minister said that he had no doubt "the fact that it was called this particular name afforded a motive to various persons to endeavor to cover it with their slime."

After the prime minister had concluded, Stokes said he wished to give notice, "in view of the unsatisfactory nature of the statement," that he would present the facts at the earliest opportunity.

Explains U-Boat Setup.

Churchill also explained the setup of the anti-submarine committee, after Rear Adm. Murray Sueter, Conservative, asked him what he had done toward fulfilling the recommendation of Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts, premier of South Africa, that the best brains of the country be mobilized to tackle this problem.

Churchill said that altho "the prime responsibility for directing and conducting the war against the U-boats rests with the admiralty," various other departments are involved which "proceed under my responsibility, as the ministry of defense."

Churchill told how he had anticipated Smuts' recommendation by more than a year."

"In February, 1941," he said, "I formed the battle of the Atlantic committee, and instituted meetings under my personal direction in order to focus and emphasize the need for supreme exertion to make certain there was proper concert between all authorities."

Tells of New Organization.

He said that in 1941 and 1942, eighteen meetings were held, and added: "I am satisfied that during 1942 the organization has been running with complete smoothness and efficiency."

However, last October he reconstituted the battle of the Atlantic committee into the "anti-U-boat warfare committee," which held its first meeting on Nov. 4. He said that Smuts participated in this meeting, was thoroly acquainted with its machinery, and was "quite impressed with what he learned."

"He authorized me to say that he was satisfied with the character and efficiency of the system," Churchill concluded.

BRITAIN BUILDS HUGE ARSENAL IN A CORNFIELD

Handles Spider Webs and Siege Guns.

LONDON, Dec. 15 (AP).—Britain has a second "Woolwich arsenal," built "somewhere in the north" on land where corn was harvested a few months ago.

Operating over eight miles of roads and 12 miles of rail track, thousands of tons of war material are handled weekly, ranging from the smallest precision instruments to heavy artillery pieces.

One department alone—the engineering and signal stores—deals with 57,000 different kinds of equipment, from spider webs and China eggs to siege guns. The spider webs are used for the hairlines in detector instruments, and the spiders are billeted in the gardens of the staff. The China eggs help the carrier pigeons to feel "at home."

Live and Work in Rows.

Rows of neat, semi-detached houses have been built for the hundreds of women of the auxiliary territorial service working in the depot. They live six or 10 to a house, in which there are tiled bathrooms, cheerful lounges. There are churches, a hospital, a theater and cinema, rows of shops.

The brigadier in command has watched the depot grow from a small wooden hut in the middle of a wilderness of muddy paths to today's self-contained township handling 10 thousand truckloads of war supplies as a monthly routine.

Today in place of the hut is a huge building where rows and rows of staff workers—soldiers, ATS, and civilians—sit at desks. Documents pass thru the ranks on a conveyor belt.

Twins Are Arsenal's Pride.

One of the ATS lecturers on wireless components is a slim 18 year old corporal who less than a year ago was working as a dress designer and didn't know a condenser from a transformer.

In the instrument shops is a sergeant who is a little diffident about her studies at five British and foreign universities, her bachelor of science degree at Edinburgh with first class honors, and her knowledge of French, German, and "a little Russian."

The pride of the depot are 23 year old twins from Sussex. They have not been separated since joining up 17 months ago, got their first stripe on the same day, and are now working in the same shop.

One of the senior officers has only just discovered there are two of them. When Lena was in hospital, Dora took her place at the bench, and it was some time before their fellow workers noticed the swap.

QUESTIONING SIZE OF ARMY AMAZES HIM, SAYS F. D. R.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—President Roosevelt expressed amazement today that any one in congress should say this nation was building its army to such a size that the civilian economy would be inadequate to support it.

He told reporters at a press conference he was equally amazed that a distinguished Frenchman should have said the French army was so large that France was unable to supply it sufficiently to prevent its defeat by the Germans. He had been asked whether there was any intention of changing the prospective army total of 7½ million men.

Mr. Roosevelt did not specify to whom he referred, but it was recalled that Pierre Cot, former French minister of aviation, told a senate committee Saturday that France made a mistake by building up a huge army. Cot said the size of the French army left insufficient man power in industry to provide the needed fighting equipment.

$10,000 FIRE IN LAUNDRY.

Boys Are Agog

The boys in alimony row at county jail are willing to pay up their back dues and make a deposit on next year's fees if the divorce judges will don Santa Claus masks next week and set them free. Because membership is the lowest in history—only 18—they figure they stand a pretty good chance of spending Christmas with the children. They want no hand in stuffing their ex-wives' Christmas socks.

The Yuletide exodus of the men who inhabit the basement clubrooms of alimony row is almost as much a county jail tradition as the Christmas chicken dinner. Some will go back to Judge Oscar F. Nelson's court on Monday and others will reappear before Judge Joseph Sabath on Tuesday. Other judge have not yet set dates for the doling out of Christmas presents.

In anticipation, the men are picking out carols on the piano in their dormitory, polishing up the promises they'll make to the judge, and even thinking a little kindly now and then of the wives who sent them on their "vacations."

ASKS ADMIRAL'S RANK FOR MANILA NAVAL VETERAN

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—Francis W. Rockwell, commander of the Manila naval district during the Japanese assault, was nominated today by President Roosevelt to the permanent rank of rear admiral.

Rockwell holds the permanent rank of captain, but has been serving as rear admiral. The navy listed his home as Annapolis, Md.

Others nominated to permanent rear admiral rank were Daniel E. Barbery, Portland, Ore.; Waldn L. Ainsworth, Wonalancet, N. H.; Charles A. Pownall, Tyrone, Pa.; Marc A. Mitscher, Oklahoma City, Okla., and Robert M. Griffin, Washington, D. C.

Among several commanders nominated to the permanent rank of captains were Ingolf N. Kiland, Chicago; Thomas D. Warner, Ashland, Wis., and Frank R. Dodge, Adrian, Mich.

WOMEN DEMAND COMMONS ACT TO CHECK SYPHILIS

Assail New Regulation as Inadequate.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 15.—A defense regulation which provides for compulsory treatment of venereal disease suspects identified by two informers who themselves are infected, was approved today by the house of commons by a vote of 245 to 31.

The vote followed a heated debate over a motion presented by Laborite Dr. Edith Summerskill, asking for annulment of the regulation from the emergency defense acts.

Women members of parliament were particularly vehement in denouncing the measure, not on the ground that it might operate unfairly against women, but because they thought it would be ineffective and wouldn't prevent the spread of disease.

"It will open the way to the blackmailer, the informer, and the poison pen," Mrs. Agnes Hardie declared.

Victorian Spinster.

Dr. Summerskill described Ernest Brown, minister of health, as "that Victorian spinster, reared in a country parsonage and sheltered from the facts of life." Results from venereal disease in the community, she said, "were far worse than the injuries from Nazi air raids."

In the last year there have been 75,000 new cases of venereal disease for which patients applied to civilian clinics for treatment, she said.

What she recommended was that notification of veneral disease infection should be made compulsory.

Urge More Instruction.

Nancy Astor described the regulation as "panic legislation," adding, "I do not think that by locking up a few prostitutes you are going to get rid of this matter." She wanted the problem solved "the English way" and that was to tell young people "you can't make immorality safe."

Mrs. Mavis Tate, Conservative, suggested establishing more facilities for instruction and advice at existing clinics. "There probably never has been such an opportunity for mass instruction in the history of our country," she said. "People are ready for it if the facilities are arranged."

Cites 70 Per Cent Increase.

"The number of new cases attending centers for treatment, which fell 45 per cent between 1931 and 1935, had risen 47 per cent between 1939 and 1941," he said. If infection in the army and navy is included, the estimated rise is 70 per cent since 1939."

Brown urged that the subject be discussed more openly, commenting that "any clergyman who gave an undue proportion of his time to talking sex had people looking sideways at him."

CHARGES SECRET LEND-LEASE GRAB OF U.S. MACHINES

House Member Blasts Irresponsibility.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—Rep. Ward Johnson [R., Cal.] charged today that Washington burocrats secretely were confiscating American machinery and equipment for export to United States allies under the lend-lease program.

Johnson demanded public hearings to determine whether such material is vital to this country's conduct of the war.

He said E. R. Stettinius, lend-lease administrator, had assured him by letter that his demand to halt any secret confiscations would be studied. He added in an interview that if satisfactory action is not taken soon, he would press his fight in congress.

Acts Branded Irresponsible.

Johnson, listing several cases of what he said were secret confiscations, said they presented an example of burocratic irresponsibility.

He said the lend-lease administration had taken over for shipment abroad two 35,000 kilowatt electric-turbo generators of the Southern California Edison company, which he asserted are needed to supply irrigation for growing food in that vicinity. He said he did not believe the generators promised as replacements by next July could be installed because of lack of critical materials.

Oil Refinery Dismantled.

Johnson also said an oil refinery at Santa Monica, Cal., producing 100 octane gasoline is being dismantled for shipment to Russia at the same that use of such fuel in vital American war activities is being curtailed.

Johnson said gold mining machinery was being shipped to South Africa at the same time American gold mines had been ordered closed.

APPEAL AGAINST NAZI TREATMENT OF JEWS URGED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 15.—The British Labor party issued a statement tonight appealing to the allied nations and neutral governments to "make a solemn and memorable protest" against the German treatment of Jews. It calls on Germany's allies "to refuse further complicity in this monstrous policy." The statement asserts there is ample evidence that "the bloodiest crime in history" is being carried out so thoroly that "within a short time the Jewish peopleo within the frontiers of the new German order in Europe will have been exterminated." It urges those "who still have power and influence in Europe at least to make an effort to save the children."

ACCEPT $100,000 BID ON BACK TAX BILL OF $559,000

County Board Differs on Taking Small Offer.

A sale at the county building door yesterday afternoon virtually completed a deal in which the owners of the Illinois Women's Athletic club building at 820 North Michigan avenue are permitted by the Cook county board to settle a tax [and penalty] bill of $559,000 with a payment of $100,000.

Two hours earlier the county board, with three members dissenting, had approved the settlement recommended on Monday by its tax foreclosure committee. Several of the eight who approved the settlement, apparently fearful that there would be sharp criticism of the small amount to reach the county's coffers, explained their approvals.

Once Decided to Take Property.

One of the protesting trio, Commissioner Frank Bobrytzke, recalled that the board in July had decided to take possession of the property and asked other board members why there had been "a change of heart." He first refused to vote either way on the issue but later asked to be allowed to vote "no."

"More than a half million of the people's money is involved and I won't pass my vote," he said. "I believe we can get more money."

Later Bobrytzke asserted that the county could use the 17 story building, which originally cost about 2 million dollars, for its own purposes.

Commissioner, John E. Traeger said the settlement offered was "a bad deal" and Commissioner Maurice F. Kavanagh asserted that the advice given by civic organization representatives, who favored "reasonable" settlements, did not impress him.

Based Action on Advice.

The foreclosure committee, of which Commissioner Daniel Ryan is chairman, had in its discussion the previous day given great weight to the organization's spokesmen, several of them basing their action on the advice given.

Ryan said that the building was not suitable for remodeling and had no prospects as a money earner. Commissioner Harry Perry said that the visiting advisers had not made up his mind for him. Commissioners William N. Erickson, William Busse, and Peter Fosco said the case would not furnish a precedent for other properties and George F. Nixon said every case would have to stand on its own merits. Commissioner Edward M. Sneed said he was for the deal "if it will get the county some money."

Once Was White Elephant.

The board's decision in July was to take over the club property with a bid of the full amount of the taxes and penalties. Commissioner Ryan said that the county had had an unhappy time with a building it took over at 123 Madison street and didn't want another white elephant. The foreclosure was carried thru and the sale of the property was advertised. Under the board's order the county controler was instructed to be at the sale and bid in the building unless there was another bid of at least $100,000.

KEESHIN TO GET DATA ON RIVER BUS NEED TODAY

John Keeshin, head of the Keeshin Freight lines, will get information today on transportation congestion to aid him in outlining a proposal for river bus lines and freight transportation service, members of the city council's local transportation and finance committees assured him yesterday.

Maj. R. F. Kelker, head of the transportation committee's engineer staff, and his aids were directed by Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], transportation committee chairman, to meet with representatives of Keeshin's staff at 10 a. m. today and explain transportation difficulties.

Keeshin is to submit his boat service proposal, expected to operate from the Riverview park area to the loop, to a council committee at 2 p. m. Friday.

Community Fund Passes Quota by Nearly 4 Per Cent

Chicago's Community fund was increased by $30,000 yesterday when 10,000 employés of the Chicago Surface Lines turned in their subscription, bringing the fund's total to $3,847,542, nearly 4 per cent over the original goal.

Fears Stevens Purchase May Put U. S. Into Hotel Business

Byrd Raps Move

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 [Special].—Sen. Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.], chairman of the joint congressional departmental committee on reduction of federal expenditures, today asked the war department whether the recent purchase of the Stevens hotel in Chicago, largest in the country, meant that the government, or the department, was going into the hotel business after the war.

He requested that Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson send him an itemized statement of all purchases by his department of hotels and similar buildings, giving the cost to the government, the appraised value, and "all other details."

Long in Financial Straits.

"My attention has been called," he wrote Stimson, "to the fact that the war department has purchased the Stevens hotel in Chicago at a cost of $6,000,000. For years this hotel has been in financial difficulty and the president of the hotel corporation has announced that the purchase price of $6,000,000 is regarded as being very satisfactory to the security holders."

"What concerns me, however," Sen. Byrd wrote, "is the disposition of property such as this after the war. Can it be the purpose of the war department or the government itself, to engage in the hotel business?

"My observation has been that the federal government has never operated successfully, from a financial standpoint, a single activity of this character. In the programs of resettlement projects, vast losses have occurred.

"The same condition will result after the war if the government undertakes to operate hotels and similar activities. It is difficult, and indeed it is rare for the government to sell land and other property it purchases."

Held Better to Rent.

It would have been better, Sen. Byrd suggested, if the war department had continued to rent the Stevens. He reminded the secretary that he had been empowered to commandeer properties of this nature on a rental basis.

"In view of the loss in expenses, if operated," he continued, "and the difficulties of disposing of such property after the war, it certainly appears to me that renting would be preferable to making a direct purchase.

"We all recognize the need of subordinating every single activity to the needs of the army and navy at this time, but I do not think that any steps should be taken which will place the government in private business after the conclusion of the war, or force liquidation on a very large scale of such properties."

Backed by Trustees

Restoration of the Stevens hotel to its former business status after the war would require several years and expenditure of 3 to 5 million dollars, an outlay which the owning corporation probably could not have financed, the voting trustees said yesterday in a statement explaining why they approved sale of the property to the army.

The trustees—Fred P. Carr, Arthur B. Hall, and Thomas L. Marshall—and William F. Krahl, corporation president, signed the statement, in which they also urged the security holders to avoid expensive delay by giving prompt approval of the sale at a meeting of the voting trust certificate holders. With the statement was a notice that the meeting will be held at the Field building Jan. 16.

Statement Tells Difficulties.

"The voting trustees and directors knew that the cost of adequate renovation after army use would be very substantial," the statement said. "We knew, from our own experience, that several years would be required to restore the business, consisting of large conventions, the four floors of permanent apartments, and the general transient business."

After saying the corporation probably would not be able to finance expenses of physical renovation and restoration of business, the statement added:

"While the government in any case would be obligated to pay fair rental for the property, the government recognizes no loss of good will and entertains no claims for restoration of business, confining itself to an obligation to restore the physical property to its former condition, ordinary wear and tear excepted.

"Our real choice was between long, expensive litigation, in an attempt to realize enough to reëstablish the business, and a sale of the entire property."

Trustees Warn Against Delay.

The sale price of 6 million dollars covered real estate, buildings, equipment, and furnishings but not current assets, which were $961,905 on Oct. 31. Current liabilities were $286,820. The statement said $4 or $5 a share probably will remain for the common stock, as was disclosed previously.

However, the trustees added:

"If there is delay in obtaining the two-thirds vote [required for approval], the estimate of amounts remaining for the common stock may have to be reduced. And if the two-thirds vote cannot be obtained, the government may see fit to proceed with its condemnation suit. Expense will be less and uncertainties in outcome can be avoided if the holders of the voting trust certificates respond promptly."

BRITISH SUB HOME AFTER 2½ YEARS' PROWL IN 3 SEAS

Sank or Hit 20 Ships on 80,000 Mile Cruise.

LONDON, Dec. 16 [Wednesday], (AP).—The submarine Truant, one of the British navy's most famed undersea prowlers, is back home after two and a half years of hunting in which she was credited with sinking or damaging more than 20 axis ships and traveled more than 80,000 miles in the Mediterranean, the Indian ocean, and Java sea.

Refitted in United States.

After 12 months of activity in the Mediterranean the Truant went to the United States in May, 1941, for refitting and was back on her old hunting ground by October.

She was en route to Singapore when that base fell and went to Surabaya, the Dutch East Indies naval base, instead. The Truant operated with the allies in the southwest Pacific until the Indies fell and from there transferred to Colombo, Ceylon, and hunted in the Malacca straits from March to September this year.

Gets Stuck on Bottom.

Among her exploits were a surface attack on an enemy harbor because it was too shallow to enter submerged, getting stuck on the bottom while enemy destroyers raced overhead, sinking two out of three ships in a Japanese convoy and running a gantlet of Japanese destroyers in her successful break from the East Indies.

Her commanding officer is Lt. Comm. H. A. V. Haggard, son of Adm. Vernon Haggard and nephew of Rider Haggard, the novelist. He's 6 feet 5, one of the tallest submarine officers in the British navy.

HOLD FRENCH FOR BOMBINGS.

LONDON, Dec. 15 [AP].—Several persons had been arrested at Clermont Ferrand, France, on charges of "perpetrating the series of bomb attacks" which broke out in France in November, the Vichy radio announced today, according to a Reuters report.

CHICAGO BEACH HOTEL BECOMES ARMY HOSPITAL

The former Chicago Beach hotel, 1660 Hyde Park boulevard, will be opened Sunday as the station hospital of Chicago schools, army air force technical training command. The building has been renovated completely since it was bought by the army last Oct. 15.

The first floor contains offices for Lt. Col. John L. Gallagher, post surgeon, and his staff; dining rooms for patients and staff, and laboratories. A dental clinic occupies the second floor; operating rooms and nurses quarters are on the third floor, and the fourth to eighth floors contain rooms for semi-private patients and the wards. The medical detachment will live on the ninth and tenth floors.

Col. Gallagher said yesterday patients now quartered in a hospital on the 25th floor of the former Stevens hotel would be moved to the new hospital Sunday. Only a few beds will be retained in the former Stevens for emergency use. The new hospital will have sufficient facilities for some army personnel, in addition to men from the school.

SANTA STEPS OUT OF U.S. TANK WITH GIFTS IN KITBAGS

Yanks Give Toys, Candy to British Children.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Dec. 15.—Santa Claus, altho a noncombatant, employed the technique of modern, mechanized warfare today. He stepped from an American tank to delight nearly a hundred British youngsters with gifts carried in army kitbags.

A white beard and red costume were donned by Capt. Raymond Jennison, 235 pounds and a former professional football tackle, to bring the holiday spirit of his tank unit base for neighborhood orphans and other children whose fathers are war prisoners.

Give Up Candy Ration.

Toys were donated by commissioned officers. Noncommissioned officers and men put up the Christmas tree and gave up a month's candy rations so that these sweets could be distributed to the children.

The Americans were rewarded by the happy shouts of the children. Jennison, after alighting from a tank, immediately was swamped by the youngsters, none of whom minded Santa's early arrival this year.

While passing out games and balls, Jennison who came from Hopkinsville, Ky., remarked that this was the first Christmas he had not played Santa for his three year old daughter at home, and added: "Getting into this costume was tougher than putting on football togs."

Chicagoans Contribute.

Among Chicagoans at the base who contributed Christmas toys and candies were: 1st Lt. Milton Feinberg, 5402 Ingleside avenue; 2d Lt. Walter R. Gerwig, 7926 South Champlain avenue; Sergeants Thomes J. Brown, 7308 Woodlawn avenue; Edward D. Bruzewski, 3619 Diversey avenue; Melvin H. Kramer, 3504 West 64th street; Corporals Robert T. Elickson, 5447 North Sawyer avenue; William H. Young, 56 East Oak street; Sam P. Rizzon, 441 Evergreen street, and George Vlasich, 5441 South Ridgeway avenue.

EXPLAIN ALIMONY TROUBLES, COURT TELLS KRUTCKOFF

Charles H. Krutckoff, wholesale coal dealer, of 332 South Michigan avenue, son of Charles Krutckoff, Republican political leader, yesterday was ordered to appear before Judge Thomas J. Lynch in Circuit court Dec. 28 to show cause why he should not be held in contempt for being in arrears $1,000 in payments to his divorced wife, Mrs. Elsa Krutckoff, 7427 South Shore drive.

Krutckoff was ordered to pay his former wife $400 monthly for the support of herself and their son, Gerald, 10, at the time of their divorce last March 2. Attorney Hugh Johnson, representing Krutckoff, was granted leave to petition for modification of the decree and decreased payments, citing increased living costs.

Income Tax Payers Dodge Line at Federal Office

The expected heavy rush of income tax payers at the office of the collector of internal revenue did not entirely materialize yesterday—the deadline for the fourth and final instalments of the year. During the morning long lines formed, but by early afternoon the lines had dwindled and some information clerks were idle for as long as two hours. Many taxpayers apparently decided to mail in their payments.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

RADIO ENGINEERS.

Today the most recent procurement standards are given for men with a college or university degree for appointment as senior officers. Tomorrow we will describe appointments available for those without degrees, but who have had qualifying training and experience for junior officer radio specialists.

[a] Applicants must be between the ages of 21 and 51 and have an electrical engineering degree, plus a knowledge of technical fields of radio, or familiarity with electronics, ultra-high frequency, sound equipment, or some other phase of radio and/or audio transmission. Applicants accepted will be commissioned and sent to officer schools followed by training in those subjects which will give them the most advanced information in the field of communication.

Applicants must be between the ages of 36 and 54 and have a college degree in electrical or radio engineering, electrophysics, or the equivalent, and two or more years in active practice of some phase of radio engineering. If accepted, applicants will be assigned to radio engineering work in any of several fields in overhead installations, etc.

Physical requirements for both procurements are: Ability to pass a fairly rigid over-all physical; both eyes correctible to 20/40 [10/20] or better; imperfect color perception acceptable; waivers granted for nonorganic physical defects. If previously rejected for physical reasons, state reasons. Write to us stating procurement class [a or b] you can qualify for and give birthplace, age, draft status, education, and employment record.

R. W. asks: "Will men have to pay the victory tax on their 1942 incomes?"

ANSWER: No. This tax will be levied on the 1943 incomes, but it will never apply to incomes earned by men after they have entered service. We have prepared an article, "The Yank's Guide to 1942 Income Tax," which will be mailed to men in all branches of service who send us a large self-addressed envelope. Relatives and friends of Yanks who want a Yank to receive the article should send us a large stamped envelope addressed to the man in service.

M. T. C. asks: "I have received booklets on the WAACs and WAVES from you. Do you have similar information on the SPARs?"

ANSWER: Yes. Send us a signed request, together with a stamped envelope.

Truck Shortage Also a Serious Problem.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—Freight cars are being pressed into service to carry United States mails for the first time in history, postoffice department officials reported tonight.

The unprecedented volume of Christmas mail and packages that are taxing postoffice facilities thruout the nation, plus the fact that large numbers of railway baggage cars have been converted into mobile kitchens for use on troop trains, made the use of freight cars for carrying mail necessary, the officials reported.

See All-Time Record.

While no serious delays in delivery of Christmas mail have been reported, officials cautioned that the holiday mailing peak is still to be scaled.

Postoffice department officials said the volume of mail yet to move during the Christmas season this year will far surpass any previous record. Their estimates on the mail volume this year are based on the fact that the department delivered almost 5½ billion stamps to the nation's 43,000 postoffices for Christmas use. This is 288 million more stamps than were used last year despite the fact that millions of American soldiers enjoy free mailing.

Shortage of Trucks.

Lack of motor transportation may slow down deliveries when the peak is reached, officials said. In previous years the war department has lent the postoffice department a large number of army trucks to help deliver holiday mail. Last year 12,000 army trucks were used in the mail service. This year some will be used, but officials said "nothing like last year's total will be available."

Altho the department has been able to hire some private trucks, gasoline and tire rationing have limited the number of private trucks for hire, officials reported.

Officials commented that the postoffices generally had been able to obtain ample man power for the Christmas rush but a much larger portion of the workers this year is inexperienced in postoffice procedure.

1,607 FIRMS IN STATE REPORT ALL WORKERS IN WAR SAVINGS PLAN

Illinois is forging ahead in its drive to "Top that 10 per cent by New Years" in pay roll savings, says Norman B. Collins, state administrator of the Illinois war savings staff.

The drive started Nov. 16 with 1,205 firms employing 100 or more persons who had reached the 10 per cent goal. On Dec. 14, when the latest state reports became available, the number had increased to 1,607.

Of the 580 firms in Illinois who employ 500 or more, all but one are participating in the pay roll plan, which gives the state a rating of 99.6 per cent, Collins says.

YULE TOY COSTS CALLED 'OUTRAGE' IN BRITISH HOUSE

Ministry Expands Quota to Deflate Prices.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 15.—The high prices being charged for Christmas toys this year were the subject of complaints today in the house of commons.

William Thorne, Laborite, asked Hugh Dalton, president of the board of trade, whether he was aware of the inflated prices charged by stall holders at the Birmingham bazaar where a wooden engine, without mechanism or pedals, was offered for sale for nearly 10 pounds [about $40]. Dalton admitted that such a price was "outrageous," but insisted that it was up to the customer to lodge a complaint.

Due to protests against the scarcity, as well as the prices of toys, Dalton issued an order releasing an extra quota of toys for the Christmas trade.

Greater Hardships Ahead.

Altho the fourth Christmas of the war is likely to be the most meager Britain ever has experienced, the new year has even greater hardships in store, it was disclosed in commons.

Maj. Gwilym Lloyd George, minister of fuel, announced that, starting Jan. 1, the price of coal will be increased generally 1 shilling [about 20 cents] a ton.

At the same time a new scheme providing quotas for small traders in clothing, pottery, and hollow ware comes into force, under which London will get the lowest percentages in supplies of any district in the country.

London traders, it was announced, will get 50 per cent of the clothing, 80 per cent of the pottery, and 40 per cent of the hollow ware they received in an average year ranging between 1939 and 1941. The official reason given for the restriction of the capital's supplies was the removal of the civilian population to the country.

Import Powdered Meat.

To economize on shipping space, Frederick James Marquis, the minister of food, stated the government is importing powdered meat. This, he said, does not mean any increase in rations, for "our business in the future isn't to increase the amount of foodstuffs we are distributing but to maintain them."

The minister predicted that food control will continue for some time after the war is over, pointing out that immediately after hostilities end and the forces now abroad return home there will be many more people in this country to be fed, while shipping resources for a time at least will remain restricted.

NEW ROCKFORD BISHOP WILL BE INSTALLED FEB. 24

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 15 (AP).—Msgr. John J. Boylan, bishop-elect of Rockford, Ill., will be consecrated at St. Ambrose cathedral here Feb. 17 and will be installed at Rockford Feb. 24, it was announced today.

Msgr. Boylan, president of Dowling college here and vicar general of the Des Moines diocese, was named bishop recently by Pope Pius XII. He succeeds the Most Rev. Edward F. Hoban.

The installation at Rockford will have Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch of Chicago as celebrant.

SKIPPY—THE MODERN HUCKLEBERRY FINN

THIS nation need not worry about "morale." It is safe-guarded by a priceless "secret weapon"—the American sense of humor

You see it at work everywhere—every day...the "so what" that dismisses gasoline rationing...the grin that shrugs off sugar and coffee shortage...the wise-cracks that make even chilly houses bearable!

For more than 40 years, Puck-The Comic Weekly has, week after week, provided entertainment for millions of American men, women, and children, and has helped to cultivate the great American "sense of humor." Distributed through 15 of the most important Sunday newspapers from coast to coast, Puck today is a bulwark of our national morale.

Once a week, its colorful pages, like the fabled magic carpet, whisk away more than six million families into a dream world—a picture-world of laughter, lightheartedness and love.

Puck brings fun-filled moments of entertainment to millions on the home front. Among the boys in the armed forces, too, "the comics," by popular vote—according to a recent survey—top the list of Preferred Reading.

Old-Time Buddies

To civilians and soldiers alike, Puck's beloved characters are old-time buddies—pals who never let them down. Men and women in their 30's and 40's can boast a life-long companionship with Jiggs and Maggie, with Tillie the Toiler, Barney Google, or The Katzenjammers.

Younger folks in their 20's have been friends since childhood with Blondie, Popeye, Flash Gordon, Donald Duck, Skippy, and other favorite characters that make up Puck's All Star Cast.

But there's another group whose kinship to Puck dates back only 11 years—a shrewd, market-minded group of the nation's leading advertisers. For them, the pages in Puck-The Comic Weekly—since they became available for general advertising in 1931—have been an Open-Sesame to the homes of more than six million American families.

These firms who measure media from every conceivable angle have picked Puck year after year for three basic reasons:

1. It's the only NATIONAL Comic Weekly.
2. It blankets the great industrial areas which today, as always, are the most prosperous markets in the U. S. A.
3. It's read more thoroughly by more people than any other publication of its kind in the world.

MR. WALLACE RECANTS.

Vice President Henry Wallace has reconsidered his statement that Americans are fighting this war to give every one in the postwar world a quart of milk a day. That, Mr. Wallace says, was just some harmless hyperbole, and shouldn't be taken too literally. What he was attempting to express, Mr. Wallace adds, was the hope that the war would bring a higher standard of living to all the world's peoples. He didn't exactly propose that this be accomplished by taking away milk from Americans to boost the milk quota of some of our more remote cousins who are allies at least by signature.

Any one who is familiar with Mr. Wallace would be hesitant to say that this retraction represents a change in fundamental attitude. It would be much safer to say that Mr. Wallace has finally read the election returns. The Vice President at first tried to pass off the revolt at the polls in November with the assertion that "only the well to do" voted. When that failed to take he apparently decided that it would be advisable to lie low for a while. So he now soft pedals some of the more grandiose aspects of the New Deal program for cosmic tinkering. For the time, at least, a quart of milk for everybody is out.

The American people will be advised to keep a watchful eye cocked in the direction of Mr. Wallace and his associates in world rebuilding. They will recall that Mr. Wallace first proposed putting everybody on the milk standard last May 8. It has taken him more than seven months to discover that his meaning was "wilfully distorted." The voters who took his utterances at face value and registered their disapproval of the policy of making this country a Good Time Charlie for the whole world may have had something to do with Mr. Wallace's belated discovery.

It is not to be overlooked, however, that Mr. Wallace, in his rôle as philosopher of the New Deal, has made a large number of speeches between May 8 and the present, and there has been one consistent theme running thru all of them. That is that when he surveys the world Mr. Wallace finds many things American that he is willing to lend-lease or give away outright, while he finds much that is foreign to our way and life that he is eager to import.

The things that he would give away are largely tangible—milk and other food, machinery, factories, and the like—altho he is on record that he could also dispense with part of the Bill of Rights. The things he would like to borrow from others for our improvement are largely intangible. They are ideas, or, if you like, isms. He would like, for instance, to borrow the Russian idea of economic democracy, not unmindful, perhaps, of the fact that when he borrows the idea he borrows everything that goes with it, especially the despotic state control thru which communism reduces a people to social and economic ciphers for the glorification of those individuals who happen to personify the abstraction of the state.

The whole body of Mr. Wallace's doctrine suggests the belief that it is a fair trade for America to siphon off systematically its material resources for the benefit of other nations and to accept in return political and social concepts that could never be incorporated into the American structure without sacrificing the whole of the republican institutions and system of free enterprise built up thru more than a century and a half. In this respect Mr. Wallace can be likened to a gold brick salesman who has become so intoxicated with his own sales patter that he is his own best customer.

FOR THE RECORD.

Father Albert Detheye, a Dutch priest, has reached American military headquarters on Guadalcanal with the story of the killing of two priests and two nuns by the Japanese. Soldiers bayoneted them thru the throat when they refused to go into American lines and tell the marines that it was useless to resist Japanese attacks.

A good deal has been said concerning the punishment of war criminals. As the British were at pains to point out to the Russians when the demand was made that Hess be punished immediately, difficult questions of law and jurisdiction are involved in the punishment of persons charged with political offenses, or with offenses committed on the soil of countries other than that which holds the offender prisoner.

But no such obstacles appear in the cases of the Jap killers on Guadalcanal. What they did is denounced as murder by international law. The penalties provided apply equally to the killers and to their commander. The tides of war will swing away from Guadalcanal, thousands of miles away, but some day a court martial, an armed guard and a group of prisoners will go back there to complete unfinished business.

SURE, IT'S POLITICS.

If you buy milk in a store in a glass bottle you have to take the bottle back to the store or lose your deposit. If you buy milk at a store in a paper bottle you throw the bottle away when you are thru with it. If you're in the milk business, you can bottle milk in paper at a country plant and haul it to Chicago. If you used glass bottles, you would have to haul the bottles back to the country. That's too much hauling. The country bottler buys his plant site by the acre. The city bottler buys his by the front foot and he's stuck with it. Wages at the country plant are lower—this regardless of union conditions—because living is cheaper in the country.

Mayor Kelly says the row over paper bottles is "politics." He ought to know. He and his corporation counsel, Mr. Hodes, have been playing politics with it for years. The facts mentioned above show some of the wheels within wheels and give the public a pretty good idea of who might be supplying the oil to keep them running.

Housewives' preferences as between glass and paper bottles vary widely. There are no clear figures as to which method of packaging costs the less. But the paper bottle clearly stimulates store sales, and the customer who buys at the store doesn't have to pay the 3½ or 4 cents that it costs to have milk delivered to his door. Even without paper bottles about half of Chicago retail milk consumers have already abandoned the delivery system. That hurts the milk wagon drivers, but it's a considerable boon to some thousands of little business men, who make a substantial proportion of the store sales.

Corporation Counsel Hodes by his obstructive tactics in court is trying to play the game of the delivery men against the little business men. He's playing the game of the high cost city plant against the low cost country plant. He is playing politics against the milk consumers of the city, attempting to defeat technical and economic forces that might make milk cheaper if allowed to operate.

HITLER AND HIS GENERALS.

Hitler and the German generals have formed a strange group in the German picture ever since the introduction of the Austrian rabble rouser to the old Field Marshal Hindenburg, president of the republic and head of the military caste which was trained for only two purposes, to make war and to make the civilians get off the sidewalk. Hitler could cringe on that occasion more easily than the marshal could unbend. Posture, however, meant nothing if power was to be vested in the cringer, as it was.

In less than a year and a half Hitler, Hindenburg's chancellor, was murdering generals and Hindenburg in his trembling dotage was congratulating the new man on his "resolute intervention." The Austrian corporal started out by killing Gen. Schleicher, Gen. Bredow, and Gen. Lossow. They were among many Junker victims of his 1934 blood purge. The haughtiest military caste in the world has been docile ever since. It has been kicked around at the Austrian's pleasure. Now, apparently, it is completely under his secret police.

The house of Schickelgruber is more powerful than the house of Hohenzollern was in the other war. The generals then used the kaiser as a figurehead and ran the show. Before this war began Hitler cashiered Field Marshal Blomberg and Gen. Fritsch, chief of staff. The latter, joining a line regiment, virtually committed suicide in Poland by seeking duty on a detail where he could easily stop a bullet. The Austrian has treated Prussian generals as if they were office boys. He imposed Himmler and his cutthroats on the professional soldiers and made them like the outrages committed at their elbows. Some of the Italian professional soldiers, Gen. Badoglio, for instance, saved much more of their self-respect from fascism than the Germans saved from Nazilism. That ought to rankle.

Now Hitler has made an almost clean sweep in favor of Himmler and the Gestapo. Gen. Franz Halder was displaced as chief of staff in October, as is just announced, and Gen. Herman Zeitzler, a Gestapo trained officer, has been given the post. Other party men have been placed as chief of staff of the navy and the air force. Thruout Germany and the subjugated countries the district party leaders, the gauleiters, have been made responsible for defense. Hitler not only shackles his prisoners tho the British have stopped their retaliation; he has the political irons on his army.

The Nazi leaders must know that they are regarded as criminals. Their status is that of murderers. If they are taken, they will be turned over to the peoples against whom their crimes have been committed. There will be a scramble of accusers to get hold of the accused. There was much talk of hanging the kaiser with no one in authority to set up court prosecution and hire a hangman. Hitler, Himmler and company are within a jurisprudence—a system of laws of the various countries they have violated. Poles, Czechs, Norwegians, Dutch, Belgians, Danes, Greeks, Serbs, and French can bring indictments and arraign the persons charged with capital crimes. The guilty Nazis will hang separately, whether or not they hang together. Hitler has decided that they should begin hanging closer together.

It is just a year ago that the Nazi grip on Moscow was broken and with it the legend of Hitler's unerring generalship. He has broken many generals since then and is no nearer his goals. It is apparent that self-preservation is beginning to have a large part in the Nazi councils and that Herr Hitler is far from assuming that his professional soldiers have the same stake in the outcome that he and his party associates have. There doesn't seem to be much that the generals can do about it at present, but certainly any misgivings that any of them may have had when they made their arrangements to receive the Fuehrer as the savior of the army must now be regarded as wholly valid.

NOW KILL THE NYA AND FSA.

[New York News.]

Frank R. Kent also pointed out that, tho the President has just killed off the WPA because there is no longer any need for it, the NYA and the FSA remain alive and continue to squander our money.

These two outfits, the National Youth administration and the Farm Security administration, have been special pets of Mrs. Roosevelt's. They may once have been useful, tho there are plenty who say they have never yet justified their creation. The NYA was supposed to train young people in various trades, the FSA to "rehabilitate" the small, "submerged" farmer.

The young people are now streaming into the army and war plants, both of which can train them more effectively than can the NYA. The FSA appears not to have rehabilitated any small farmers beyond the point of convincing them that the government owes them a living, plus movie ticket money, poll tax money, and other remittances not connected with agriculture. Farm prices, furthermore, are now so high that any of these people who can't make a living on the farms would better try other trades.

The NYA and FSA should speedily follow the WPA into oblivion.

CHOCOLATE APPLESAUCE.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

Evidence that the staff of the War Production board has grown beyond the size necessary for the accomplishment of its normal duties so that some of its employés have to make work for themselves can be found in the WPB order prohibiting the use of chocolate in the manufacture of candy Santa Clauses.

The shortage of chocolate and the need for it in the armed forces makes it necessary, we recognize, to restrict its civilian use. But that is where the WPB's interest in the matter should have stopped. The detail of how the civilian portion should be used is our own business and we don't like the idea of some burocrat taking it off our youngster's Christmas tree and putting it in a box marked: "To My Sweetheart."

To be sure, the WPB tries to justify its highhandedness by saying that chocolate Santa Clauses are just decorations and are not eaten. That shows how much the WPB knows about chocolate Santa Clauses.

THEY USED TO BE "QUAINT."

An ancient Chinese name for Japan was the Country of the Dwarfs. The Sons of Heaven have never forgiven the Flowery Kingdom for the insult, altho it is many centuries old.

* * *

The arrogance attributed to the Japanese by occidental writers who have seen beneath the surface of ceremonial courtesy might be considered a symptom of a racial inferiority complex. This characteristic was observed long before Commodore Perry broke down the barriers of Nippon's isolation. You will find a reference to it in Capt. Cook's "Voyages," published in 1788.

* * *

"Inferiority complex," of course, has become a rubber stamp of amateur psychologists. It generally means a chronic trouble-maker.

* * *

The eccentricities of Japanese character may be due, in part, to the national diet, which has been notoriously faulty and unbalanced. Diseases of vitamin deficiency, such as beri-beri and pellagra, produce symptoms of mental disorder.

* * *

The physicians of Emperor Hirohito insist that he eat one foreign meal a day as a safeguard against the perils of a completely patriotic cuisine. So he condescends to western custom at breakfast, partaking of fruit, cereal, toast, and coffee. This is his wartime bill of fare. In peace, he adds bacon and eggs.

* * *

Japan's pre-war political assassins, who posed as patriots, usually received light sentences and bales of fan mail. It may be added, as a sidelight on the Japanese massmind, that the fan letters were often written in the sender's blood.

MIDNIGHT READER'S REVERIE.

The moon is down; no birds across the sky
Go west with the night. Here under my elm
I find a time of peace, for dreams that die
When storm over the land invades my quiet realm,
This fortress sacrosanct, where all night long
I browse among new books till wingèd Mars
Makes thunder in heaven, drowning out the song
Of Bernadette, splashing mud on the stars.
Then men at war, the uninvited, make
My mind a thorofare; behind both lines
The unrelenting struggle is at stake.
Night is not wholly black while one small candle shines.

The near horizons, violet-flushed, await
Wake up, O world in trance! Time runs out late!
Today the sun rises and the splendor stays.
Thus for my people day must dawn and fill

Pass the Soft Soap.

Grandpaw used to snarl, "You orter run for office—yore so dang handy with the soft soap." Some folks still use the term, not knowin' where it came from. Down home in Schuyler county there was always a bucket of soft soap underneath the wash-rack outside the back porch. Dark yellow and strong as lye it was. Durn near took the hide off and you dassent get any near your eyes, but it was sure medicine for any axle grease or any stink you got on your hands. Grandmaw made it.

Behind the smokehouse, where it caught some of the rainwater off the roof, was a big wooden vat like a pyramid upside down, with a tight, box-shaped trough underneath it. We burned nothin' but wood, of course, and all year long the wood ashes all went into that vat. Grandmaw said the rainwater leachin' thru the ashes made lye.

All year long, too, she saved all the kitchen grease. Livin' on hawg meat, there was a-plenty. Then, once a year, they built a fire under the big iron kettles, dumped in the lye and the grease, and boiled 'em. What grandmaw skimmed off was "soft soap."

These here chemists nowadays tell me that was "potassium stearate" and that we could have had "sodium stearate," or modern hard soap, by saltin' it out with brine. Me, I'd give anything, sometimes, for a dab of the old-fashioned kind. Some of my constituents need it! Buckshot, O. R. S.

SONG OF CHRISTMAS.

There is goodness in the gladness
Of the Christmas-shopping throng;
It is wholesome to be happy
Even when the world's all wrong;
There's a song of human kindness,
Reassuring as it wells
Of Salvation Army bells.

Thru the morning's helter-skelter
As the traffic roars in flights—
Thru the silky dark of evening,
Tempered by a million lights—
Comes the oft-repeated story
Which the Christmas legend tells
Of Salvation Army bells.

There's a maid on every corner
Guarding kettle gayly red,
With a smile for all who hurry,
And a bonnet on her head—
Never minding that she's weary,
For the heart of Christmas dwells

HOW THE SINUSES BECOME INFECTED.

THE world is full of misinformation and many of us possess curious notions about the sinuses. These cavities within the skull communicate with the airways of the nose thru relatively small openings. They are lined with mucous membrane which is rich in capillaries and hence is provided with a generous volume of blood. In consequence, they assist in warming the breathed-in air on a cold day.

But the inner coat is not idle. It secretes mucus and some of the cells are ornamented with whips [cilia] which are constantly in motion and which move particles of the secretion outward. Should dust find its way into the entrance it will be swept away. In like fashion, bacteria are unwelcome.

On the other hand, in the presence of a lowered resistance or when a long standing infection within the nasal passages injures the coating, countless colonies of organisms may set up irritation with the production of pus. Thus it is that an acute infection will not only injure the brooms which should brush out the débris, but may give rise to a substantial amount of "corruption." As a result, the membrane thickens and scar tissue is deposited. The sinus then loses its power to function naturally and may become the lurking place of germs.

The chances are that no one of us is completely free from inflammation in the vicinity of one of these compartments. For example, if a chronic cold has left its tracks behind, the discharge may become so gluelike that it cannot be drained away easily. We may say then that the victim of this type of coryza is suffering from sinus involvement. Once microbes are working happily in one of these caverns their antics may persist for weeks or months.

The reason we do not advise oily sprays is not only because some of the droplets may reach the lungs but because the swishing action of the cilia is destroyed. The use of adrenalin or cocaine, however, to shrink the cells around the outlet may be helpful. Irrigations may also be of value. A mild antiseptic solution passing over a doorway may dislodge an adherent scab which has acted as a plug. For those who suffer actual pain and possible absorption of pus, the treatment may need to be vigorous.

We must not forget vaccines which may aid in building resistance against the invaders. Physical therapy also plays an important rôle. But for the chronic case, either widening the portal or providing drainage in another fashion may be demanded.

The plan of lowering the air pressure—thus forcing material outward thru the expanding atmosphere within—has been productive of excellent results. In one of our clinics several hundred patients have been treated in this fashion. The procedure consists in placing the afflicted one in a chamber and then reproducing the conditions which would exist at an elevation of 10,000 feet. The sufferer is taken to the required altitude gradually and allowed to descend slowly. This regimen was suggested by a layman who found that on airplane flights his sinuses would discharge profusely. Considerable relief followed.

With more attention to the common cold we can ward off or minimize the effects of infection. Little permanent damage will ensue if we will help the body to manufacture its own vaccine.

BONE DEFECT.

A. F. writes: I am 19 years old and have severe pain in my thigh. The doctor says I have osteochondritis juvenilis. What is this disease?

REPLY.

This condition is called "Perthes' disease." During growth, the head of the thigh bone shrinks and loses its strength. Unless treatment is adequate, deformity may result.

INFECTED TEETH.

Mrs. P. writes: Can devitalized teeth cause skin disorders?

REPLY.

A CONSERVATOR NEEDED.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—All of us at one time or another have heard or read about men, sane in all outward appearances, who suddenly take to giving away all of their worldly possessions. If discovered in time their families or relatives can and usually do take them into court and have them adjudged incompetent to administer their own affairs. I wonder how long it will take the American public to awaken to the fact that the dreamy idealists now administering our affairs in Washington have "lost their minds" and are no longer competent to look after their own or the public's interests?

We, too, can take these people to court and have them adjudged incompetent. A new congress meets in January and for the first time in 10 years it will start out as a "free" congress. Let us therefore petition congress to take over the administration of our affairs before our incompetent leaders dissipate or give away the way of life for which every man in the service of his country is fighting.

During and after the last war this country under Mr. Hoover fed and clothed millions of Europe's starving and naked. We did it out of our surplus and it was and still is the human and Christian thing to share our blessings with our less fortunate fellow men. But it is pure insanity to give away so much of your worldly goods that you reduce yourself to a lower state than the object of your charity.

Mr. Churchill says that he doesn't propose to liquidate the British empire. Let us demand that congress prevent our "leaders" from liquidating the American nation. AMERICAN SUBJECT.

SHAVETAIL.

West Point, N. Y., Dec. 10.—We cannot discover the source of the term "shavetail" in any of our reference books. The origin of the word was before the World war. Perhaps the practice of the army to shave the tails of the young mules to warn bystanders that the mules were unbroken may be the answer—however, we are not sure.

MEN NEVER MAKE PASSES—

Chicago, Dec. 9.—The scrapping of the WPA was the most patriotic act that has happened in 10 years. Now for a mass resignation in Washington, from A to Z. JAMES LAWRENCE.

LABOR AND THE WAR EFFORT.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—With labor organizations frequently proclaiming labor's contribution to the war effort, why don't the organizations go "all out" by investing 10% of their income in war bonds as the great majority of the individual union members are pledged to do?

Labor is making a magnificent contribution to the war effort, but what about the labor organizations? Are they? We read continually of strikes, walkouts, and slowdowns—all devices that labor organizations promised to forgo for the duration. Just picture any of the military attempting such a thing as a strike against their superior officers. The men in the service are not fighting for anything but the preservation of the American way of life as they left it. Labor leaders are sadly mistaken if their belief is that the American soldier, sailor, or marine will give his all for a social and economic revolution. And the leaders of labor will have lots of accounting to give to the boys who do come back.

Why does the American public allow itself to be "taken" day in and day out by this European instigated "new order" of things? "Too little, too late" will be the story again if the people on the home front don't wake up and realize how they are being duped into the very things they are supposed to be fighting against.

CATTLE CARS.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—I am curious to know who conceived the brilliant idea of the sit-stand buses and whether this plan is approved by the National Safety council.

Several years ago a terrible crash occurred on the elevated lines and the investigation proved that if the cars had been all metal many lives would have been saved. Last week a fire broke out in a night club in Boston causing the loss of some 400 lives, and a revolving door was blamed for causing a panic.

Now we read of these new type buses, designed primarily to increase fares and not protect lives. Will some one kindly explain how passengers are going to get out of these cattle cars in case of a smash-up? DEFENSE WORKER.

WOMEN FARM HANDS.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—I see by the morning's paper that Mrs. Roosevelt wants women to be trained as farm hands. Why let the farm hands come to the city and work in war plants, when they are already trained from youth to work on the farms? If women should be trained, why not train them as war plant workers? E. The City Code, Section 27-1, says "for the purposes of this chapter a bicycle shall be deemed a vehicle. And in Section 27-31, "no operator of a vehicle shall drive within any sidewalk area except at a permanent or temporary driveway." We find nothing more specific on your point.

Test Your Horse Sense

By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 41.

1. When a streetcar employs sand, the season is probably Summer Winter Spring Autumn.
2. A lock is usually associated with which body of water below?
   River Lake Canal Ocean.
3. A "viva voce" vote is taken by which of the following methods?
   Standing Show of Hands Orally Secret Ballot.
4. "Drop one, purl two" refers to which of these actions?
   Knitting Embroidering Crocheting Hemstitching.
5. Which one of these is not a typical fresh water fish?
   Pike Muskellunge Bluegill Salmon.
6. Synonyms are words that mean much the same thing, such as "thin" and "skinny." Antonyms, however, are words of opposite meanings, such as "thin" and "fat." In the following pairs of words you are to decide which are synonyms and which are antonyms. Place a check mark under the appropriate heading for each pair. You deserve one point for each correct judgment.

	Synonyms	Antonyms
Eminent—Illustrious	....	....
Obese—Corpulent	....	....
Sanguine—Despondent	....	....
Sober—Inebriated	....	....
Innocent—Culpable	....	....

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

18 MEN AND A BOAT

THE WAR is teaching us that heroes are likely to be quiet, simple men. When, after much questioning, you get them to talk, they do it matter-of-factly, without vainglory. It is only afterward, when you think about the stories they tell, that they take on epic proportions.

Lieutenant Commander Morrill is like that. You can see in his face a hint of the qualities which brought him and seventeen men of the mine sweeper Quail through thirty-one days in a thirty-six-foot boat navigating Jap-infested seas.

On the day Corregidor surrendered, Morrill received orders to abandon the mine sweeper and take his men ashore. Then a coded order came to scuttle his ship.

The small boat in which Morrill had come ashore had been destroyed by a bomb. So he gathered an impromptu scuttling party to swim out to begin his task. The Japs were stitching a fancy pattern with bullets as he and his men launched themselves smack into one of the most exciting voyages of this or any war. At this point Morrill takes over the telling of the story himself. It is the story of a group of men looking danger squarely in the eye and staring it down.

OPA WILL PROBE CHARGES AGAINST C BOOK HOLDERS

Few Accused of Cheating in Gas Rationing.

Only three complaints accusing motorists of obtaining "C" gasoline rations illegally have been received by the office of price administration in the Chicago metropolitan area, Michael F. Mulcahey, OPA director for the area, reported last night.

"The charges will be thoroly investigated by a staff under Walter C. Archer, chief investigator," Mulcahy said. "Publication of the names of 'C' card holders subjects any motorist who has been awarded extra gasoline to the scrutiny of his neighbors. We will check every complaint and take action against any motorist who has obtained the supplemental ration illegally."

Hold Power to Cut Rations.

The rationing director explained that local rationing boards are authorized to call motorists for a hearing at which the charges can be aired. The board has the power to reduce or revoke the gasoline ration if it was issued improperly.

One of the three complaints made to the OPA central office came from the estranged wife of a "C" motorist, Archer said. She denounced her husband and said that "he was the last person in the world who deserved extra gasoline."

List More "C" Book Holders.

An additional list of "C" ration book holders follows. Those who received "C" books are classed as war industry or construction workers unless otherwise specified.

State Street Opens Annual Christmas Carol Season

Leaders Participate

State street's mile long amplification system was opened for the holiday season yesterday at noon ceremonies in which Chicago leaders participated. Mayor Kelly and Elmer T. Stevens, president of the State Street council, which sponsors the loop's annual carol broadcasts, were speakers.

Jeanne Gould, young Chicago soprano, broadcast, "Silent Night," the first carol heard along State street this year. Pvt. John Schickling, baritone, sang, "O, Holy Night." Miss Gould was supported by the army and navy sextette.

Guests at the first 1942 Christmas broadcast were: David Mayer Jr., chairman of the board of the State Street council; Hughston M. McBain, vice president of the council, and Walter L. Gregory, council treasurer.

Italy to Teach Children by Radio; No Heat in Schools

BERLIN, Dec. 15 [from German broadcasts] (AP).—Some 300,000 Italian school children will stay home and receive their lessons by radio in January and a part of February because of a shortage of fuel for heating schools.

CONFUSION OVER TIRE INSPECTION FORCES PARLEY

Official Session Set for Tonight.

Confusion in the OPA tire inspection program, caused by misunderstanding of the regulations and a delay in distributing forms for use by the inspectors, was reported yesterday. Hundreds of motorists complained that they were turned away from inspection stations.

Earl S. Dunne.

Earl S. Dunne, tire rationing officer for the Chicago area, said he expected that much of the bewilderment over the program would be cleared away at a meeting of 460 authorized tire inspectors at 6 p. m. today in Crane Technical High school auditorium, 2245 Jackson boulevard.

At this meeting, described as a formal induction, the inspectors will receive credentials, final instructions, and inspirational lectures.

Conflicting Statements Made.

The inspectors already have been ordered to proceed with tire inspections without waiting for the formal induction, according to Michael F. Mulcahy, office of price administration director for the Chicago area. This statement was disputed by operators of inspection stations, who said they had received only a notice of their appointment, with no orders at all.

Some inspectors also complained they had been sent no forms for making corrections in the tire inspection records and no forms for making applications for new or recapped tires. Rationing Officer Dunne admitted that distribution of the forms had been delayed, but he said a new supply was received last Saturday and plenty of forms would be available at the meeting tonight.

Dunne said he understood most stations had been making tire inspections as directed. He expressed belief that most of the confusion was a result of a misunderstanding by motorists—that they were required to have their tires inspected before Dec. 12.

Dec. 12 the Deadline.

This date, he explained, was the deadline, after which it would be illegal to drive on unregistered tires or to purchase gasoline without having the tire inspection record in the car.

Dunne emphasized that the first tire inspection must be completed before Feb. 1.

Part of the confusion grew out of the announcement by Director Mulcahy of a schedule of tire inspection dates based on city vehicle license numbers. Under this schedule, holders of numbers up to 140,000 were supposed to have their tires inspected last week and this week. Motorists who tried to comply were turned away from some inspection stations.

Dunne said several hundred service stations—tire and auto dealers—would be authorized to make tire inspections in the suburban area. He said sufficient stations would be designated to provide nearby inspection points for all motorists.

More Stations to Be Designated.

In Chicago, 148 authorized inspection stations for passenger cars and 55 for trucks and passenger cars have been distributed strategically thruout the city. Dunne said more gasoline filling stations would be designated.

Free inspection service will be furnished by the city safety inspection centers, which are capable of handling 250,000 automobiles a month, Dunne said.

Periodic tire inspection is required by the OPA mileage rationing regulation at least once every four months. Truck operators and holders of B and C supplemental gas rations, however, will have to submit their tires to an inspection every two months.

Mulcahy said additional establishments qualified to make tire inspections would be announced later this week. Inspectors employed by fleet operators to check their own tires already have been inducted.

SUGGESTS PANEL OF 3 TO ARBITRATE WAGE DEMANDS ON 'L' LINES

Reporting no progress after a three-hour conference with trustees of the "L" lines and a committee of union workers, Harry E. Scheck, department of labor conciliation commissioner, said yesterday he is recommending to his superiors that a panel of three conciliators be named to conduct hearings on wage increase demands of "L" employés.

Scheck said both trustees and union committee members expressed willingness to "work with me in a solution of this problem that will not interrupt the service to the public." The union committee was firm in its demand for wage increases and the trustees declared they did not have the money to pay these increases, Scheck said. Decision on his proposal will be made before the deadline of 12:01 a. m. Sunday, set by the union for strike action.

Ald. Walter J. Orlikoski [35th], chairman of a special city council subcommittee to the local transportation committee, has called a meeeting of his subcommittee for 2 p. m. today in the city hall to take up the problem of the threatened "L" strike.

Attending yesterday's conference were Bernard J. Fallon and Col. A. A. Sprague, trustees of the elevated lines, and William F. Levander, president of the union; Margaret Neary, Charles J. Burns, Alex Muscato, William Larabell, and Arthur Lavigne.

Trucker Who Drove Into Train Sued for $75,000

Wesley Frank Jones Jr., a Midwest Dairy Products corporation truck driver from Tennessee, was named defendant in a $75,000 personal injury suit filed in Kane county Circuit court in Geneva yesterday for driving his truck into the path of an Illinois Central train at Plato Center last Feb. 18. Warren F. Wymer, a representative of the American Car and Foundry company stationed in Omaha, Neb., at that time, asks the damages for injuries suffered in the train-truck crash as a passenger on the train.

WAR WORK HURT BY CLOSED SHOP, OFFICIAL ASSERTS

Give It Up, Man Power Aid Asks Unions.

The closed shop is interfering with war production, William H. Spencer, regional director of the war man power commission and dean of the school of business at the University of Chicago, told a wartime man power symposium last night at the Covenant club, held under the auspices of B'nai B'rith.

"For the duration of the war, labor unions should give up the closed shop to permit the greatest possible use of all workers' skill," he said.

The union labor question was one of three Mr. Spencer cited as interfering with the managing of industry properly and orderly. The others, he said, are pirating of labor and hoarding of skills [skilled workers].

Forced "Disgorging" Hinted.

"Manufacturers who have hoarded skilled workers will be forced to disclose and to disgorge the men so that their skills may be used to the utmost," he said.

In regard to the pirating of labor, he said that industry has always maintained its right to hire at the gate, "but to have an orderly and stabilized labor market, industry must coöperate with the war employment service to stabilize the market."

There has been no pirating of labor in the Chicago area as yet, he added, "but unless the labor market is stabilized quickly there will be when new industries now under construction go into production."

He cited figures to show how the military services and industry have drained the employment market, and have caused a drop in farm labor.

Cites Military Expansion.

On Dec. 1, 1941, he said, there were 2,100,000 men in the army and navy. In December, 1942, this figure had grown to 5,500,000 and in December of 1943 it will have reached 9,500,000.

Workers in war industries in December, 1941, totaled 6,900,000; in December, 1942, 17,500,000, and in December, 1943, are expected to reach 20,000,000. Agricultural workers in December, 1941, totaled 8,300,000. In December this year, he said, the figure had dropped to 8,100,000 and in December next year will have dropped to 7,900,000 unless action is taken to stop the drafting of farm labor and the migration of farm workers into industry."

Mr. Spencer said that between 6 and 7 million women will be needed in war industries: "We will also get from 500,000 to 1,500,000 workers from the older, younger, and handicapped groups," he added.

Warns Against Child Drain.

He criticized the employment of men of school age in industry. "We may be bringing in some men too young from the secondary schools," he said. "In the long run this practice may be damaging to our war production. The solution for part of the man power problem is a longer work week. The pay problem is a separate issue and is up to the war labor board.

"Business as usual can't go on if we are to win the war. A lot of nonwar industries and unessential businesses must go. Some of you are going to be hurt. The man power commission hopes to accomplish its end by voluntary agreements, but if these cannot be had it will be necessary to ask for legislation with teeth in it."

ORDERS MAYOR, 10 CALUMET CITY CHIEFS TO COURT

Circuit Judge John Prystalski yesterday ordered Mayor John Jaranowski and the 10 aldermen of Calumet City to appear in court tomorrow. The 11 officials have been found guilty of contempt of court because they refused to approve a $425,000 bond issue to satisfy judgments against the city, and if their refusal continues, they are liable for jail sentences.

Attorney Franklin Stransky, representing the mayor and council, reported to Judge Prystalski that the council last week, by a vote of 7 to 3, refused to approve the bond issue.

Only four members of the present board of aldermen were in office when the litigation began several years ago.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

THE QUESTION.

What Christmas gift gave you the most pleasure?

WHERE ASKED.

Michigan avenue and Randolph street.

THE ANSWERS.

Mrs. John Leckman, housewife, 13130 Houston avenue—The satisfaction I derived from giving my young son a train excelled all the other pleasures of receiving gifts. It gave me even more pleasure to discover, at long last, a Christmas gift that my husband also enjoyed. Those winding tracks knitted our family into a cozy little group.

Mrs. Stanley Oleo, housewife, 13300 Houston avenue—For a long time I had been accumulating things for my hope chest. I had everything but the hope chest, and for Christmas my fiancé gave me one in the biggest package I've ever received. It was all wrapped in beautiful paper and big red ribbons.

Kay Moore, clerk, 6912 Dorchester avenue—I have a cousin in the army who is like a brother to me and a son to my mother. He gave me a picture of himself, and in turn I gave it to my mother after having it beautifully mounted and framed. She was never so thrilled with any gift and now we both value it highly because he's in far off India.

Carmella Capriglione, student technician, 11802 Parnell avenue—A patient at the hospital gave me credit for discovering what was wrong with him because I had taken X-rays that revealed his trouble. The following Christmas he and his wife came to my home to give me a box of candy for enabling him to spend Christmas at home.

Mrs. J. P. Sowa, housewife, 13040 Carondolet avenue—All during the time I was opening the packages on Christmas day I was aware of not yet having received a gift from my fiancé. I was about ready to give up when he walked in with the most beautiful of all gifts: a diamond engagement ring. That was a pretty important gift.

Mrs. Manuel J. Sugar, housewife, 5330 Harper avenue—When I was younger it seems my demands for Christmas gifts weren't so great; I usually took them for granted. But last year I was hoping for a fur jacket. The day before Christmas my mother and I went down and selected a beautiful one. How I enjoyed that!

SON TRIED FOR MURDER RECANTS HIS CONFESSION

Joseph M. Ruff, 53 years old, a butcher, went on trial yesterday before Judge Rudolph Desort in Criminal court on a charge of murdering his mother, Mrs. Rachel Huff, 84. Prospective jurors were qualified by Assistant State's Attorney Edmund Grant for infliction of the death penalty.

Mrs. Ruff was found in a dying condition in her home at 1818 South Springfield avenue last Sept. 5. Physicians said she had been strangled, her eyes blackened, her neck broken, and her chest crushed. She died soon afterward.

Ruff confessed the killing, saying that his mother had nagged him and that his mind went black after he first struck her. At the time, police indicated the elderly woman had been raped. Samuel A. Hoffman, attorney for Ruff, said Ruff would repudiate his purported confession, and that his client did not know who killed Mrs. Ruff.

WLB CONCLUDES IT LACKS POWER IN CITIES' CASES

Finds No Authority to Back Its Action in 3 Disputes.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—The War Labor board ruled today that it had no power to decide labor disputes involving state or municipal agencies and their employés.

The decision was reached in three disputes involving the cities of New York, Newark, N. J., and Omaha, Neb. The board conducted a public hearing last week on the question of its jurisdiction in such disputes, with the city governments arguing that the board had no authority to intervene.

Board Issues Resoluion.

The board stated its position in the following resolution:

"After careful consideration of all the matters presented to the national war labor board at and in connection with the public hearing on Dec. 9, 1942, the board finds that it has no power under executive order No. 9017 to issue any directive order or regulation in these disputes governing the conduct of the state or municipal agency involved."

Executive order No. 9017 created the board last January and delineated its powers in labor disputes.

Favors Offers of Aid.

Wayne Morse, member of the board, added a reservation saying that the board should offer aid in disputes involving state and municipal workers when requested to do so by both sides.

H. L. Derby, another member who voted for the resolution, issued a statement saying that he believed the board not only did not have jurisdiction under executive order No. 9017 but there was nothing in the national labor relations act, the wage and hour act, the constitution, or any federal or state law giving the board jurisdiction.

The New York case involved the city board of transportation and the Congress of Industrial Organizations transport union. In Newark, the CIO state, county, and municipal workers were involved, and a strike which tied up garbage collection for several days had occurred. The metropolitan utilities district of Omaha and the AFL American Federation of state, county, and municipal employés were the parties in the third dispute.

PROBE DEMANDED ON U. S. BUREAU FARM LAW DODGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—An investigation to determine whether the New Deal burocracy should comply with laws passed by congress with respect to agricultural commodity prices and subsidies was recommended in a report filed today by Sen. Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.] with unanimous approval of the senate agriculture committee.

Sen. Clyde M. Reed [R., Kas.], coauthor of the Gillette resolution, said a senate investigation would be necessary to ascertain why, with a total wheat supply of 1 billion 615 million bushels for the 1942-'43 season—by far the largest in history—there is "the definite prospect of a bread shortage in January."

Reed said that if the investigation is authorized by the senate it will be found the threat of a bread shortage results from refusal of burocrats to conform their policies to laws passed by congress.

Altho the investigation is not expected to be authorized before congress adjourns sine die tomorrow, the resolution will be reintroduced when the new congress meets Jan. 6, its co-authors announced.

Sen. Gillette's report said the so-called anti-inflation act of Oct. 2, 1942, provides that no maximum price shall be established for any commodity manufactured or processed in whole or substantially in part from any agricultural commodity which will reflect to the producer of the agricultural commodity a price less than parity.

It added that it is a matter of common knowledge and has been announced officially by the department of agriculture that various "methods of evading the law" are being considered.

The report also recalled that James F. Byrnes, director of economic stabilization, outlined "various plans by which the law could be evaded" thru the use of subsidies when he testified before the agriculture committee Oct. 26.

Leon Henderson, price administrator, fixed maximum flour prices at levels reflecting only 76 per cent of parity for wheat because of President Roosevelt's demand for the deduction of all government subsidies to agricultural producers in computing parity for maximum price purposes.

A BOY COMES HOME

REMEMBER how he used to come home?

There'd be the slam of a car door in the dusk. "So long, Joe, see you tomorrow." Then the swift, light footfalls brushing the leaves on the walk, the thud as 160 pounds of wiry muscle hit the porch in an easy bound that ignored the existence of steps . . . the crash of the front door, rattling every picture in the house, and the newly baritone voice calling, "Hey, Mom, when do we eat?"

Remember?

Now, a Marine flyer, he comes thundering in to Guadalcanal in the last light, the wind howling through the new hole in the fuselage where a chunk of shell just missed. The bomb racks are empty and, miles away on the darkening water, a Jap officer volleys desperate orders from the bridge of a destroyer that will never see Yokohama again.

Below, as his plane circles, American guns are still pounding away, winking and flashing in the twilight. On the flying field the crawling tractors and their sweaty drivers are at their endless task, filling fresh shell holes and bomb craters, making a safe surface for him. Back and forth the tractors go, up and down, looking from this height like friendly beetles, each rolling a ball of earth ahead of it. He is conscious of relief. That strip hadn't looked too good when he took off.

He loses altitude now, the ground comes up with a rush and the wheels touch and cling. He climbs stiffly down and a voice says from the gloom, "You're late, pal. Nothing minor, I hope?" He grins. Bill must have waited around, the worry-wart. What he says is, "Okay, here. Did you wolves by some mischance leave anything to eat?"

He's back at his home port again—and safe!

* * *

To make his homecoming safe, the rugged International tractors which the Marines took to Guadalcanal have worked unceasingly throughout that wild fight. Under every adverse condition, the tractors have kept going, their performance a tribute to the determined men and women who built them.

We take it to be our job, and the only job of the many machines and weapons we make for Army, Navy, and Marines, to do our best to see that every American fighting man comes home—AND COMES VICTORIOUS.

GREEN, BARRETT TO CLARIFY G. O. P. MAYORAL ISSUE

Expect to Hear from Two Leaders Tomorrow.

Gov. Dwight H. Green and Attorney General George F. Barrett are expected to help clarify the Republican mayoral situation tomorrow. Some progress may be made today when the committee of eleven ward leaders, of whom Barrett is one, holds another meeting to discuss prospective candidates.

The possibility of Barrett himself making the race will be threshed out. Because of his popularity with the party workers who have for years carried water for the G. O. P. element and his consistent blasting of the Kelly-Nash machine, the candidate pickers want to know whether the state constitution makes it impossible for him to run.

Interview Five Possibilities.

Chairman John T. Dempsey of the county central committee spent yesterday interviewing the five new entries in the field whose names were introduced Monday. They are Robert L. Hunter, chairman of the state civil service commission; Ralph A. Neff, civilian defense community commander in Austin; Thomas E. Wilson, chairman of the board of the packing firm bearing his name; Patrick H. Moynihan, former congressman, and Col. Paul G. Armstrong, state selective service director.

Petitions were being circulated in behalf of Thomas J. Houston, past imperial potentate of the Shriners of North America and former chairman of the city civil service commission.

Predictions were made freely that the man favored by the regular organization leaders will emerge by the end of this week. There is no time to be lost because aldermanic filings open Dec. 26 and most ward committeemen want to take the mayoral candidate into account in picking candidates for alderman.

With opposition to fusion growing in important party quarters, there was less discussion in political circles of the idea of asking State's Attorney Courtney or County Judge Jarecki to run on the Republican ticket. There is a good chance that the fusion plan may be taken up at today's meeting for its first formal discussion and tossed out of the window.

Fusion Not Wholly Discarded.

Nevertheless, Chairman Dempsey stressed again that the fusion possibility has not been eliminated.

Material for the coming city campaign is being prepared. One of the opening guns will be the contest proceedings to be filed in the state senate Jan. 6 by Hobart E. Neff, Republican loser to Lawrence E. Dowd in the downtown 1st district. It was learned that big Democratic names will be raked with verbal shot from the vote fraud investigation now under way.

More Democratic ward organizations continued to urge Mayor Edward J. Kelly to run for reëlection. Last night the 29th ward group directed by Albert J. Horan, Municipal court bailiff, yielded an expertly written document praising the mayor's record and endorsing Ald. Joseph S. Gillespie for reëlection. Earlier the 7th ward of Committeeman James W. Ryan swung into line with a similar resolution lauding Kelly.

A nine-story cross of candlelight was kindled early last night in the south windows of Mundelein college, 1020 Sheridan road, where it was announced that the annual lighting ceremonies may be discontinued for the duration. Originally scheduled for Friday evening, the candlelighting ceremony was advanced to comply with government requests that colleges be closed on Dec. 15, thus leaving the trains free for troop transport later in the month. The entire student body of the college participated in the ceremonial in the college theater. Marianne Donahoe, president of the Student Activities council, kindled the all-college candle during the ceremonies.

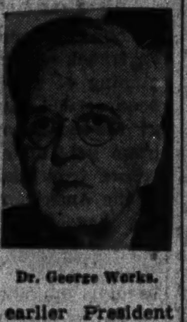
Urges Trustees to Follow 'Main' Findings.



Dr. George Works.

Dr. George Works, educational consultant of the state finance department and former dean of students at the University of Chicago, yesterday told the trustees of the University of Illinois that "the main suggestions" contained in the Booz survey of the university's administration should be followed.

A few hours earlier President Arthur Cutts Willard of the university informed the trustees, who met on the Chicago campus of the university, that he already had taken nine steps to meet directions issued by the board on Nov. 27 that he "continue and intensify studies of administration organization looking toward an early realization of the avowed purpose of the [Booz] report—namely, the highest possible degree of the efficiency in university administration."

Request by Trustees.

Dr. Works was asked to survey the Booz report, compiled by the firm of Booz, Allen, Frey & Hamilton, by the trustees.

Dr. Works said he believed a university had two purposes—education and research—and that all else should be subordinated to these.

"The present administrative organization at the University of Illinois is too cumbersome to make possible achievement of these two ends," Dr. Works said. "I believe that the main suggestions contained in the Booz report should be utilized. They are:

"1. Reduction of the burden on the president.

"2. Greater utilization of individual leadership.

"3. Elimination of the use of committees for administrative purposes.

"Basic Issues Lost."

"The Booz survey is couched too exclusively in business terms," Dr. Works said. "The administration in reply has seized on this weakness and refers to it time and again with the result of the basic issues being lost.

"While I cannot agree on all points with the administration, neither can I accept in full the report."

President Willard outlined the nine steps he had taken as follows:

1. Sent copies of the Booz report to heads of all university departments and divisions for their study and further recommendations.

2. The general faculty and deans of colleges were instructed to consolidate and reduce the number of committees.

3. The university provost has been instructed to take over several new functions.

4. Similar instructions as to acceptance of additional responsibilities have been given to the controler and physical plant department.

5. The bureau of institutional research has been directed to intensify its study of the university as a whole.

Cash Working Fund.

6. A recommendation has been submitted to the board concerning the cash working fund.

7. A resolution has been submitted that a general laboratory fee be substituted for special fees now paid. [This was approved at yesterday's board meeting.]

8. A hospital fund plan whereby students would pay regular fees toward any needed hospitalization has been submitted to the faculty committee on fees and scholarships.

9. Added personnel has been arranged for the Chicago business office to speed business and pay roll work.

The board yesterday approved a fund of $22,100 to rewire the chemistry building at Champaign, created a master of science degree in physical sciences, and appropriated $40,000 for graduate scholarships and fellowships for the coming academic year.

FOUR ILLINOIS ROAD ENGINEERS GET NEW POSTS

Charles H. Apple, district highway engineer at Elgin since 1935, will be placed in charge of district No. 10 at Chicago Jan. 1, Walter A. Rosenfield, Illinois state director of public works and buildings, announced yesterday in Springfield.

Rosenfield reported three other changes in the state highway department: Richard T. Cash, engineer of district No. 5 at Paris since 1932, will replace Apple in district No. 1 at Elgin; Kenrick Harger, in charge of the Chicago district since 1932, will go to district No. 3 at Ottawa, and George A. Somerville, at Ottawa since 1937, will be assigned to the Paris office.

Rosenfield said the changes were reassignments in line with department policy and not a departmental shakeup.

INSTALMENT XXVII.

MAID'S REPORT.

"Tessa darling!" Alice Devlin, her negligee wrong side out, brushed past the two men in the doorway and flung herself at the girl on the bed. "What is it, my dear?" I heard that awful scream. You frightened me to death. I couldn't find my bedroom slippers. I couldn't sleep and I was just lying there, and what frightened you? What——"

"Shut up, Alice." Devlin's voice cut thru like a slap. "Now, Tess, pull yourself together and try and be sensible. What was this terrifying thing you saw?"

Tessa Devlin strove for control under the four pairs of eyes that surrounded her. With one hand she pushed the disheveled hair from her eyes, but the other held on tight to Beatrice.

"I — I didn't sleep very well— and —"

"But, Tessa, dear, those sodium amytol I gave —"

"Shut up, Alice."

"I woke up — and — something — some one in the room, over there by the dresser. I think there was a flashlight. I'm not sure. I screamed and tried to find the bed light — but before I could get it on they were gone."

"Gone where?" Devlin looked skeptical but worried.

"I don't know. I was trying to get the light on and —"

"And when you did get it on they had vanished?"

"Yes."

"Sure you weren't having nightmares?"

"No—I was hardly sleeping at all."

Devlin was thoughtful for a moment.

"Well, Tessa, I think you're being nervous and jumpy, but just to reassure you, we'll search the house. Uncle Billy, you— "

"Have already." Uncle Billy's voice came surprisingly enough from the bathroom and he appeared now in the doorway. "Bathroom's empty. Room next door's empty. If anybody was by the dresser here— " he put a hand on the dressing table beside the door leading into the bathroom—" quickest way to make a getaway would be thru the bathroom and out the room next door, into the hall or across the roof of the first floor porch. If it was a burglar— "

"We ought to send for the police. Beatrice, telephone for the police. No, get me the number. I'll call and— "

Thomas Devlin's hand on his wife's arm pulled her back. He was just about to thrust her thru the door into the hall when they collided with some one standing in the doorway.

"Say, what is all the row anyway? I thought I heard a racket— " Jayson Plaice, in bathrobe and pajamas, disheveled with sleep, interrupted himself to yawn prodigiously.

Everybody's eyes focused on the newcomer. He, in turn, looked around with the slightly bewildered air of one suddenly wakened from sound sleep. "I thought I heard some one crying or something."

"Tessa insists there was some one in her room, Jay," Thomas Devlin explained briefly. "I think she was having a nightmare, but just to convince her, we're searching the house for any burglars."

"Shall I call Walter?" Beatrice spoke up.

"No, certainly not. There's no need to disturb the servants. Uncle Billy and Mr. Plaice and I will search the place. You go back to bed, Alice. And you, too, Beatrice. And Tessa, settle down and try and calm yourself. Go on now, Beatrice."

"That's not necessary. Now go to bed. Quickly!"

The maid didn't move.

"Beatrice, do as I say."

"Beatrice!"

"Never mind, Tom. I'll stay with her. I can't sleep anyway. I haven't been able to close my eyes all night in here. You run along, Beatrice, and I'll— "

Thomas Devlin thrust his wife from the room.

"Go back to your room immediately, Beatrice, or — or consider yourself dismissed. Permanently."

The girl blinked but held firm. "O. K.—but I'm not leaving this room until tomorrow morning."

"You're leaving now."

The steadiness with which her gaze met his seemed to increase. "If I leave now, it will be to waken the rest of the servants and telephone the police."

This time is was Thomas Devlin who blinked. For a moment no one said anything. Then Devlin turned and walked from the room motioning Jayson Plaice and Uncle Billy with him with a curt, angry jerk of the head.

• • •

"But that's not why I'm here. I mean it's not because I'm sore about being fired. It's because I think you ought to know—things."

Muggy morning light streamed in thru the east windows of Inspector Steelman's office. The inspector was seated at his desk and no one would have guessed that he had had just one hour of sleep in the last 24. A shower, a shave, and hot, black coffee had done good work.

But Detective Nunn looked seedy. He had to bat his eyes every once in a while to keep them from sticking shut.

Across from them the maid, Beatrice, sat in a chair and tried hard not to let indignation overshadow the accuracy of her narrative. She had been waiting for them when they had arrived a half hour before.

"It's because I think you ought to know on account of Miss Tessa," she said.

"Ought to know what?" Steelman demanded.

And so she told them, beginning with that scene in the living room at 10 o'clock, when Alice Devlin had insisted on the double dose of sodium amytol.

"Her own idea?" the inspector interrupted.

"I don't know. She just called me in and told me. I don't know what went on before I got there. Anyway . . ." and she continued with her narrative. Tessa Devlin's refusal to take the capsules, her own restlessness. Her decision to fetch one of the capsules for herself, the scream in the darkness, and the subsequent scene in the bedroom. The appearance of Jayson Plaice yawning so prodigiously.

"And if you ask me," she said, "he put it on just a little too thick."

"What are you implying?"

"I mean I think there was funny business going on and he had something to do with it."

"Have you anything to support that assumption.

"Well — maybe. I forgot to tell you that the light in the hall was out, and it wasn't a burned out bulb, because sometime during the rumpus some one switched it on again. But it was off when I rushed down the hall to Miss Tessa's room. It was so dark I had to paw around for a second to find the doorknob, and it was just in that second that I saw something."

Beatrice paused. She wasn't striving for drama. She was just trying to be accurate.

"I saw some one start to come out into the hall from the room right next to Miss Tessa's, the room that connects with the same bathroom as hers."

"Who was it?"

"I don't know. It was too dark to tell. But I'll swear some one started out of that room and then jumped back quickly."

"A man or a woman?"

"I don't know. It was all so quick. And anyway, men at night in bathrobes or in a nightshirt like Uncle Billy wears, might look like women in the dark."

"That's true. You don't know, but who do you think it was?"

"Mr. Plaice."

"It could have been any of the others just as well, couldn't it? Any one of the others could have waited until you had gone into Miss Tessa's room, and then sneaked out of that door and later reappeared in the doorway of her room."

"Yes, they could have. But I don't think they did."

"Are you sure you're not prejudiced, Beatrice? You're not singling out Jayson Plaice as the culprit just because he happened to be the one that you don't like?"

"No, because I don't like the lot of them. Mr. Devlin, Mrs. Devlin, Plaice. I never liked any of them. I never liked the house. In a way, it's sort of a relief to be fired."

WLB WILL SCAN BOYCOTT AGAINST DONNELLEY WORK

Agent Sent from Capital for Investigation.

The war labor board stepped yesterday into a Chicago printing trades controversy which N. M. Di Pietro, international representatve of the Typographical union and secretary of the Chicago printing trades unions, said involved 50 million dollars' worth of publishing work.

Since Dec. 5 members of the five printing trades unions—typographers, pressmen, press feeders, bookbinders, and photoengravers—have refused to handle work subcontracted by the R. R. Donnelley & Cons company and the Reuben H. Donnelley corporation plants here. The R. R. Donnelley company has been an open shop for 37 years.

Di Pietro said that the company "refuses in perpetuity to hire union craftsmen," and that the unions were exercising "their fundamental right to refuse to execute struck work, unfair work, or work coming from an unfair organization."

WLB Sends Agent Here.

David L. Benetar, a WLB mediation officer from Washington, arrived in Chicago and began communicating with parties to the dispute by telephone. Dr. Robert K. Burns, regional WLB director, said he had not seen Benetar, but planned to meet him today. Dr. Burns said that his office did not handle any such investigations.

Di Pietro said that publications affected by the boycott included Time and Life magazines, for whch R. R. Donnelley is principal printing contractor.

Others involved are Reader's Digest, Encyclopedia Britannica, the big catalogs of Montgomery Ward & Co., Sears, Roebuck & Co., Butler Brothers, Downtown Shopping News, and numerous classified telephone directories published by Reuben H. Donnelley.

Employers Losing Heavily.

Harry G. Cantrell, executive secretary of the Franklin Association of Chicago, an organization of union employers in the printing industry, said that the association's companies were losing hundreds of thousands of dollars by the unions' action. He charged that the unions were violating their contracts in refusing to handle the work.

Di Pietro denied that any contracts had been violated.

"All of our agreements," he said, "have for many years contained provisions whereby employés may decline to do work for nonunion shops and publishers. The current agreement of Typographical union No. 16, like all our locals, contained this provision and that contract was concluded only last August under the auspices of the United States department of labor.

Insists on Agreement.

"We will not permit union plants to be used as auxiliaries to the Donnelley company until such time as the company agrees to accept the same terms and conditions as union employers."

It was reported that the boycott had been extended to the eastern branch of Cuneo Press., Inc., in Philadelphia, which publishes a part of the Time and Life editions.

In New York Charles L. Stillman, vice president of Time, Inc., said several hundred thousand copies of Life would be late; that 12 Life color pages in the Dec. 14 issue were printed in black and white for half the run and that 12 pages of editorial color in the Dec. 28 issue would not run.

If you have to Travel this Christmas Remember This-

Buses are doing a gigantic wartime transportation job—so travel just can't be as pleasant as before.

If you find that travel this year isn't as pleasant as in past years, please remember—we're in the thick of the most gigantic hauling job in our history. Daily we're transporting record millions of war workers and fighting men—working and battling for America's very existence. So, when inconveniences do occur, please understand that we truly regret it . . . and that we're bending every energy to help win the war quickly and restore your America to pleasant normalcy.

LOLITA ARMOUR MITCHELL WINS DIVORCE IN RENO

Mrs. Lolita Armour Mitchell, daughter of the late J. Ogden Armour, Chicago packer, yesterday obtained a divorce in Reno, Nev., from John J. Mitchell, vice president and treasurer of the Universal Oil Products company and son of the late John J. Mitchell Sr., president of the Illinois Merchants Trust company.

She charged extreme mental cruelty since their marriage in Lake Forest June 18, 1921, but did not describe specific acts. She said property rights and custody of two adopted children, John J. Jr., and Lolita Sheldon Mitchell, had been settled in an out of court agreement. The decree was granted after a private hearing.

At the time of the Mitchells' marriage the ceremony was termed a union of two of Chicago's wealthiest families. At the Mitchell residence at 1550 North State parkway, Mitchell was reported to be in California, where the couple has maintained a home near Santa Barbara.

Hospital Association's Editor-Secretary Quits

Dr. Bert E. Caldwell, 68 years old, executive secretary of the American Hospital association for the last 15 years, submitted his resignation yesterday to trustees of the association and asked not to be considered for reappointment. Dr. Caldwell, who also has been editor of the association's publication titled Hospitals, since its establishment seven years ago, said he wanted to devote more time to farming activities.

LIVING COSTS RISE .8 OF 1 PCT. HERE IN MONTH, SAYS OPA

The cost of living in Chicago was .8 of 1 per cent higher on Nov. 17 than on Oct. 13, the Office of Price Administration said yesterday in a statement released at the regional office. Rises of 2 per cent in Cedar Rapids, Ia., 1.3 per cent in Milwaukee, .9 of 1 per cent in Springfield, 1.8 per cent in Minneapolis, and 1 per cent in St. Paul were reported, but two cities showed small decreases. They were Peoria, where living costs were down .4 of 1 per cent for the month, and Omaha, Neb., with a decline of .1 of 1 per cent.

B. A. Bagdon, director of the bureau of labor statistics in the Chicago region, prepared the analysis. Bagdon reported food prices not under OPA control rose 6.6 per cent and controled prices .5 of 1 per cent during the month.

Since price ceilings became effective May 12, uncontroled food items have risen 21.3 per cent, but those under ceilings have gained only 6.3 per cent, the analysis showed. The OPA said the gains in controled prices were the result of price adjustments permitted by it.

O'GRADY FACTION FAVORS BOLTING ELEVATOR UNION

Many members of elevator operators and starters' union, local 66, last night in effect reiterated their desire to leave the international union and to have James L. O'Grady reinstated as local president. O'Grady was ousted by William McFetridge, president of the international, on the ground that he is not an American citizen. O'Grady says he is.

Forty-one members of the union last month presented a petition asking that the local secede from the parent group—the Building Service Employés International [AFL] — and that O'Grady be given back his job. The union's attorney, Daniel D. Carmell, ruled that the petition was unconstitutional and the executive board upheld this finding.

At last night's meeting at 32 West Randolph street, 306 members refused to concur in Carmell's finding and 227 voted for it. Al Matha, acting president of the local, refused to submit the petition itself to a vote.

Dominion Status for India Like That of Aussies Urged

ALLAHABAD, India, Dec. 15 (AP).—A statement issued by the standing committee of the non-party conference presided over by the Indian Liberal, Tej Behadar Sapru, urged today that India be given the same dominion status as Australia. The statement said Britain's present policy in India "has created an acute and profound feeling of frustration and resentment thruout the country."

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

WINTER VACATION TRAVEL ISN'T TOO DRASTICALLY CUT

Most Resorts Are Painting Cheery Pictures.

BY DOROTHY JOHNSON.

The rumors and conflicting reports on travel, which ran wild at the beginning of the winter season, have been settled, banished, and clarified as the countrywide recreation program gets under way. A December report from the survey department of the American Express travel service, headed by Douglas Malcolm, gives a sensible overall picture guaranteed to dispel both false hopes and needless apprehension.

"In the month's preview of the nation's resorts, few sections present a gloomy picture, while many others, near military operations, top all time records," Malcolm states. "The transportation code of less civilian travel is sufficiently flexible to meet the health and vacation needs of those who seek sunshine and warmth in the open."

The value of sun seeking has a recognized place in this war year, and Hot Springs National park, Virginia Hot Springs, all Florida areas, and the gulf coast states report that the sunshine is there, as in any other normal year, and that war workers and other busy, nerve ridden persons are taking advantage of it.

Winter Vacations Increase.

The spirit of avoiding unnecessary travel next summer, when the demands of the war department on transportation will be heavier than ever, is lending impetus to the taking of winter vacations in the south. Asheville and Pinehurst, N. C., and See Island, Ga., are promoting winter programs as varied and appealing as those of the deep south.

In the movement toward the south, Arkansas, Virginia, and North and South Carolina are becoming new rest havens for tired executives. The resorts of Arizona and New Mexico are reporting similar attendance extended to dude ranches and spas. Gulf coast resorts of Alabama and Mississippi are preparing to entertain relatives and friends of service men, and are offering recreational facilities to shipyard workers. California, too, is offering sunshine for the duration. In the Palm Springs area, spas and other resorts are serving war recreation needs.

Winter Sports in East.

The contrasting picture is that drawn by snow seekers instead of snow dodgers. Winter sports devotees are seeking health in the east, west, northwest, and middlewest. Sportsmen of the east are favored with snow white terrain from the mountain peaks of Mount Desert in Maine down almost a fourth of the Appalachian trail, offering ski jumping, tobogganing, and skating. More than 1,000 ski trails in New England, New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania are prepared for winter guests.

The Green Mountains of Vermont are readied for winter sports, and the season there will open Dec. 19, including a nosedive slide down Mount Mansfield, the Manchester Snow Valley, and the Guilford street and Bonnyvale tows of Brattleboro. In the Catskills, the tows are in operation in Phoenicia, Woodstock, and trails of the Blackhead Mountain slope. Lake Placid is completely reconditioned for competitions.

Maine's winter sports resorts, and those of the Berkshires, also are geared for service. Defense workers and other busy persons of the middlewest, who favor winter sports above suntanning, needn't go far afield for their diversion, because ski terrains of Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota offer excellent facilities for civilians and service men alike.

CARLSBAD CAVE MOTOR SERVICE WILL CONTINUE

The American Express Travel service reports that motor services between Carlsbad, N. M., and the Carlsbad Caverns National park will continue to accommodate visitors. The park, situated in the southeastern part of the state, refreshes many memories of ancient desert dwellers, Spanish men of conquest, and the stage coach era of the west's early history.

Current winter motor services to the underground caves are thru the newly constructed descending trail instead of by elevators, as in the past. The large cave rooms resemble great forests beautifully colored. More than seven miles of underground corridors extend from the main corridor.

Gasless and Tireless Activity Tucson Feature

Tucson, Ariz., Dec. 15 [Special].—Equipped for an "as usual" winter season, resorts and ranches here are featuring gasless and tireless activities and calling stage coaches and cow ponies into service for visitors. Stressing that no priorities have been declared on horseshoes, Tucson officials expect demands of the war will have little effect on their winter program.

Women in War Work—

★ But they are fighting at busy switchboards here at home. Fighting just as faithfully in their appointed places as their brothers in roaring tanks and screaming planes and rushing ships.

★ Under their flying fingers, the vital messages of war speed on to bring the day of final Victory!

SERVING 24 HOURS EVERY DAY

Speeding the urgent messages that help our fighting men and hurt our enemy, messages by hundreds and thousands and millions, aiding the nation's war job and serving the public welfare.

Messages moving our armed forces for combat action . . . directing war strategies . . . warning of enemy threat . . . guarding life and property in emergencies . . . raising war production . . . delivering vital supplies . . . maintaining public services, public health, public safety . . . aiding national and local officials in the complex business of winning this war and saving our Way of Life.

Right now, in the Illinois Bell area, there are more than a dozen military and naval stations, in addition to plane, tank and munitions plants, busy railroad lines and steel mills and coal mines and oil wells, great farms and many other war producers—all materially aided in their united aim by these women in war work.

Survey Selects Best of Year in Nonfiction

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

The year 1942 has definitely been a nonfiction year. More than twice as many important books of fact than of fiction have been published. To help readers remember the most interesting books of the season I have gone over the fall's output and selected those I think are most important. I hope the list will be a help to you in selecting your Christmas books and as a reference.

Following is my list in the field of nonfiction.

About the War

Books having to do with the war have been far and away the most widely read this year, with personal narratives the most popular. The newspaper correspondent has suddenly become the most sought after of all writers.

The most gripping personal experience record of the year was probably a little book called They Were Expendable [$2]. It is the record of the almost incredible adventures of the PT torpedo boats in Manila Bay, and of the rescue of Gen. MacArthur, as told by the survivors of squadron 3 to W. L. White. It has the quality of making readers feel that they, too, should consider themselves expendable.

The Raft [$2.50], an amazing record of the survival for 34 days of three downed navy flyers on a pneumatic raft thru boiling heat, hurricane, and starvation was recorded by Robert Trumbull.

Those feats are rivaled by portions of the two best newspaper men's records of the year—Stanley Johnston's epic of the Coral Sea Queen of the Flat Tops [$3], in which he records the gallant life and death of the aircraft carrier Lexington on which he was the only reporter, and Cecil Brown's epically honest diary of his long fight against censorship from Suez to Singapore [$3.50]. In it he tells the dramatic story of the loss of the Prince of Wales and the Repulse, from whose destruction he, as Stanley Johnston did from the Lexington, swam for his life. I think Cecil Brown's book will rank as a diary with "Berlin Diary."

Holding over from the spring, and a book which will certainly become a classic of aviation, is Antoine de St. Exupery's beautiful and poetic Flight to Arras [$2.75], published in February, but timeless.

The foreign correspondents have written enthralling books this fall. Among them is a sort of over-all history of the war written by Associated Press correspondents all over the world, skillfully edited by Oliver Gramling, and called Free Men Are Fighting [$3.50].

Three fine books about Germany have come out this fall—This Is the Enemy [$3], which was written by Frederick Oechsner and his fellow members of the United Press staff during their internment in Germany and which is as sharp and keen an analysis of the German and Nazi way [or ways] of thought and action as has been done; What About Germany? [$3], by Louis Lochner, who was head of the Associated Press bureau in Berlin for 17 years and whose book is considered and informed and dramatic less by statement than by inference, and young Howard K. Smith's Last Train from Berlin [$2.75], which is the most dramatic of the books about Germany, since he feels that the Russian victory really undermined German morale. And there's also a book not out of but sent into Germany—Dorothy Thompson's short wave broadcasts in Listen, Hans [$2.50], which are preceded by a vigorous discussion of Germans and Germany.

Behind Both Lines [$2.50], by Harold Denny, tells of the experiences of a well known correspondent who was captured by Rommel. Allan Michie wrote an interesting description of the war in the middle and far east as he saw it and analyzed its strategy in Retreat to Victory [$3]. Edward W. Beattie Jr. rightly named his record of a reporter's adventures Freely to Pass [$3], because he passed into and out of practically every country at war. Robert J. Casey wrote the thrilling story of what happened to the Pacific fleet between Pearl Harbor and the epic battle of Midway [which he describes] in Torpedo Junction [$3.50].

Hugh Byas, for 23 years a newspaper correspondent in Tokio, has written a startling revelation of Japan's sources of power in Government by Assassination [$3]. Reynolds Packard and his intrepid wife Eleanor have written the year's best book about Italy, Balcony Empire [$3].

Of the books by diplomats, the three outstanding ones are: The Unrelenting Struggle [$3.50], a collection of the stirring and brilliant war speeches of Winston Churchill delivered between Nov., 1940, and the end of Dec., 1941; Ambassador Joseph C. Grew's Report from Tokyo [$1], in which he convinces his countrymen that only a war to extinction will defeat Japan's military clique, and a moving record of the state of Norway before and after the invasion by Germany by Theodor Broch, former mayor of Narvik, called The Mountains Wait [$3].

A cold blooded and clear headed book on strategy is William B. Ziff's The Coming Battle of Germany [$2.50], a layman's extension of Alexander P. de Seversky's air power theory.

Two books which should be mentioned because they had a tremendous effect on democratic thought and perhaps on strategy were Victory Through Air Power [$2.50], by Maj. Alexander P. de Seversky [April] and Defense Will Not Win the War [$1.50] [Feb.], in which Lt. Col. W. F. Kernan advocated a second front in Italy.

John Steinbeck's Bombs Away [$2.50] tells in memorable human terms of the members of a bomber's crew how a group is trained to become a precision member of a deadly sure fighting arm.

Forrest Davis and Ernest K. Lindlay gave the complete diplomatic history of the United States from the fall of France to Pearl Harbor in How War Came [$2.50].

Washington Is Like That [$3.50], by W. M. Kiplinger of the famous Washington business letter, altho it came out in May, is still eagerly read as the best physical and psychological guide to our capital.

What Americans are like and why is entertainingly and enlighteningly told to them by a famous anthropologist, Margaret Mead, in Keep Your Powder Dry [$2.50].

How war has always from time's dawn come and what its nature is, Quincy Wright discusses in two exhaustive and scientific volumes of A Study of War [$15].

In The Problems of Lasting Peace [$2], Herbert Hoover and Hugh Gibson marshal history and experience to try to help to settle those problems. And in Basis for Peace in the Far East [$3.75], Nathaniel Peffer, a well known authority, discusses the winning of both the war and the peace there.

History

Writers seem this year to have been interested less in the past than in the present. Even some of the books on history have had a final linking with the present. Vilhjalmur Stefansson's fine history of Greenland [$3.50] is a case in point. It is a heroic survey of the past and present but does not neglect Greenland's strategic place in America's future.

Emil Ludwig's popular history of The Mediterranean [$3.75] has a topical interest.

Two books about the Civil war, Wood Gray's study of the Copperheads in The Hidden Civil War [$3.75] and Abraham Lincoln and the Fifth Column [$3.50], by George Fort Milton, were given by many readers an application to the present.

Carl Sandburg's Storm Over the Land [$3.50], a "profile" of the Civil war, "mostly carved out of the four volumes" of his monumental life of Abraham Lincoln, will be the year's most popular book of history. Douglas Southall Freeman's first volume of a proposed trilogy on Lee's Lieutenants [$5] is not only a military classic, but probably the year's most distinguished original contribution to American history.

Charles A. Beard and Mary R. Beard added another volume to their great history of our civilization in The American Spirit [$5].

Autobiographical

The year's most distinguished autobiography, it seems to me, is Andre Maurois' beautifully dignified I Remember, I Remember [$3]. But it is run a close second by the two volumes of memoirs which divided the Harper $12,500 award, Julian Green's reminiscences of his boyhood in Paris and his brief sojourn in Virginia, Memories of Happy Days [$3], and John Andrew Rice's sparkling memories of his childhood in South Carolina, his brief Rhodes scholar days in England, and his work as an iconoclastic educator in I Came Out of the Eighteenth Century [$3].

Will Irwin's The Making of a Reporter [$3.75] recorded a long zestful life, with its highlight another war.

Otto Eisenschiml's Without Fame [$3.50] is the life story of his work as a chemist of a man who has won fame as a detective of Lincolniana.

In We Took to the Woods [$2.75], Louise Dickinson Rich writes delightfully about life in the north Maine woods. And in The Days of Ofelia [$2.75], Gertrude Diamant wrote a really charming book about her trip to Mexico, and a Mexican family she came to know.

Altho it was published in April, Elliot Paul's The Last Time I Saw Paris [$2.75] is still one of the most talked of books of the year. It is remembered much more for the picture of Paris before than after the Germans got there.

Ilka Chase's Past Imperfect [$2], a jaunty, pert autobiography, came out in March but it is still joyously read and quoted.

Biographies

The most amusing biography of the year is Hesketh Pearson's G. B. S. [$3.50], a life of George Bernard Shaw full of Shavian wit.

The most ingenious biographical book is Van Loon's Lives [$3.95], in which the inimitable Hendrik Willem Van Loon, a Dutch friend, and Erasmus entertain famous historical personages at dinner. He filled the book with his characteristic drawings.

Esther Forbes' Paul Revere and the World He Lived In [$3.75] was the year's most dramatic enlivening of a too little known American historical character.

Willard Gibbs: American Genius [$3.50] brought to readers the most neglected of our great scientific geniuses in a biography by one of our noted poets, Muriel Rukeyser.

Crazy Horse [$3.50], by Mari Sandoz, is the first good biography of a famous early American—the Sioux chief who defeated Custer.

Essays and Miscellaneous

Harry Hansen's The Chicago [$2.50] is not only the best of the Rivers in America series but the record of a state of mind as well as of a river and of a place.

On Native Grounds [$3.75], by Alfred Kazin, is a fine documentation and criticism of modern American literature.

Both Virginia Woolf and Constance Rourke were at work on books when they died recently. Mrs. Woolf's The Death of the Moth [$3], which is a sort of third common reader of essays, was edited by her husband. Constance Rourke's essays on The Roots of American Culture [$3], which would have been expanded into a long treatise if she had lived, are edited by Van Wyck Brooks.

Altho Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings' Cross Creek Cookery [$2.50] is primarily a cookbook, full of luscious recipes, it also is full of delicious bits of writing about Cross Creek by the author of "The Yearling."

From Album of Humorous Cartoons

"I don't mind if they mention the war—if it doesn't interfere with the story," says the caption for this amusing drawing by Helen E. Hokinson, among the cartoons in "The New Yorker War Album," one of 1942's best books of humor.

1942's Leading Novels Pass in Review Again

Readers of fiction and novelists seem to have had two outstanding preoccupations this year—the war and history. One novelist contends that the reason so many writers have done historical novels of late is because their material can't go flat over night. But the number of books about the immediate past in the theaters of war proves that good novels needn't sound like newspapers to be currently interesting.

The year's most beloved book, however, is about neither war nor, altho it takes place in the past, history. It is about a simple little country girl whose faith brought surcease from pain to millions. The Song of Bernadette [$3], by Franz Werfel, was published in May, and ever since then it has been continuously a national best seller, and will go on making readers happy long after many of the shiningly new fall novels are forgotten.

Novels About the War

The Nazi occupation of the conquered countries has been the subject of some of the year's most exciting books, altho there has not yet been written this year, in my opinion, a timeless epic about this war. Pearl Buck's Dragon Seed [$2.50], published last January, for instance, had not the strength nor the power of her classic, "The Good Earth," altho it is the best novel to date of Japan's war in China.

France under the Nazis gave Kay Boyle the material for her subtle and beautifully written Primer for Combat $[2.50]. And it provided Helen MacInnes with a background for her Assignment in Brittany [$2.50] and "Ethel Vance," the author of "Escape," with material for Reprisal [$2.50]. Both books are primarily thrillers. Incidentally the mysterious "Ethel Vance" has shed her pseudonymity and is now known to be Grace Zaring Stone.

A terrifying thriller about a German's escape from a Nazi political prison camp and the slow closing in of the Gestapo net is The Seventh Cross [$2.50], by Anna Seghers.

Prague after the Nazi occupation is the scene of the grim but powerful Hostages [$2.50], by Stefan Heym. And German occupied Holland is the setting of Martha Albrand's heroic No Surrender [$2.50].

W. Somerset Maugham wrote about an English family in wartime in The Hour Before the Dawn [$2.50], which, if not his best novel, is like everything he writes, a finished piece of work.

The first major novel about the war in Greece and the first novel written in the idiom of flying men was by a young Australian, James Aldridge, and called Signed with Their Honour [$2.50]. The Sound of an American [$2.50], by David Ormsbee, was a powerful tale of an American newspaper man in France when war came and what his participation in the war made of him. Phil Stong, in One Destiny [$2.50], tells appealingly how the war came to a small Iowa town. And John Steinbeck's The Moon Is Down [$2], published in March and still talked of and read, gave a brief but vivid picture of German occupied Norway and the strength of Norwegian secret resistance.

Historical Novels

The days of the American revolution backgrounded Le Grand Cannon Jr.'s Look to the Mountain [$2.75], a tale of pioneer life in New Hampshire from 1769 to 1777; Agnes Sligh Turnbull's The Day Must Dawn [$2.75], another pioneer novel of western Pennsylvania, happily cheerful in tone, and F. Van Wyck Mason's more violent tale of war and intrigue, Rivers of Glory [$2.75].

Nantucket in the 1800s was the time and the place of a novel of unusual poetic imagination by Elizabeth Hollister Frost, This Side of Land [$2.75].

The history of the abolitionist movement is the subject of the long and painstaking novel by Philip Van Doren Stern, The Drums of Morning [$3].

The effects of the Civil war were still being felt when Drivin' Woman [$2.75] starts on a career somewhat like Scarlett O'Hara's. Elizabeth Pickett Chevalier did a good historical job with the story of the Kentucky tobacco war despite the thrills.

An inspirational novel about the days of Christ, The Robe [$2.75], by Lloyd Douglas, is a literary parable readers are eager for.

And a gay and satiric novel of the period of Louis XIV., The Ivory Mischief [$2.75], by Arthur Meeker Jr., altho last January's book of the month, is still, and understandably, a favorite with Chicagoans.

General Novels

Four generations of Americans and a cavalcade of American industry pass thru the pages of Marcia Davenport's excellent The Valley of Decision [$3], a tale of a Pittsburgh iron family.

A pageant of the wine industry in California added zest to Alice Tisdale Hobart's story of four generations, The Cup and the Sword [$2.75].

The Prodigal Women [$3], by Nancy Hale, is a woman's book of what some readers have called "bitter wisdom" about two southern sisters and their New England friends. The '20s and the '30s are the cynical period.

The period between the first and present World wars, ironically termed Time of Peace [$2.75], is the background for the best book Ben Ames Williams has ever written—the story of a father and son and of one type of the American way of life and thought.

The Americanization of a little English boy in the early 1900s is the avowed subject of Christopher Morley's Thorofare [$2.75], but it is more a book of mental gymnastics and sparkling ideas than it is a conventional novel.

A well known English novelist, Frank Swinnerton, has just given us an excellent, if sometimes unhappy, tale of the relationship between a father and a daughter in Thankless Child [$2.50].

How American justice works is the real theme of James Gould Cozzens' carefully analytical novel about a murder trial in a small County court, The Just and the Unjust [$2.50].

By Young Americans

Maritta Wolff, at 24, has written her second powerfully realistic novel, about life in an industrial city today, in Night Shift [$2.75].

Eudora Welty's The Robber Bridegroom [$2] is an imaginative idyll richly and beautifully told.

And Maureen Daly's Seventeenth Summer [$2.50], published in April, is still as fresh in the hearts of readers as the sweet youth of its characters. Its author is only 21. F. B.

Their Books Are in the Limelight

Franz Werfel (left), whose novel, "The Song of Bernadette," is among the year's most popular, and Lin Yutang, editor of the anthology, "The Wisdom of China and India," reviewed today.

* *

U. S. Seaman Tells Thrill Packed Tale of Convoy Voyage

"There Go the Ships," by Robert Carse. [Morrow, $2.]

Able Seaman Robert Carse also is an able writer, and his vigorous, sharply etched log of a convoy voyage thru northern waters to Murmansk, with a running battle with planes and submarines, is an exciting and inspiring story of the American merchant marine at war. The book is illustrated by Gordon Grant. A. C.

Anthology Culls the Wisdom of China and India

"The Wisdom of China and India," an anthology edited by Lin Yutang. [Random, $3.95.]

What is sure to be the answer to thousands of perplexed Christmas book buyers is Lin Yutang's superbly edited anthology of "The Wisdom of China and India." It was promised for Dec. 1, but Mr. Lin's eagerness to do a fine editorial polishing held it up, and so it reaches us fresh from the press and destined for every one, no matter how many or how many brand new books they have.

"The Wisdom of China and India" is more than a mere volume of vast entertainment [1,100 pages]. It is a presentation of the living wisdom, philosophy, religious belief, literature, and wit of two cultures with which our world from now on will find itself much more concerned than it has in the past. It is the kind of book which gives its readers a people "in a nutshell" not, as most books of that sort do, by presenting merely the shell, but by essencing the very kernel of their historical thought.

"In accordance with Chinese courtesy," Mr. Lin says, he has put the section of the wisdom of India first, and in his introduction to the section and to the various selections, his own wisdom is pleasantly evident, as it is, repeatedly and charmingly and often profoundly, in the whole book.

Lin Yutang's book is no half hour's frippery. But another book published officially the same day, "With a Hays Nonny Nonny," written by Elliot Paul and sardonically illustrated by Luis Quintanilla [Random, $2], is precisely that—perhaps the year's best chi-chi. In it the author of "The Last Time I Saw Paris" writes as satirically about Hollywood as any one ever has—shows how stories from the Bible would have to be remodeled nearer to the Hays code's desire, prints the Hays code in its entirety [and that will be called the funniest part of the book by some], and throws in a couple of pages of serious suggestions about what the movies might be. Luis Quintanilla's drawings caricature and razz some of the most famous and familiar Hollywood stars. F. B.

Outstanding 1942 Books of Humor and Anthologies

Never before have we so much needed a good clean laugh when we can get it.

The year's funniest book, I think, is Our Hearts Were Young and Gay [$2.50], a hilarious record of the youthful trip which Cornelia Otis Skinner and Emily Kimbrough took to Europe together.

Parts of Ludwig Bemelmans' I Love You, I Love You, I Love You [$2.50] run it a close second, as does Hartzell Spence's Get Thee Behind Me [$2.75], his memories as a preacher's son. And of course Ogden Nash is always incomparable, no less so in Good Intentions [$2].

Marion Hargrove's See Here, Private Hargrove [$2] is the funny runaway book about a United States army private, but I have been warned by men in the service NOT to send them a copy because they already have one, and besides, it's not funny to them.

There are some unusual anthologies this year. My favorites are Men at War [$3], a wonderful collection of the finest things in both fiction and nonfiction, edited by Ernest Hemingway.

This Is My Best [$3.50], edited by Whit Burnett, is a collection of what 93 American writers consider their best work.

Poems I Remember [$3], edited by John Kieran, and Innocent Merriment [$3], a collection of light verse chosen by Franklin P. Adams, are two Information Please favorites' favorites.

A Treasury of British Humor [$3], edited by Morris Bishop, is just what it says it is. F. B.

WORTHY BOOKS from KROCH'S

This Christmas

THERE are no priorities on good books, and certainly no scarcity of good reading. Whether it be the classics of old or the topical books of today, here at Kroch's you can find them all in complete array. Plan to come in today and let our experienced bookmen and bookwomen assist you in the selection of your gift. I have served Chicago's reading public for 35 years and I am anxious to serve you again.

A. Kroch

A TREASURY OF BRITISH HUMOR, edited by Morris Bishop. This is unquestionably the most imaginative collection of British humor ever put together between the covers of a book. It is a feast of humorous writing designed to make you laugh, or smile internally. Represented are many of your favorites from Chaucer to Dickens and from Shakespeare to Shaw—assembled in over 800 superlative pages. A fitting companion volume to "A Subtreasury of American Humor." Give mother a copy and brighten up her spare moments. $3.00

JANE'S FIGHTING SHIPS. Today, with the whole world involved in war, with our own navy in conflict, this acknowledged world authority assumes more importance than ever. Without it, no one can even attempt to interpret or estimate the significance of the news headlined hourly by the press and the radio. It gives detailed information on the naval strength of every country of the United Nations and of the Axis countries. There are more than 5,000 entries and thousands of pictures, and scale drawings. Provides many hours of interesting study to supplement the news of naval battles. As a gift for Dad, it can hardly be surpassed. $19.00

THE BIBLE IN BRIEF, by Peter V. Ross. Now more than ever, many of us are turning to the book of the ages for solace and comfort. There has been a great demand for a concise edition of the Bible that could be carried in the pocket and yet with type clear enough to make reading it a pleasure. This condensed edition of the authorized King James version supplies that need. Bound in sturdy maroon cloth, it is priced low enough to enable you to send a copy to every man you know in our armed forces. An ideal gift for a serviceman. $1.00

HOSTAGES, by Stefan Heym. This is the story of a group of hostages in Prague who must face a firing squad for the death of a Nazi officer. The Nazis seek thus to intimidate and terrorize these valiant Czechs, but how they managed their own retribution makes a narrative that pulls you irresistibly from one page to the next. "My book," says Mr. Heym, "is a novel, and yet it is a true book in the highest sense of literary truth." A wonderful gift for your serious-minded sister. $2.50

MY PICTURE STORY BOOK, edited by Watty Piper. A book of pictures and stories in color to delight the hearts, not only of the harassed mother who is anxious to find in one volume, pictures of objects, Mother Goose rhymes and animal stories, but also for the pre-school youngster who loves to thumb through books by himself. Send a copy to little Janie, aged 4. $1.25

RAND McNALLY WORLD ATLAS: READER'S EDITION. Each day seems to bring new and strange-sounding names of distant places to our attention. It is befuddling enough for adults, but think how baffled the youngsters in the family must be. They should not be without a good, easy-to-consult atlas. This one contains 164 pages of double-page maps and 76 pages of indexes of every part of the world. Surprise 'teen age Tommy with a copy Christmas Morn. $2.50

Remember! It costs no more to shop at Kroch's, yet you get vastly more for your dollar in service and personal attention. Visit Kroch's Treasure Aisle of Gifts, where the distinctive things in glassware, stationery, leather goods, and costume jewelry abound in handsome variety. Don't delay—buy it today!

NEW, Easy, Entertaining Way to MASTER MATHEMATICS!

HERE are just the simple, time-saving methods of math-mastery which you have long been hoping to find! Never before has this vitally necessary ability to handle short-cut ARITHMETIC, practical ALGEBRA, GEOMETRY and "TRIG" been made so painlessly easy to gain as AARON BAKST has now made it—through his great new book—"MATHEMATICS—ITS MAGIC and MASTERY"!

Bakst's novel methods of teaching you make math easy to learn because they give you the greatest possible variety of practical applications—to interesting, timely problems. For instance, he calls his section on TRIGONOMETRY—"Man's Servant, the Triangle." This chapter enables you to solve timely problems in calculating the firing angles and "veering off" curves of artillery—in telling how a bomb falls, where it lands, etc., etc. Over 350 diagrams make every explanation clear at a glance! 790 pages. 7 x 9 inches. Handsomely cloth bound. Only $3.95 at bookstores or direct from publisher, D. VAN NOSTRAND CO., Inc., Publishers, 250 Fourth Ave., New York, N. Y.

All the Sciences in One Great Book

1500 Pages 10,000 Separate Subjects

1200 Illustrations Twelve Big Volumes in One

THIS great new work presents—for the first time in one volume—a complete coverage of the terms of science and engineering. Principles are clearly explained—methods of calculation are fully described with the formulas and units—also chemical structures and reactions, physical laws and instruments, engineering design, construction, and operation. These are merely suggestive of its tremendous scope. The great number of photographs, diagrams, and charts have been specially prepared and selected to show the salient facts most clearly. Many tables and summaries make all this information easily available for instant reference. 7¼ x 10¼ inches. Handsomely cloth-bound. Only $10.00 at bookstores, or direct from publisher,

HERE'S ONE OPA PLEA THAT GETS ROUGHED A BIT

Judge Igoe Says He'll Make Denemark Case Ruling.

In a brief flareup in the federal District court yesterday, Judge Michael L. Igoe challenged the right of the office of price administration and the United States attorney's office to say what kind of a plea a court may accept from a defendant.

Judge Igoe's ire was aroused in the case of Emil Denemark, automobile dealer and racing stable owner, and four associates who are charged with illegally disposing of 11 new automobiles after the OPA ban of last Jan. 1. At one point, the judge said he didn't like the "smell" of the case as it stood before him at the moment.

Pretrial Conference.

The case came before Judge Igoe early in the day, and at that time was continued to Jan. 14 on the plea of Denemark's lawyers, Irving Eisenstein and Edward H. Murnane. Later, however, the attorneys conferred with Leroy Krein, assistant United States attorney and then all three met with Judge Igoe in a pretrial conference.

It was reported that among other things a plea of nolo contendre was discussed. Such a plea has the same legal effect as a plea of guilty. In court, subsequently, Murnane and Eisenstein announced they wished to enter a plea of nolo contendre. As this offer was made, John Manierre, an OPA lawyer, who had been notified by Krein, stepped up.

"I represent the office of price administration," he said. "We want to look into this to see if our office will accept the plea."

Asks a Question.

"What does your office have to do with the acceptance of a plea in the federal court?" said Judge Igoe.

At this Krein interrupted. "The district attorney's office wants to be heard on this," he said. "I think it ought to be a plea of guilty if they are guilty."

"And what has your office to do with accepting a plea?" Judge Igoe asked. "At the conference you didn't mention anything about another government agency being interested. I don't like the picture. I don't appreciate it. It doesn't smell good."

He then continued the case to next Tuesday, at which time he will hear the views of the OPA and the district attorney's office on the nolo contendre plea. It is not yet entered. Co-defendants with Denemark are L. E. Komorous, Walter J. Gofron, Frank J. Kolnour, and Aline Peyrot.

BANDIT 'WASTES HIS TIME' ASKING FOR PROBATION

Chief Justice John A. Sbarbaro of the Criminal court warned yesterday that anybody who goes out with a gun to rob is wasting time seeking probation in his court.

He gave the warning in the case of Joseph Muscari, 28 years old, who pleaded guilty to a charge of robbing Dr. Leo Cahill, a dentist, of $96 in the latter's office at 4004 Harrison street last June 26. Muscari told police he "almost shot" Dr. Cahill because he believed the dentist was armed.

Police told Judge Sbarbaro that Muscari was a member of a gang that specialized in robbing doctors. Judge Sbarbaro asked why this was so, and Muscari replied, "Doctors are eacy pickings and usually carry enough money to make it worthwhile." Then Muscari's lawyer, Michael Zinik, asked probation for him. Judge Sbarbaro said such a request was "a waste of time" and imposed a one year to life sentence on Muscari.

MEETS PREVIOUS VICTIM, FORCED TO PAY NEW FINE

The return of Chester Dolton, 23 years old, Negro, to the scene of a previous crime, cost him fines of more than $60 on assault and disorderly conduct charges in Wabash avenue court yesterday.

Dolton, who lives at 3120 Cottage Grove avenue, was found wandering in Doolittle school, 35th street and Rhodes avenue, by a teacher, Mrs. Eva A. Lazear. She recognized him as the man who snatched her purse in 1940 and served a Bridewell sentence for the act.

Mrs. Lazear said Dolton seized her and pushed her against a desk and fled when she told him she recognized him. He was arrested at his home. Judge Edward Luczak assessed the fines, which Dolton paid.

WAUKEGAN HAIRCUTS UPPED.

Waukegan barbers expect a rush of business today. Their local 716 of the barbers union announced yesterday that the price of haircuts would go up 15 cents to 75 cents, effective tomorrow. Price of a shave will remain the same—35 cents.

Why Thousands of Doctors Ordered This For

CHILDREN'S BAD COUGHS

(CAUSED BY COLDS)

Mothers are simply overjoyed about Pertussin because often the first spoonfuls help bring PROMPT relief from bronchial and croupy coughs due to colds. And Pertussin is so pleasant and safe for kiddies to take! Nothing to sicken delicate little stomachs—it's entirely free from dope, chloroform and coal tar products.

Pertussin is scientifically prepared to act at once to relieve your child's coughing spasm. It increases natural secretions in the respiratory tract to soothe dry irritated membranes. It improves ciliary action, loosens sticky phlegm and makes it easier to raise. Also mighty effective for adults. Inexpensive! Any drugstore.

Kidnaping Told

Diana Randazzo, 11 months old, who was reported yesterday to have been kidnaped from her grandparents' home.

Mrs. Marilyn Randazzo, also kidnaped when her baby was taken.

William Dobbertin, father of Mrs. Randazzo, beside door frame broken by kidnapers to get at Mrs. Randazzo and her baby.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dobbertin told Cragin police yesterday that two men kidnaped their daughter, Marilyn, 19 years old, and her 11 month old child, Diana, from their home at 1722 North Keystone avenue. One of the men was Marilyn's husband, Joseph Randazzo, 24 years old, they said.

Randazzo kidnaped his wife two months ago, they said, and kept her in the home of an aunt in Milwaukee. She succeeded in escaping only when his draft board reclassified him and required his appearance, they said.

Dobbertin told the police that two men came to his front door about 3 p. m. yesterday and said they had a Christmas package for the baby. He admitted them, he said, and one of the men hit him on the head with a gun. They ran to the bathroom, Dobbertin said, where the mother and baby were.

Dobbertin said they seized the baby and ran out of the house with it. Randazzo was carrying the baby, he said, and slipped and fell on it. Marilyn screamed and ran to the baby. Randazzo dragged her into a car with his companion and drove off. The couple had been separated several months.

MUSIC OF YULE SEASON ON W-G-N HOUR TOMORROW

Music of the Christmas season will highlight W-G-N's program, "Music That Endures," from 9:30 to 10 p. m. tomorrow on W-G-N and the Mutual network. Attilo Baggiore will be the soloist.

For his offerings Baggiore will sing Massenet's "Dost Thou Know Sweet Virgin Mary," and "Holy Child" by Martin. He will be accompanied by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra under the baton of Henry Weber.

The orchestra will present "March Trumpet and Drums" and "The Ball" from Bizet's "Childhood Scenes," the overture to Weinberger's "Puppenspiel" and the prelude to "Hansel and Gretel" by Humperdinck.

PUBLISHERS O. K. 4 POINT PLAN TO END N. Y. STRIKE

New York, Dec. 15 [Special].—A four point program for settlement of the newspaper delivery drivers' strike tonight was accepted, with amendments, by the Publishers' association, representing New York's major newspapers. The program had been suggested to both sides by Dr. Frederick C. Croxton of the United States conciliation service.

The Newspaper Mail and Deliverers' union did not announce any decision on the plan during the day and was meeting with Croxton tonight for further consideration of the plan and the publishers' amendments.

If accepted, the program would terminate a strike which immobilized newspaper delivery trucks Sunday and which has subjected the city to a newspaper famine, with readers deprived for the second day of eight major papers and four others.

The four points:

1. Immediate return to work.
2. That the union's 10 demands for strike settlement be regarded as a basis for arbitration.
3. Appointment of one arbitrator by the conciliation service; appointment of the other by the war labor board.
4. Decision of the arbitrators to be arrived at "within 48 hours," and to be "final and binding."

The publishers suggested as amendments [1] that nine other points "necessary for consideration in settlement of the strike" be submitted to the arbitration board, and [2] that the time limit for arbitration be extended up to 10 days, if necessary.

PUBLIC TO HEAR CHRISTMAS EVE SHOW FOR ARMY

Command Performance, the show regularly broadcast on Sundays over the short waves for the AEF, will be broadcast for domestic listeners, too, on Christmas eve. All four major networks — Mutual, NBC, CBS, and the Blue — will carry this special program, responding to requests of army and navy men abroad, from 10 to 11 p. m.

There will be several special Christmas day shows. A matinée show on CBS will be headed by Hope, Bette Davis, Abbott and Costello, Gracie Fields, Judy Garland, Don Ameche, the Merry Macs, Cass Dailey, and others.

The Blue network has arranged an Uncle Sam's Christmas Tree Party continuing from 11 a. m. thru 11 p. m., with 40 bands to be heard from various camps thruout the nation.

Instead of entertaining children at its annual Christmas giving party, WLS this season will entertain the men of the Army Air Force Technical Training Command in the Eighth Street theater from 10:30 to noon next Saturday.

Art to Provide Topic in Benefit Lecture Series

BY JUDITH CASS.

WITH the announcement of a new series of benefit lectures to be given on alternate Sundays at the Arts club, the Chicago committee on funds to aid Poetry magazine has scored the cultural scoop of the winter. Tomorrow, around a wassail bowl in Mrs. James H. Mitchell's North State parkway home, the committee will hear plans for the series of talks, which will open on Jan. 30 with a lecture by the noted architect, Frank Lloyd Wright.

Modern art will be the theme of the talks, which will be given at 11 o'clock every other Saturday, with luncheon following. Other lectures in the series will include David Daiches' on poetry, Rudolph Ganz's on music, Arthur Meeker Jr.'s on the modern novel, and Daniel Catton Rich's on painting. Mr. Meeker is secretary of the Poetry committee.

Among those serving on the committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Augustine J. Bowe are Mrs. Morton Bodfish, Mrs. James Bremner, Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins, Mrs. Thomas Reynolds, and Mrs. Alfred P. Shaw, president of the Arts club. Also working for the magazine are a New York and a Washington committee, with Mrs. Francis Biddle, Mrs. Rudyerd Boulton, a former Chicagoan, and Mrs. Richard Whiteley among the members of the latter.

Hull House Yule Tableaux to Be Presented Dec. 28.

A Christmas treat for children—and for their mothers as well—will be the presentation of the Hull House Christmas tableaus on Monday, Dec. 28, at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the Goodman Memorial theater. The Public School Art society of the Art Institute of Chicago is sending out invitations to the performance, which is an annual and much loved event at Hull House, but which never has been presented in the loop.

Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, a prime mover in the society, and her husband are going east to have Christmas in Washington, D. C., with their daughter and her husband, Lt. Comm. Duncan Hodges, and their baby, but Mrs. Brewster will return in time for the tableaus. Lester Bridahan and Mrs. Winterbotham Badger are in charge of arrangements during Mrs. Brewster's absence, but the former will not be here long enough to see the performance. Mr. Bridahan, who directs publicity for the Art institute, has been commissioned a lieutenant in the naval reserve and will depart for active duty before Christmas.

An extra cause for cheering in the homes of Tavern club members is caused by the announcement from the club that its annual Christmas party for children and parents will be given as usual without shrinkage of its customary program of entertainment because of the war. Next Sunday has been set as the date for the party. Following a buffet luncheon at 12:30 o'clock there will be a show at 3 o'clock in the upstairs assembly hall, a marionette circus performance, and a trained live monkey or crow, or even both. There will be music, of course.

Saddle and Cycle Planning at Home for Midshipmen.

There will be no lack of Christmas gayety for the midshipmen of the naval reserve school at Northwestern university, for in addition to other parties the Saddle and Cycle is planning an old fashioned at home on Sunday from 3 to 6:30 o'clock. About 100 of the future naval officers have been invited to rally around the huge Christmas tree, which Mrs. John Root and Mrs. Henry Gross are decorating in silver and gold with ornaments they are making, and partake of eggnog. Miss Josephine Carpenter, Miss Diana Hill, and Miss Peggy Nicholson are in charge of gathering together a group of young women, daughters of club members and their friends, to be partners for the midshipmen.

During the afternoon the Great Lakes Dredge and Philharmonic Friends of Music will sing some old carols, among them the club's favorite "Bringing in the Yule Log." There will be some "renditions" by a quartet as well, with Thomas I. Underwood, William Spencer, John Cromelin, and Louis Sudler or John Root making up the quartet.

A number of reservations have been made for the Saddle's patriotic New Year's eve party, which is to be inexpensive—$5 a couple—with war bonds as prizes. The Louis Watermulders, Lawrence Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. Gross, the Underwoods, the

The Christmas Scene.

The awed excitement of other years is there only in the eyes of small children, but the crowds are heavier than ever. . . . Silver stars glint from the cedar garlands on lamp posts, and the Salvation Army lassies, their heads this year muffled in black Russian caps, interrupt their tinkling bells only to murmur a swift "God bless you" in the wake of a coin dropper. . . . Christmas carols descend thru the frosty air, ". . . peace on earth and mercy mild . . ." and the headlines on the corner newsstands are black and bold, Rommel Flees Again—Smash Nazi Lines in Libya.

Angels glow with an inner fire. . . . An eighteenth century puppet trio fiddles and sings before a wreathed Christmas door. . . . Christmas trees are fat and lusty with old-fashioned paper chains, cranberries, and popcorn strings rather than glittering glass. . . . A band of carolers, clad in vestments of mulberry and purple, pauses on an escalator, their song stilled, to laugh deliriously at the fat one who says, "It's killin' me . . ." . . . And the girl at the counter piled high with service flags inset with stars of blue or silver or gold says, "Sorry. We've run out of flags with two stars. . . ."

In one window the ageless Christmas scene, the Nativity, lives again. . . . In another pajamaed children stare wonderingly up at dreams of Christmas suspended above their heads on cellophane clouds. . . . In another a line of mechanized figures, every one a Santa Claus, jerks in and out, now simulating a paratrooper, now a Commando, now a tank, now a plane. . . . A Christmas fireplace, done in the spirit of a Strauss waltz, is of pale blue wood with a mantel laden with pine cones and gold balls and a garland of dancing dolls above. . . . Santa in pink velvet, Santa in red velvet, Santa in fuchsia and rose and white. . . . Wreaths of silver, wreaths of gold, wreaths of holly and cedar and poinsettias. . . . And the faintly obliterated words on the covered subway chutes, "F-y fo- Na-y. Fl- f-r Navy." . . . Scene of wonder and dreams, scene of hope and masked heaviness of heart, scene of selflessness and softness and love and giving that no war can ever stop. . . .

Subterfuge at Fort Des Moines.

From a vigilant scout we learn of a Ridgewood [N. Y.] girl, Florence LaBau, who recently joined the WAAC as an auxiliary. As her brother had joined a bomber squadron, her parents closed their house when the girl went to Fort Des Moines, taking with her Su-Ling and Mee-tu, two kittens, the last of a line that had been in the family six years. A little late she learned that pets were banned by the army, but the kittens, already installed in her barracks, were so endearing that no one could bear to throw them out. They now are listed on the company property lists as "mouse traps" and kept in a desk drawer in the company orderly room.

Friends of Writers to Hold Dinner Meeting Tomorrow

The Friends of American Literature will meet for dinner at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow evening in Huyler's restaurant, 310 South Michigan avenue. Dr. Preston Bradley, pastor of the People's church, will give a talk on Van Loon's "Lives." Among special guests will be Josephine Blackstock, writer of children's books, and Sigrid Sittig.

Prize Is Awarded Scientist for Work in Stellar Dynamics

New York, Dec. 13 [Special].—A method for investigating the dynamics of stellar systems, which provides a new lead for evaluating the age of the universe, was awarded one of two $200 prizes of the New York Academy of Sciences, at the annual meeting tonight. Dr. S. Chandrasekar, astrophysicist, Yerkes observatory of the University of Chicago, at Williams Bay, Wis., was the recipient.

The second $200 prize was awarded to Dr. Charles D. Michener of the American Museum of Natural History, for his studies on the comparative anatomy of bees and the working out of a new phylogenetic tree for this species.

The new method for investigating the dynamics of stellar systems applies the statistics of the gravitational field to the case of a moving body, Dr. Chandrasekhar states. By this method "it is shown how the upshot of the accidental fluctuations in the field produces a secular slowing down of stars that have relatively high velocities, in this way retarding the escape of stars from clusters."

Illinois Sending Vast Stores of Foods to Allies

Vast quantities of lend-lease foodstuffs, including beef, veal, pork, mutton, and poultry products, have been shipped to foreign countries in the last 19 months from Illinois and the Great Lakes region, officials of the regional agricultural marketing administration disclosed here yesterday.

Orders, mounting into the millions of dollars and millions of pounds, are being placed daily with meat packers, cereal manufacturers and food processors. Special products, particularly foodstuffs with high protein value, are being specified by the AMA for foreign consumption. One Chicago meat packing house has an order on file for several million pounds of cvinaya tushonka, a prepared pork marinated in lard, for the Russians. Tushonka, using beef, was one of many items requested by the Russian government, but pork was substituted here due to the beef shortage.

Containers for the foodstuffs bear directions for preparation in many languages, altho most of the products are not manufactured particularly to suit foreign tastes, the officials explained.

During the period beginning March 15, 1941, thru Oct. 31, 1942, 267,383,341 pounds of cheese, 118,783,070 pounds of dried skim milk, and 798,781 pounds of butter have been shipped out from the Great Lakes region, covering Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

The quantity takes on even greater significance when it is understood that every pound of cheese shipped is equivalent to nine pounds of natural cheese, and every pound of dried skim milk is equal to 11 pounds of fresh milk. Three dozens of fresh eggs make one pound of dried eggs, and 66,920,860 pounds of dried eggs have been sent on lend-lease shipments from this area.

Other huge shipments included 798,781,046 pounds of canned, cured, frozen and smoked pork, 2,016,500 pounds of beef in addition to large quantities of dried and frozen beef, 379,005,322 pounds of lard, 304,400,000 pounds of cornstarch, 20,892,000 pounds of oat cereal, 97,495,900 pounds of beans in addition to cranberry, kidney and Michigan pea beans, and 46,118,850 pounds of oleomargarine. Thousands of pounds of frozen beef, lamb, and veal also have been sent from this region.

Illinois has contributed greatly to the lend-lease program, particularly in meat, poultry, cereal, flour, and bean products. In the same period between March, 1941, and October, 1942, 44,775,000 pounds of American cheese of the best quality, 628,189,401 pounds of canned, cured and frozen pork, 276,077,922 pounds of lard, 1,465,000 pounds of beef, and 5,000,000 pounds of dehydrated soup in addition to canned condensed soup and dry soup concentrate, have been among the lend-lease consignments from Illinois.

Supplementing the meat shipments, products made from soy beans, which also have a high protein content, have been purchased here. More than 3,000,000 pounds of soy beans alone plus 32,890,000 pounds of soy flour and 10,080,000 pounds of soy grits and fat soy flour have been ordered. There also have been 289,120,000 pounds of cornstarch, 11,392,000 pounds of oat cereal and 4,400,000 pounds of biscuits sent. A demand for margarine, which is used in place of butter, was answered with a shipment of 16,779,300 pounds.

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

[The following account is the third of a series in a survey by THE TRIBUNE of women's activities during the first year of the war. Others will appear in this column from time to time.]

If there is a universal service password it must be "Chicago service men's centers." Since the Japanese raid on Pearl Harbor 3,415,292 men have visited the four centers, eaten at the bountiful canteens, and danced and talked with members of the SMC Girls' clubs.

A total of 8,300 women and girls serve as canteen hostesses, hostess volunteers, guides, members of the girls' clubs, receptionists, clerical volunteers, program volunteers, and members of the women's advisory board. Their duties range from dancing the turkey trot with a boy from the Tennessee hills to passing the mustard at the canteen counters.

Many women work for the centers who actually never set foot in them. From their kitchens have come 150,642 cakes and 6,836 pounds of cookies. With their husbands they have helped supply 207,155 pounds of food such as frankfurters, cheese, potato chips, ice cream mix, and sandwich meats which the boys have eaten this year. They have helped donate 37,810 gallons of milk and cream and mustard, pickles, relish, and salad dressings. "Extras" such as 219,420 ice cream cups, 1,263 boxes of fresh fruit, 2,708 pies, and 106,118 pie tarts help make Chicago noted for its hospitality.

Like the women who work at the service men's centers, the 9,075 who assist at the United Service organizations clubs perform services that include conducting drama, art, and photography classes, doing clerical work, leading songs, giving dance instruction, writing letters, and mending. Since June 782,667 men of the army and navy have visited the centers.

Women solicited or contributed $42,545.61 to the U. S. O. war fund campaign. They have volunteered approximately 244,145 hours of work.

Altho the office of civilian defense, 23 North Wacker drive, maintains no clubs for service men, its activities reach every man, woman, and child in Chicago. There are 23,395 women serving as staff members, air raid wardens, child care volunteers, consumer information volunteers, conservation workers, public information workers, and recruiters for volunteers for social agencies and the OCD.

Women have contributed 3 million pounds of grease to the grease salvage campaign and approximately 304,399 tons of scrap to the scrap metal drive. The recruiting committee, 111 West Jackson boulevard, has referred 250 women to social agencies needing help, and several training courses in such work and that of the OCD have been held.

Sailors, soldiers, marines, and coast guardsmen will be on the receiving end next week when members of Bundles for America start distributing some 65,000 stockings filled with articles the boys have specifically requested. Miss Mary Dean has been one of the many women who have assisted Mrs. John P. Cohane, general chairman, in making the stocking campaign a successful one. Contributions are being accepted, and a 50 cent donation will help fill a soldier's stocking.

The newly formed Winnetka unit of the Association of Army and Navy Wives will meet tomorrow afternoon at the Winnetka Woman's club, with Mrs. Carter Collins, president of the association, as speaker. Mrs. George S. Parker is chairman of the Winnetka group, assisted by Mrs. Montague Ferry and Mrs. Louis Northrop.

The Mercy Corps for Greece has announced that the Oak Park quota of $2,500 for Greek relief has been filled by means of 16 "starvation" teas held simultaneously thruout the village. The Mercy corps is the women's department of the citizens' committee to raise funds for food for Greece. Mrs. Kenneth Brown is chairman.

Lt. Mary Martha Heck of the navy nurses' corps has been named chief nurse of the naval hospital at Great Lakes. She succeeds Lt. [j. g.] Beulah Ann Buchanan, who is leaving for duty outside the United States.

Round Table Will Have Etta Moten as Its Guest

The Chicago Round Table of Christians and Jews will have Etta Moten, in the cast of the current production of George Gershwin's opera, "Porgy and Bess," as its special guest at a tea at 3:30 o'clock Monday in the Arts club.

Cudahy to Head Guest List Today at Freedom Fair

John Cudahy, former United States ambassador to Belgium; Pierre Dupong, prime minister and president of the Luxemburg government, and Capt. Laurelle of Gen. Charles De Gaulle's army will be special guests at Freedom Fair today, which is Belgians in Britain, Luxemburg, and Fighting French Relief day.

Mrs. Thomas A. Connors, general chairman of the fair, is giving a dinner at 6:30 o'clock tonight for Mr. Cudahy at the Hotel Sherman, in whose exhibition halls the fair is being held. Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson, who is acting as hostess for Belgians in Britain, John van Rickstal, consul general of Belgium, and Mrs. van Rickstal, as well as the chairman of the Belgians in Britain committee, Mrs. John van Rysselberge, will attend the dinner.

M. Dupong resides in Montreal. Capt. Laurelle, who was seriously injured at Bir Hacheim, is lecturing on desert fighting at army camps in the United States. He will speak at 6 o'clock at the fair.

Good Morning!

KIND: The telephone company goes to war—on the home front.

ACTING: Commendable. Bruce Bennett carries the leading rôle with honor. He has capable support in Frank Albertson, Julian Rivero, Rosina Galli, and other minor players. . . . Leslie Brooks is amateurish—but pretty.

DIRECTION: Snappy.

DIALOG: Could hear very little of it. [What IS this breed of talking, jeering, crunching, fighting, giggling human that's infesting the movie theaters these days and ruining pictures for other people? A survey might reveal that the male of the species should be in the army. . . . Disturbances are becoming more and more frequent and the youthful ushers seem unable to cope with the offenders.]

STORY: Telephone officials discover that their lines are being tapped by enemy spies. . . . Agents detailed on the job are killed and information helpful to the war effort continues to leak out. . . . But when crack investigator for the company, Lee Graham, takes over—a different story soon unfolds. . . .

SCENERY, SETS, PHOTOGRAPHY: Plenty.

See you tomorrow

Class in Lip Reading.

The Stage

By Cecil Smith

College dramatic activities have been severely hit by the draft and other war problems. Chicago's two major campus musical entertainments, the Northwestern university Waa-Mu show and the University of Chicago's Blackfriars, have suspended production for the war's duration.

While smaller scale theatrical undertakings continue in these universities and other schools, the drafting of 18 and 19 year old students during the rest of the academic year will surely put a serious, if not insurmountable, obstacle in the way of casting male parts. Students who continue in college under army discipline are scarcely likely to find spare time for acting and play production.

The Waa-Mu show was called off last May by the board of governors. "With the world at war," writes Myrtle Meyer, secretary for the Waa-Mu show, in response to a request for more information, "the Waa-Mu board of governors felt that the energy and materials used in producing the show should be directed into channels more closely concerned with the war effort. The Waa-Mu organization also felt that instead of producing a show which may not bear favorable comparison with productions of the past several years, it would rather keep its record bright for reëstablishment after the war.

"We hope that world conditions will be such that production of the Waa-Mu show can be resumed next year. Incidentally, the university has recently adopted the quarter system, and it is probable that when they are resumed Waa-Mu productions will be staged around the last week in February instead of in March."

The abandonment of Blackfriars at the University of Chicago was decided upon last week. Facing the future frankly, the administrators of the student organization realized that the necessary man power will be lacking, even tho the Blackfriars treasury is amply supplied with funds to produce a show. "You can't produce a musical comedy with the army's leftovers," the Daily Maroon points out, "or prepare one with a cast due to go into khaki any day the draft board wants them."

In Philadelphia, however, the University of Pennsylvania Mask and Wig club show, always a lavish and expensive production, was staged as usual this fall. An engagement of 10 days in the Erlanger theater, a standard legitimate house, brought in a reported gross of $32,000.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 15.—Thru all George Raft's bickering and battling with his studio as to the parts he'll play, I've always maintained George is smart, knows he's no great actor, won't take a part unless it's right. It's canny showmanship on his part to team up with Betty Grable in "Sweet Rosie O'Grady" at Twentieth Century. That's a combination that'll sell ducats. . . . It didn't take Michelle Morgan long after getting her release from RKO to lunch with Sidney Buchman, which means she'll do the lead in "Appointment in Berlin." . . . Lewis Wilson, who's been starring in "R. U. R." on Broadway, will make his screen debut opposite Merle Oberon at Columbia under Dorothy Arzner's direction.

Betty Grable.

Co-operation.

Went to lunch with Jeannette MacDonald today—she had the cheese, I took the eggs, and her cook whipped up the soufflé. Jeanette said, "I missed you at the opening of the Metropolitan this year." We were there together last, and escorted by Gene Raymond. She said this year, because Lily Pons sang "Daughter of the Regiment," people listened instead of looking at each other, as tho it were just a fashion parade. Except for a few guest shots with various orchestras and army camp appearances, Jeanette won't do much except prepare for her debut at the Met in "Romeo and Juliet" at the end of the season. So the little girl from Pennsylvania, who dreamed of some day singing there makes her dream come true. Nick Schenck asked whether she'd found a story she'd like to do at Metro. Jeanette replied, "For three years I tried to get Spencer Tracy." Nick said, "You can get him now," which must mean that Katharine Hepburn no longer has strings on him for her future pictures.

Block That Kick.

Yep, there'll be another hair pulling contest in "So Proudly We Hail" between Paulette Goddard and Veronica Lake. Doesn't seem quite fair to Veronica, because Paulette had plenty of practice in "The Women." . . . When Monty Woolley appeared as Santa Claus, a friend commented that in spite of all, children seemed to like him. He said, "Why not? I was a small child myself, once." . . . Jimmy Dorsey will introduce the new song, "Dancing with You," written by Eleanor Powell and Walter Ruick. . . . That dearly beloved Mae Marsh of the silents is a grandmother. Her daughter, Merle, has a baby boy. . . . Teresa Wright and Niven Busch are vacationing in Tucson.

Just Wondering.

My ex-neighbor, Lili Damita, sent a picture of herself and son, Shawn. Wish Errol Flynn could see how handsome his son is. He might take an interest in fatherhood. As to Flynn marrying Ann Sheridan in Mexico—he could. But he'll not be free from Lili until April 1, 1943. His friend, Raoul Walsh, also is down Mexico way, which makes the set-up perfect. . . . Have never seen such changes as those in Myrna Loy—pardon me, Mrs. John Hertz Jr. She's soignee, New Yorky—meaning chic and smart. He's got what my grandfather used to call "lots in the upper story." Had tea with them at Minna Wallis' today. The Al Halls were there, too. Al tells me he won't make another picture until next year, unless he could be borrowed to direct "Claudia." As to doing another "Return of Mr. Jordan," says he, "Mr. Jordan returned, and that's that!"

Hero Still Holds.

Before Howard Hughes discovered Jane Russell, she discovered Bob Waterfield, the husky half back at U. C. L. A. Then along comes John Payne, and the big football hero took a back seat 'til his campus buddies got to work. Now Bob and Jane are back where they started from. . . . With Corp. Shelton back in town, it's honeymooning all over again with Kathryn Grayson, except when Gene Kelly gives her dancing lessons. . . . As if Irene Dunne needed a label, some dim-wit at the Canteen wrote her name plainly and placed it in her identification tag. She wore it.

Ramblings.

Joan Blondell is the favorite date of "A Yank in a Tank" with all the soldiers at Camp Polk. They even christened one for her. . . . When Preston Sturges was making "Palm Beach Story," he told me Rudy Vallee would steal the picture. I was a little dubious. But Rudy's getting paeans of praise from all critics. I'm so glad—there's a nice guy. . . . Mrs. Frank Fuller from Burlingame would like to take over Jimmy Pendleton's fabulous Beverly home. But no soap. Mrs. Fuller's in the enviable position of having faithful servants, with no place to put 'em. . . . Do you know why many cooks and maids go into defense plants? To get a social security number. Kitchens don't supply those. . . . Remember Hazel Dawn of "Pink Lady" fame? Hear she's on the swing shift at Lockheed. Her daughter's working at Metro. . . . Mary Boland's in New York for radio shows and a look-see. . . . While trying to find a name for Mimi Chandler in the Aldrich picture—Joan, Mary, and Linda were suggested, when Miss Chandler spoke up—"What's the matter with Mimi? It's been lucky for me." I'll say!

Young or Old Designers Will Like This Kit

BY REA SEEGER.

Fashion enthusiasts, from the tender age of 8 up to 18 and even older, bubbling over with original designs for feminine apparel now have a slick chance to prove to themselves and others just what a designing woman they can become. There's a designing setup, now available, that answers every need. It's a box with a good tall doll, tape measure, pins, and other bits of a sewing kit plus one of the most informative sewing books ever published. The doll isn't one of the usual innocuous china and stuffed body models, but a typical lay figure, the slim silhouette exaggerated just like the professional dummies in any studio. And it's on this figurine that you pin, cut and fit the dress or costume of your dreams.

The book contains every imaginable bit of information about sewing, with illustrations, such as felled seams, French seams, tucks, and handwork. The book alone is worth the money asked for the entire outfit. Tho it's classed as a game for the gift buyers, it's one of the best stunts for encouraging latent talent in any promising youngster you might know. It permits a worker, planning gowns or creations in miniature to get a general effect of what the finished gown, dress or suit will look like.

Small girls will be jubilant over such a gift. Designers in the "teens" will welcome it just as joyfully, while the serious dress designers will instantly appreciate the possibilities of trying out new color combinations, new contrasts, new silhouettes, and anything different. By working in miniature, there need be no waste of costly material and trimmings and whether the new silhouette be flattering is quickly decided.

Chilean to Speak.

Eduardo Alcayaga, Chilean attorney, will speak in Spanish on "The Two Americas" at the Pan-American council's weekly tea Saturday in the International Relations center, 84 East Randolph street.

Thru the Looking Glass

If you're playing Santa Claus to a member of the WAACs you might be interested in knowing what beauty gifts those good women soldiers have gone on record as saying they want and can use. Serviceable items that will contribute to their neatness and comfort are important, but space is at a premium in their quarters and sheer fluff is OUT.

They want, particularly, good shower soap on a cord. Fortunately for you, this is easy to find. Make sure it's as bland as can be, tho. The wind blows cold out Fort Des Moines way and dry skin gets dryer if it isn't taken care of.

They also like dusting powder, in a mitt. There is no room in their foot lockers for bulky fancy boxes. You can find these powder loaded mitts—appropriately red, white, and blue—that have been created expressly for the corps.

WAACs like simplified, easily carried makeup kits. They use the minimum of makeup, by the way, and for them you can forget the exotic stuff. And they like colognes, in fragrances that are fresh and clean, but for them such luxuries must come in rather small quantities. A large reserve is out of the question.

A small mirror, like a man's shaving mirror, that can be hung on their wall lockers will be a welcome gift. Every WAAC can also use a good comb and brush, a simple but efficient manicure set, with scissors, please; a wafer slim, sturdy compact minus jewels or flamboyant ornamentation, and shower slippers and a cap.

If your pet auxiliary or officer is out at the fort you may be sure she'll like specially rich creams and soothing body lotions. It's pretty cold there and the women are out of doors a great deal.

Eleanor Nangle.

(ADVERTISMENT)

For Joyful Cough Relief, Try This Home Mixture

Saves Big Dollars. No Cooking.

This splendid recipe is used by millions every year, because it makes such a dependable, effective medicine for coughs due to colds. It is so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its soothing effect on throat and bronchial membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of cough medicine, very effective and quick-acting, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be amazed by the way it takes hold of coughs, giving quick relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

University Women's Group to Hear Talk by Polish Refugee

Dr. Joseph P. Junosza will appear before the Chicago branch of the American Association of University Women at 8 o'clock this evening in room 825 of the Fine Arts building to talk on "Freedom in Present and Post-War Europe."

Before the war Dr. Junosza, who was graduated from the Polytechnical Institute of Warsaw, was a prominent figure in Polish industry and was active in the National Union of Polish Students. He is a veteran of the Polish-Bolshevik war, 1918-'20, and of the battle of Warsaw in September, 1939. He escaped German occupied Poland in October of 1940.

Dr. Junosza is director of the Polish Information center for the middle west, located in Chicago. He will be presented to the university group by Mrs. James W. Halley, program chairman. Mrs. Edmon H. Hoben will preside.

Cornmeal, a healthful cereal, is plentiful, so let's use it in as many interesting ways as possible. Cornmeal mush is an excellent breakfast food, and what's left from breakfast may be cubed and baked with onion and tomato sauce for a luncheon dish next day. Cornbread is good and good for you. Cornmeal muffins, pancakes, and waffles are pleasant eating too.

Cornmeal Mush.

[Four cups or six servings.]
1 cup yellow cornmeal
1½ teaspoons salt
5 cups boiling water

Add salt to boiling water. Add cornmeal gradually, stirring as you add. Cook over low heat or in the top of a double boiler, covered. Over direct heat the time required will be about 30 minutes. Forty-five minutes should be allowed for double boiler cooking.

Molded Cornmeal Mush.

This firm mixture may be fried and served with sirup at breakfast or lunch, or cubed and combined with meat and a sauce for a hearty baked luncheon or supper dish.

Pour thick, cooked mush into a deep refrigerator tray rinsed with cold water. Cover to prevent a crust from forming. Chill [not in freezing unit] until firm. Slice and sauté in bacon drippings or other fat until brown on both sides and serve with sirup and butter for breakfast. If you like the slices crisp, dip them into dry cornmeal before frying. Leftover breakfast bacon or sausage may be crumbled and mixed into the mush before molding.

For a casserole dish put layers of cooked mush into a greased dish with cooked vegetables or cooked meat and cover with cheese or tomato sauce and buttered crumbs. Bake until thoroly hot.

There must be a hundred recipes for cornbread, with sugar, without sugar, half flour, all cornmeal, with lots of butter, with very little. This one is from my book, "Better Homemade Breads and Rolls" [23 cents by mail].

Cornbread.

[Eight inch square pan.]
1 cup flour
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup yellow cornmeal
2 eggs
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons melted fat [bacon fat preferred]

Sift dry ingredients. Beat eggs and add to milk. Add melted fat to liquids. Pour into dry ingredients and mix well. Bake in a greased pan at 375 degrees about 40 minutes.

Cornbread stuffing is wonderful in chicken or turkey. The bread may be used in place of all or a part of the bread crumbs called for in any good standard recipe for stuffing.

I printed a cornbread stuffing recipe so recently that I shan't repeat here, but if any reader wishes one I'll be glad to send it for it has been mimeographed on a sheet which also contains recipes for other stuffings in addition to directions for roasting turkey, duck, goose, and chicken. All I ask is a stamped self-addressed envelope.

In addition you may be interested in our prepared sheets discussing meat rationing and including recipes for preparing the nonrestricted kinds of meat. The same envelope will bring this information but I hope it will be a long business size envelope for if it isn't a big one it's going to be pretty crowded!

TODAY'S $5 PRIZE RECIPE

Broccoli Manhattan.

[Serves four.]
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup grated cheese
2 cups cooked broccoli
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
½ cup buttered crumbs
¼ teaspoon paprika

Melt butter and blend in flour. Add milk and salt and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add cheese and stir until well blended. Add broccoli and pimiento and turn into buttered baking dish. Sprinkle top with crumbs and paprika. Bake 20 minutes in a moderate [350 degrees] oven.

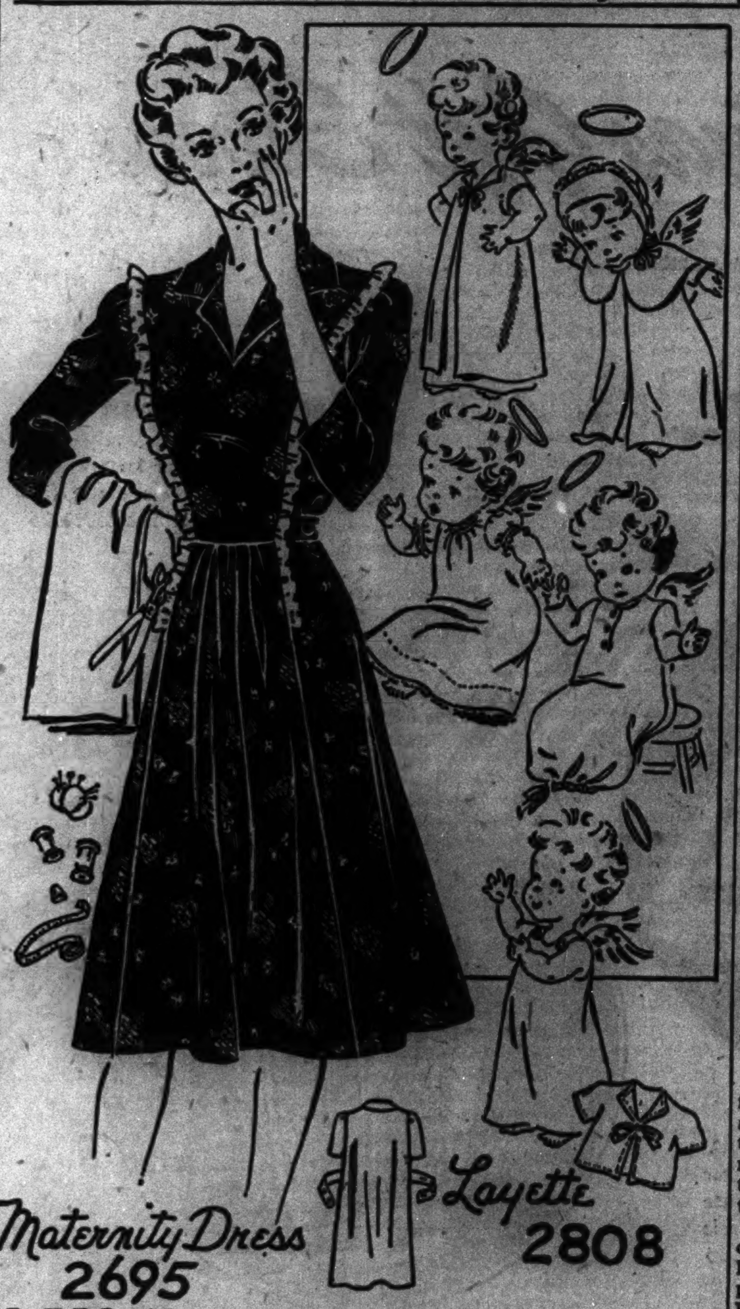
For Mother and Baby



MATERNITY FROCK AND LAYETTE.

As pretty as any of the new frocks is this maternity design with concealing ways. It's trimmed with ruffling and has a handsome, broad shouldered line to lend the illusion of slimness to the waist and hip sectors. The basic layette will start your cherub off with an adequate wardrobe.

Style No. 2695 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 and 36, 38 and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material with 1⅛ yards of plaiting.

Style No. 2808 is designed for one size and includes dress, coat and bonnet, slip, nightgown, wrapper and saque. Consult pattern envelope for yardage requirements.

Each pattern costs 10 cents, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost (coin preferred—wrap it carefully), for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT: Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The Clotilde pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

The average declarer is in such a hurry to draw trumps that he often is blind to other and, perhaps, more important, considerations. That was the case in the following deal:

South, dealer,
Rubber bridge.
Both sides vulnerable.
North-South 60 part-score.

NORTH
♠9 6 4 3
♥K 6
♦A 7 3 2

WEST
♠10
♥9 8 7 4
♦J 9 8 4

EAST
♠K Q J 2
♥J 5 3
♦Q 10 5
♣K 7 3

SOUTH
♠A 8 7 5
♥A Q 10 2
♦K 6
♣J 6 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

South started with one spade, in order to be able to show his heart suit in normal order if the bidding were to call for it. When North, however, raised spades, there was no need to mention any other suit on the 60 part-score.

West opened the heart nine. Dummy played low and East's jack went to the queen. Declarer promptly laid down the ace and a low spade, and after that East took over the business of drawing trumps, not stopping until both declarer's hand and dummy were entirely denuded. A heart return to dummy's king followed, and declarer eventually found that he was one trick short of his cherished goal. He had been held to one trump trick, four hearts, and two diamonds.

It is particularly unwise for a declarer, whose trump suit is as weak as South's in this case, to attempt drawing trumps when his contract is for only eight tricks. Observe how easy it would have been for South if he had ignored the opponents' trumps and concentrated on cashing tricks.

After winning the opening lead, South should have cashed the diamond king, then led to the diamond ace and ruffed a diamond. Next, he should have led to the heart king and ruffed dummy's last diamond. True, he would be risking an overruff, that is, West, instead of East, might have been short in diamonds, but that could scarcely be fatal. As the cards lay, East could do no better than discard his last heart on the fourth round of diamonds. Now declarer would lead a high heart and discard a club from dummy. East could ruff this with the spade deuce and return a spade, but to no great avail. Declarer would win with the ace and lead his last heart, again discarding a club from dummy. Now East could ruff and draw declarer's last trump, but dummy still would have two trumps that would be perfectly good. In fact, this line of play would hold the defenders to three spade tricks and one club, thus giving declarer his contract with an overtrick.

Even the Young Child Can Make Holiday Gifts

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

While allowing children to make Christmas gifts for their grownups, don't leave little boys and girls out in the cold. They are so warm in their outgiving affection that it would be a pity for you to think, or to let them feel that just because their young hands aren't skilled, there is nothing they can contribute to the tangible evidences of festivity, and nothing they can do well enough to constitute a gift for a beloved mother or father.

Even a gold star, such as are on hand in stationery stores, pasted smearily on a piece of paper with the little giver's name printed staggeringly across the bottom, has something of himself in it, and is more touching for a grownup to receive than a pretty conventional ready made card.

But the possibilities are wider than that, and the results can be in many cases so much better, that small Jill or young John will themselves be pleased at the result. The point for mother being, however, that the child be helped to select an article which it is well within his capacities to make. With this in mind, here are suggestions for gifts and other Christmas articles [perhaps for house or tree] that young children can create:

When I mentioned just now [to a young grownup] how he used to stuff dates with nuts for Christmas gifts when he was very little, he remarked, "O, yes! Didn't I have fun doing it! And you really loved them. O sure, that's a swell thing for kids to do for Christmas." So there is idea No. 1, dates stuffed with nuts and rolled in that "diamond dust" which used to be called merely granulated sugar. Naturally these goodies should be in a pretty container like a small basket or box.

Children who have done manual things in kindergarten [or at home] can make long paper chains for the Christmas tree or house decoration. Colored or silver or gold paper for them comes in little bundles. Cut paper strips [narrow, if you like delicate chains, or wide if you don't]. Make a ring by curving the strip and lapping one end over the other, secured by a dab of library paste. If a very long chain is desired, it can be done in sections, then joined.

Some of the younger children have been allowed to "help" mother cook and can even themselves make a cookie dough, roll it, cut it, and decorate it if that is desired. Some one must lend a hand in the baking, since hot ovens are not quite a younger child's speed, but it is still his or her own gift, prettily packed and labeled.

Advent Novena for Peace to Be Sung in English

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Worshipers at Holy Name cathedral tonight, when an Advent novena for peace to the Prince of Peace begins, will encounter a new adaptation of psalm and prophecy to a liturgy in English that stresses today's crises. The series of eight services, which closes on Christmas eve, were developed by the Rev. Emmett Regan of the cathedral staff, from the Bible and liturgical sources. The Rev. Mr. Regan, director of the Cathedral choristers, also composed the musical settings. The choristers will sing each night.

The service tonight will emphasize the Advent call to worship and come to a climax in the old carol, "O Come, O Come, Emmanuel," but for tomorrow and succeeding nights one of the ancient prophecies, mainly from the psalms, is adapted in a liturgical setting to today's needs.

For example, on one occasion the 113th psalm is used. This psalm points to the idols of the heathen which are "the work of the hands of men" and are unseeing, unhearing, and unfeeling. Then priest and congregation read responsively as follows:

Priest: They that make them become like unto them.

People: And all such as trust in them.

Priest: We believe not in purity of blood, but in purity of soul.

People: We trust not in the strength of arm, but in the greatness of soul.

This service ends with a prayer from the mass against heathen which asks Almighty God to "look to help of the Christian people, that the pagan nations who trust in the fierceness of their own might may be crushed by the power of Thy right arm."

Beginning tomorrow night a candle on the seven branch candlestick is lighted, symbolic of the prophecy pointing to the coming of the Savior. Remaining candles will be lighted on succeeding nights.

Annual Christmas Carol 'Sing' at Church Tonight

The annual Christmas carol "sing" at Fourth Presbyterian church, which the Women's federation sponsors, will be held in the large chapel at 8 o'clock this evening, and after the singing there will be a reception and tea for "old timers" and new members of the congregation. Mrs. Homer L. Dixon is in charge of the program with Barret Spach, organist and musical director of the church. Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Robert H. Biddleton and Mrs. Malcolm C. Woodward.

Juvenile Crimes in Chicago Rise 3.8 Pct. in Year

Juvenile delinquency in Chicago increased 3.8 per cent above that of 1941—far less than the 50 per cent increase that was forecast by psychologists, according to the annual report of Judge Frank H. Bicek of the Juvenile court issued yesterday. The report was the first to be read on Chicago's delinquency rate since the beginning of the war.

A greater increase in delinquency in 1943 was predicted by Judge Bicek and Col. Harry Hill, chief probationary officer, who said that war disorganization will be felt more keenly then. He said three chief contributing factors to juvenile delinquency will be:

The disorganization of the home because male members are away in the army and navy or in distant war plants.

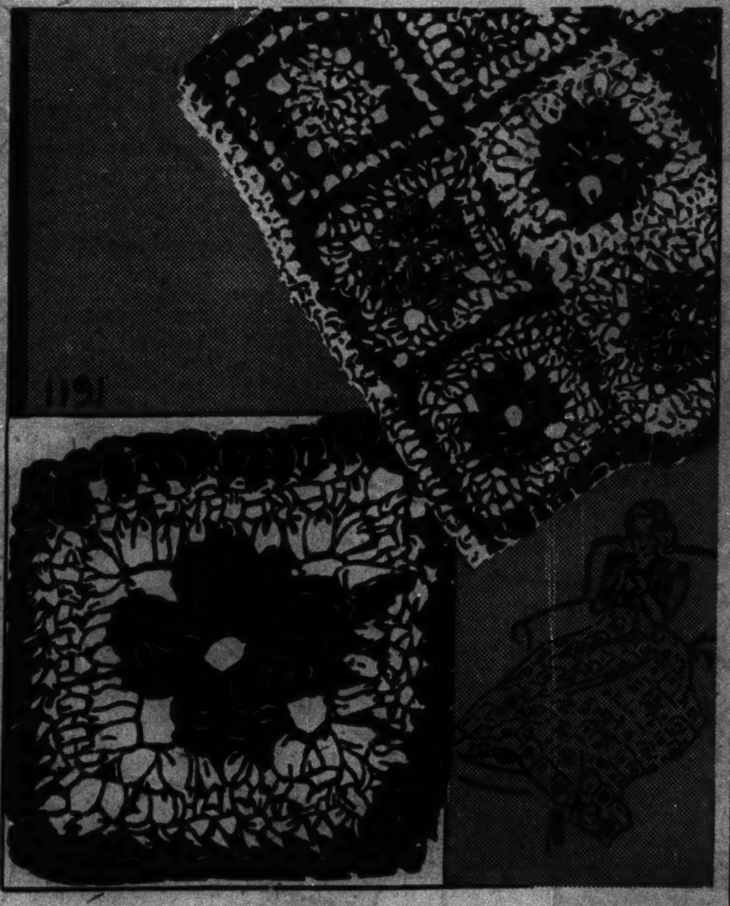
Children earning greater wages than those to which they have been accustomed and getting into trouble in their endeavors to spend their money.

Commitments to correctional institutions showed marked increases, with 20 per cent more boys being sent to the Illinois State Training School for Boys, near St. Charles. Thirteen per cent more girls were committed to institutions than in 1941. Sex delinquency remained the most serious problem among girls.

The report revealed two immediate problems brought on by the war. They are increases in dependency caused by mothers who are working but neglecting children, and the shortage of foster homes now that foster mothers have found more profitable employment; increase in the number of jobs available because of war industries causing disorganization in the home.

Complaints against boys still outnumber those against girls about four to one, altho maladjustments in girls of 12 to 18 years have increased in volume and complexity since the war started. In the 10 months from Dec. 1, 1941, to Sept. 30, 1942, 9,435 complaints were made against boys, and 1,224 of these required court action. During the same period, 229 boys were sent to the state training school, cases against 11 were sent to the grand jury, 70 were sent to farm homes, and 1,321 were placed on probation.

Economical Afghan



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

It is quite fashionable to sit around wrapped in a crocheted afghan, since fuel rationing has been ordered. It is quite patriotic to crochet one's afghans from cast-off scraps of silk dresses or coat linings. These are cut into strips, half an inch wide, and combined with the gayest of colors. One square may be created in a few minutes.

For instructions in crocheting the afghan from scraps, No. 1191, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Feminine Firsts.

The first full-length mirrors in America were ordered from Paris to please the feminine customers of A. T. Stewart's drygoods store in New York. . . . The first women to be hired as salespersons in a large department store were employed by Stewart's Philadelphia contemporary, John Wanamaker, about 1865. . . . Frances Willard, founder and first president of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, famous also for her interest in woman suffrage, was educated at Northwestern university, later was made a professor at Northwestern and then selected dean of the Woman's college. . . . The first woman to become an official in the main office of any large New York City bank was Mary Vail Andress. She was one of the first eight women to be sent to Europe by the Red Cross in 1917 and was awarded the distinguished service medal by congress in 1919. . . . The first woman graduate of the school of architecture of Columbia university was Marcia Meade. She designed and built clubhouses for women workers in the last war at Bridgeport, Conn.; Buffalo, N. Y., and Detroit, Mich., and designed a housing project for Washington war workers, construction of which was halted by the armistice. . . . Gladys Dick originated the Dick test for the diagnosis of scarlet fever. . . . The first bureau of child hygiene under government control was organized by Dr. S. Josephine Baker. . . . Today—Dec. 16—is the birthday of Jane Austen, the first great English woman novelist of the "common scene."

A Pound of Flesh.

"If you're going further into the problem of the working girl and the 6 o'clock closing hours of the meat markets, I had it licked a long time ago," writes E. J. Anderson. "I buy my meat on my lunch hour and keep it outside on the window sill or in the water cooler compartment until I'm ready to go home."

And Dorothy F. writes: "I buy meat on Wednesdays and Saturdays only. Saturday I buy for the weekend and cook enough on Sunday to use, in one form or another, for Monday and Tuesday. [There are just two of us.] Wednesday's meat carries us thru till Saturday."

While Waiting for the Buzzer.

Dr. Thomas H. Briggs suggests in "Word Study" that five pronouns can be found hidden within a single word. To make it harder Dr. Briggs says that the five pronouns lurk in a five letter word. Do you know what it is?

Inter-Office Communications.

"I like the idea of 'getter-uppers' for those of us who, in the morning, do not spring to our feet. What about Robert Louis Stevenson's 'Morning Prayer' ending 'Give us to go blithely on our business all this day, bring us to our resting beds weary and content and undishonored, and grant us in the end the gift of sleep.'" G. L.

"How many white collar girls know the poem, not in any of the anthologies, that Alfred Noyes considers the greatest in American literature? He has many of the 'major minds' of America guessing . . . but the answer is Charles Adams,' 'Prayer to the Virgin of Chartres.'" MILDRED BURKE.

Cromelins, the Frederick Spencers, and Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Ellis are some of those who will celebrate New Year's at the club.

Striking contrast in New Year's eve prices is made in the prices announced for the Mayfair room of the Blackstone. More than 60 reservations already have been placed at $12.50 a person, the hotel has announced. The cover charge in the Drake's Camellia House will be $15 a plate.

Casino and Racquet Clubs Will Gather Jointly Again.

The last joint Thursday night meeting until after the holidays of the Casino and Racquet clubs will be held tomorrow at the Casino. Bridge, backgammon, and other games are on the entertainment program. Mrs. John L. Cochran and Mrs. John R. Winterbotham are in charge of the party.

Carlotta McGuire, who is 15 months old, soon will be sharing her nursery with a baby brother. Yesterday morning in the Henrotin hospital Mr. and Mrs. John McGuire [Carlotta Lagorio] welcomed their first son, who has been named John Jr. Dr. and Mrs. Frank A. Lagorio and Dr. Walter G. McGuire are the children's grandparents.

Instead of giving a tea for their debutante daughter, Barbara, on Sunday, Dec. 27, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Dick have decided to give a dinner and dancing party for young people only the next night, Dec. 28, at the Pump room. Assisting Miss Dick will be the Misses Molly Nichell, Polly Goodrich, Cherry Boyd, Jane Watkins, Mary Lois Everitt, Carol Kostbade, Nancy Graff, and Mary Bull.

Friends of the Samuel Penfields and of their elder daughter, "Dodo," are being invited to an open house at their home in Glencoe on Dec. 26. The party will not be a debut for Miss Penfield, who will arrive today from Bradford Junior college. Her younger sister is Virginia, a senior at the North Shore Country Day school.

ASKS FEDERAL DECISION ON SPORT FOR 1943

BAKER WIEBE LEAVES OVENS FOR HAWK ICE

Art Rejoins Old Mates Friday.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Art Wiebe.

Art Wiebe, the Blackhawk defense star who failed to show up with the team this season because he had no one to mind the buns and cookies in his Vermilion, Alta., bakery, will join up Friday for practice with Manager Paul Thompson's boys and Sunday night in Chicago Stadium will be at his familiar place alongside Earl Seibert as the Hawks engage the league leading Boston Bruins.

Ever since the season started Bill Tobin, president of the Hawks, has been wiring Art daily about the state of the bread and breakfast roll business in Vermilion. Thru it all, Art indicated a desire to remain with his biscuits and the pressure eased, when the Hawks attained first place 10 days ago.

Then Earl Was Hurt.

On the night of Dec. 6 Seibert suffered a torn ligament in his right knee. Earl went to bed as the team went east for engagements with the Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs. Their goalie, Bert Gardiner, was leading the league in effectiveness and there was hope that the Hawks could skin by without Seibert.

On the night of Dec. 8, the Bruins, previously unable to beat the Hawks, whanged 'em, 9 to 6. Tobin sent a half dozen wires to Wiebe, promising to ship him enough bread to supply the whole province of Alberta, if he would only rush to the aid of the Hawks.

The Hawks backtracked to Toronto for a game with the world champs. Previously, the Hawks had whipped the Leafs 5 to 4, 4 to 3, and 2 to 1. But on the night of Dec. 10 the Leafs buffeted the Hawks something scandalous. The score was 7 to 2. Tobin sent six more wires and put in two long distance calls, one for Art's oven room and one for his home. Art began to waver when he heard Tobin's tremolo pleas. He said he had a baker in mind.

Forget Those Buns, Art!

Last Sunday night Tobin and other Hawk fans got a further lesson in the need of adequate defense gents in front of the padded man in the nets. With Seibert restored to play, the Hawks spotted the Leafs a 2 to 0 lead while Seibert was making sure his bad leg was workable. Then Seibert got busy. He started the play which gave the Hawks the tying score in the second period, scored the winning goal himself, also the fourth and the Hawks won, 5 to 2.

Tobin didn't take back anything he had said to Wiebe and yesterday received word that Art had a man who is good at everything from doughnuts to frosted wedding cakes, that he had received his border clearance papers and an airplane ticket for Chicago.

Wiebe started his professional career with the Hawks in the 1933-'34 season and has teamed with Seibert since the latter came from the Rangers at the start of the 1935-'36 season. He may be used with Red Mitchell or Aud Tuten, Hawk defense newcomers and he may continue with Seibert. This will be decided after the Hawks play the Detroit Red Wings in the Stadium tomorrow night.

The Hawks have done better against the Red Wings than the preseason dope indicated. They tied the Wings, 3 to 3, in Detroit, Nov. 8, and beat them here, 6 to 2, on Nov. 19.

Veterans Help Wings.

Before the start of the present fifty game schedule, hockey dopesters opined that youngsters and simon pure rookies would furnish the bulk of the attacking strength of the Wings, and made them top heavy favorites to win the 1942-'43 title. A glance at the latest statistics, however, shows that it is the old-timers who are keeping the Wings up in the race.

Syd Howe, now in his 13th season as a leaguer and Mud Bruneteau, in his eighth as a Wing and a big timer, are the leading point makers for Jack Adams' crew.

Howe figured in hockey's biggest money deal back in 1934-'35 when the St. Louis Eagles, then members of the league, folded up and sold two players to the Wings, Howe and Scotty Bowman for $50,000.

James Norris Sr. and Adams, owner and manager, respectively, of the Wings, have never had occasion to regret the transaction, for Howe has been the most consistent point maker on the Detroit team since he joined them.

He even tried to fool himself by various sunlamp tricks with curtains drawn, but was much too sharp to outsmart himself. . . . Gabe Paul, the statistically inclined secretary of the Cincinnati Reds, has made himself ill by discovering his team booted home the enemies' winning run in 20 games last season. . . . Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers says that as a player for the Yankees, Reds, Cardinals, and Dodgers he never saw a man either in practice or competition knock the ball over the roof of the left field grandstand in Shibe park, Philadelphia. . . . However, Jimmy Foxx did it many times, once knocking one across the street where it lodged in a peddler's basket. . . . The ball later was autographed and given to a fan, a priest, who was about to depart for a missionary post far from baseball parks.

A Point of View.

Yes, sir, we have a lot to think about over here—coffee, gas, tires, sugar. Boy, I'm telling you it's tough. We really have something to worry about in the small hours. The fellows over there get all the food they want. They have nothing to worry about—just lie there peacfully in their bunks [those bombs will never strike them] and in the wee hours think only of what a beautiful day tomorrow will be.—Al Morrison.

That's not a hard story to tell:
We're fighting to keep the republic alive
And to save it from going to hell.

It's more than the loss of our coffee and gas
That's involved in some grumbling you hear.
Dictator ways portend liberty's doom
E'er the end of the fighting, we fear.

We're not slaves or supine while we grumble and talk.
'Tis a way that we have in a fix
To give warning to those with tyrannical bent
Of what happened in '76.

When our boys win the war they will want to come home
To the nation they left behind;
And not to a land beneath a new rule
Of a godless, communist kind.

They will want to come home to the grand U. S. A.,
Defended 'gainst foemen within,
Who fume, plan, and plot for a world governing clan
Ruling here instead of Berlin.

While they fight over there, we fight over here
Against every alien ism
That tries to destroy our belief in the God
Of traditional Americanism.

Remember.

It is nice to see with the eyes of youth
A rosy world—a world of truth,
Gay fields of promise—sunshiny ways,
And most of the time, just flowery Mays
—to remember.

But life cannot be all fair weather.
We may not always be together.
We cannot keep away all sorrow
No more than we can change tomorrow
—remember.

And then, when we have reached December
There'll be some sadness to forget,
Some stormy days that we have met,
But beauty—friendship—to remember,
—remember.

Rensselaer Team Gives Up Lead, Then Rallies.

St. Joseph college, which gained national recognition last fall when its football team extended its record to 21 straight games without a defeat, won a basketball victory over Loyola, 33 to 30, last night in Loyola gymnasium.

The Pumas, as they are known back home in Rensselaer, Ind., piled up an early lead, watched it slip away in the middle portion of the game while Center Roger Hysman was resting on the bench with three personal fouls against him, and then won going away when he returned with 11 minutes to play.

St. Joseph controled both backboards when Hysman was in the game and with Capt. Bernard Hoffman maneuvering the ball into a series of plays, kept Loyola on the defensive the majority of the game.

Loyola made its bid when it overcame a deficit that stood at 12 to 3 when Hysman left the game, to go ahead, 21 to 20, before he returned.

St. Joseph Takes Lead.

Jack Dwan led the Ramblers in this push and finished the evening with five baskets and one free throw for a total of 11 points. However, individual high point honors also went to the winners on Hoffman's six field goals and two free throws.

St. Joseph manufactured a 17 to 11 lead by half time by controling its defensive backboard almost exclusively and by hitting each of the seven free throws allotted it. The Pumas piled up a 12 to 3 margin early in the half with every member of the starting lineup contributing, while the best Loyola could do was a single basket and free throw by Jack Stanton.

For the rest of the way until intermission Loyola held its own. Sub Len Zimny hit a free toss and Stanton connected on another set shot. Hoffman hit a free throw and a set shot from the corner, while Hodge was driving in for a short one for St. Joseph. However, Dwan connected twice and Bernie Carmen was successful from the free throw lane to draw Loyola within six points of the Pumas at half time.

Loyola Forges Ahead.

Bob Tietz, Carmen and Stanton combined to pull Loyola to within 15 to 17 distance of St. Joseph as the second half opened. Walsh bagged a free throw and Hoffman looped in a long set shot to make the score 20 to 15 before Loyola started its drive. It was Tietz, who single handed overcame this margin as he gathered six points in rapid succession to put his club out in front, 21 to 20, with 11 minutes to play.

At this point Hysman returned and the winners took over again. Dwan was good for seven points on his own but the best he could get in the way of help was a sleeper by Carmen as the entire St. Joseph lineup broke loose again to score on set plays and a devastating fast break. Lineups:

Mr. Arch Ward,
Sports Editor
Chicago Tribune,
Tribune Tower,
Chicago, Illinois.

Dear Mr. Ward:-

When the Community Fund Campaign passed its goal of $3,750,000 on December 3 this year, an all-time record for the speedy completion of the drive was established. I would like you to know that the contribution of $93,736.93 from the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. made this accomplishment possible.

This gift, representing the profits of the special week of horse racing conducted by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. at Sportsman's Park, November 2 to November 7, 1942, plus the additional $40,000 contributed to the United, Catholic and Jewish Charities of Chicago, represents the largest single gift to Chicago charities this year.

Your magnificent contribution will do much to alleviate suffering and distress in Chicago this winter. The war has brought many new and complex problems to our social agencies. Just as one example, it is estimated that over 10,000 children will be cared for by Community Fund agencies this year - orphans or victims of broken homes unable to receive help from public institutions.

I know there is nothing I can say which will add to the satisfaction that you must feel in your contribution to this great community effort; but I do wish to express our thanks to you and your associates in the Chicago Tribune, to John L. Keeshin and his associates at Sportsman's Park, to Major E. H. Williams and his associates on the Racing Commission, to the racing people and to the general public for their generous support in this undertaking - to say to all of you, on behalf of the many thousands of our fellow citizens whose lives will be made more livable as a result of your kindness - -

Thanks! Thanks A Million! -

Bruins Defeat Wings, 3 to 2; Increase Lead

Boston, Mass., Dec. 15 (AP).—With Flash Hollett setting the pace, the Boston Bruins strengthened their hold on the National Hockey league's lead by defeating the Detroit Red Wings, 3 to 2, tonight as they extended their unbeaten home season string to nine games.

The victory gave the Bruins a lead of a game and a half over Chicago and Toronto.

The hard working Hollett enabled his closely checked forces to break a 1-1 deadlock during the 15th minute of the third period action by rifling a long shot that bounced 20 feet off Goalie Johnny Mowers' pads. As Hollett raced for his own rebound, Mowers jumped out of his cage to meet him. As they tangled, Herb Cain swept in fast, gained the puck and drove it into Detroit's empty cage.

ODT Studies East-West Baseball Plan

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 15 (AP).—The Philadelphia Record says the office of defense transportation is giving serious consideration to a plan for dividing big league baseball into eastern and western divisions, proposed editorially by the Record last Sunday.

The Record quotes Joseph B. Eastman, director of the ODT, as saying in Washington today, "our office is very much interested in the suggestion made by the Philadelphia Record. We want to eliminate all possible unnecessary travel, and an eastern and western league would certainly result in great savings.

"There may be a few practical difficulties, but I haven't been able to think of any. We expect to consult with Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis and with officials of the American and National leagues. I should not be surprised if we arrive at about the same conclusions as the Record."

Eastman was quoted further as saying baseball is essential to wartime morale — as necessary as movies, music, the theater, and other forms of recreation, "but we can still have big league baseball while saving unnecessary travel."

FRICK READY TO CONFER.

New York, Dec. 15 (AP).—Ford Frick, president of the National league, declined any expression of views on a proposal to divide the major leagues into eastern and western groups as a travel reduction measure tonight,

REDSKIN OWNER SEEKS CODE TO GOVERN FUTURE

Urges Continuance as Morale Aid.

BY EDWARD PRELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—George Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins, newly crowned world professional football champions, today declared the government should abolish wartime spectator sports or set up rules governing their procedure.

Asserting that leaders of the nation's spectator sports, particularly professional football and baseball, now are operating in the dark on a day-to-day basis, Marshall said the sports program, if it is continued, should have a permanent basis for guidance.

"I don't offer any concrete solution or plan, but only suggestions," he said. "It's up to the men operating the war. Rules should be set up and promulgated so that we'll know just where we stand. If sports aren't important to civilian morale they should be stopped or put on a plane the government thinks is necessary during wartime."

First to Ask for Action.

Marshall pointed out that the United States is the only major warring nation which has failed to give factual directives for wartime spectator sports.

He is the first major sports figure to come out flatly and ask for such action. At the recent major league baseball meetings in Chicago the club owners showed a hesitancy to make plans for 1943.

Similarly, there was such widespread opposition yesterday to the National Football league's annual player draft that it was postponed until next spring. Nine of the 10 owners thought it would be unwise to select graduating seniors in the midst of war, and with the game's future uncertain.

1941 Letter Not Enough.

Marshall does not believe that President Roosevelt's 1941 letter to baseball giving it the green light for 1942 is sufficient encouragement now for the spectator sports program.

"There was nothing in the letter on which to base our course during the war," he said.

"As I see it," the Washington magnate continued, "the question simply is this: Does the government think wartime sports are necessary to keep up the civilian morale? I don't propose to answer it. I'd just like to know how the government feels about it.

"The government has set up morale programs in all its branches of service, embracing, let us say, 15,000,000. But it has outlined no program for our 115,000,000 civilians."

Marshall Outlines Question.

Marshall's outline of the sports question at the present follows:

"The United States army and navy should make a decision at this time on civilian morale. In deciding this question they should designate what they consider necessary for civilian morale in the United States in time of war, and in the future of this war.

"They should bear in mind that less than 15,000,000 will be in the military services of the United States in all classes, and that 115,000,000 will be left to take care of, and to function.

"Is spectator sport necessary to civilian morale? If it isn't, a decision should be made at this time and it should be announced to the general public.

Government Controled in Russia.

"England, Germany, Italy, and Russia are all maintaining sports programs. In the case of Russia it is operated by the government; in other countries by private individuals.

"A brief could easily be filed substantiating the necessity of spectator sport. Due to its world coverage it far exceeds for morale value any other type of sport. It is foolish to think that intramural or army or navy post athletics can take the place of established sport from the spectators' standpoint."

[Marshall pointed out that big time army and navy service football teams last season failed to attract large crowds, then cited the large attendance at the games between traditional college elevens, ranging from 50,000 to 95,000.]

Suggests Rules Be Established.

"If it is decided, such as it has been by our allies, that spectator sport is necessary, I suggest that definite rules, or a plan, be established by which it can be maintained," the Redskin owner went on. "Under this plan several principles would be developed, as follows:

"1. A man would serve so many months in the military service, and be allowed to play so many months.

"2. Under this plan, no man would be relieved from military duty where he was actively engaged on a foreign front.

"3. Athletes could be set up in home defense work, giving so much time to this job and so much

COOPER PROVES BEST PITCHER IN N. L. SINCE 1933

His Earned Run Mark of 1.77 Near Hubbell's.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Even without the official figures on the 1942 season it was fairly well established that Morton Cooper, what with 22 victories against 7 defeats in the St. Louis Cardinals' cause, set his own pace, and a swift one, from start to finish.

The official averages, announced yesterday, furnish the pertinent details of just how the big right hander put together the above mentioned formidable record. Briefly he was the National league's No. 1 mound toiler in more ways than one and when all of it is put together it is easy to see the baseball writers didn't make a bad guess when they voted him the circuit's "most valuable."

Average Best Since 1933.

Chief among the Cooper feats was an earned run average per nine innings of 1.77, the lowest in the league since 1933 when Carl Hubbell, the Giants' left hander, fastened a 1.66 mark on the opposition.

Cooper not only started often enough to earn an "iron man" rating, but in many cases was able to finish what he started. He drew 35 starting assignments and completed 22 of them. What's more 10 of his victories were shutouts, a total untouched since Hubbell's 1933 performance.

Cooper pitched 279 innings which would have been another high if it hadn't been for Jim Tobin of the Braves. Tobin worked 288 innings and what did it get him—nothing more than the distinction of completing 28 games and losing 21 of them. He was the league's most consistent loser but was pressed for the honors.

No Hit Games Missing.

There were no no-hit games produced but one, two, three hitters were fairly common. The Cubs broke into the one hit column because of a job done on the Braves June 13 by Leslie Fleming. Fleming also turned in a two hitter against Pittsburgh Aug. 16; Lon Warneke did the same to the Reds on Aug. 23, and Claude Passeau took the Braves down the line in similar fashion July 22. As for Cooper, well, he pitched four two-hitters and two three-hitters, Strange twist among the low hit affairs was a one-hitter by Whit Wyatt of the Dodgers, but it wasn't a shutout.

ODT Studies East-West Baseball Plan

but indicated that his circuit would be willing to consider such a plan.

In Philadelphia, the Record quoted Joseph B. Eastman, director of the office of defense transportation, as saying the ODT expects "to consult with Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis [baseball commissioner] and with officials of the American and National leagues" regarding the proposal.

Frick said he had not been advised of Eastman's intentions to discuss the situation with baseball men, but added:

"Naturally, if Mr. Eastman wants us to consider the plan, we'll be glad to confer with him at any time."

The National league president said the east-west idea, which would have the western teams of both leagues playing among themselves in one group and the eight remaining eastern teams of the twc circuits in the other group, had been discussed before, but never formally.

Collins Opposes Idea.

President Ed Barrow of the New York Yankees was ill and not available for comment.

At Boston, however, Eddie Collins, general manager of the Red Sox, said: "The idea doesn't appeal to us at all. If it must come to that stage, baseball should call it a day."

At Cincinnati, General Manager Warren Giles of the Reds declared:

"It may save a few miles, but it's very impractical. When the idea was discussed at the Chicago meeting nobody I talked with thought it practical. I doubt it would save enough mileage over the drastically revised league schedules contemplated for next season to justify turning things upside down."

CARDS TO CO-OPERATE.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 15 (AP).—Three major league executives said tonight the proposed dividing of big league baseball into eastern and western divisions would present some "real difficult problems" but that they would coöperate in any travel-saving scheme the government decides upon.

Sam Breadon, president of the World Champion Cardinals, said he understood several baseball men had ridiculed the idea but "we will do whatever is best for the country."

"It would mean many radical changes," he added, saying he would not comment further until he knew more about the plan.

Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, declared: "It might be more difficult than they seem to think. I can see many real problems in the plan, but I am sure a program will be worked out for the continuation of baseball."

Don Barnes, general manager of the St. Louis Browns, said "it is a very interesting plan which deserves to be studied at length, altho it would present many complicated problems."

LANDIS, HARRIDGE MUM.

Neither Commissioner Landis nor William Harridge, president of the American league, would comment on the proposal last night.

C. D. G. A. to Hold Annual Meeting Election Tonight

The Chicago District Golf association, which last summer conducted a full competitive schedule, highlighted by the Hale America National Open, most successful tournament of 1942, will hold its annual meeting and election of officers in the Grand ballroom of the La Salle hotel tonight.

Heading tonight's program will be Chaplain E. C. Andrews and Petty Officer Shelby Pitts, representing the 9th naval district, who will speak in connection with the showing of motion pictures of the Midway Island and Coral sea battles, and the bombing of the Marshall Islands.

The nominating committee has presented the same ticket which conducted the 1942 affairs of the organization, headed by President Thomas G. McMahon of Skokie. Other officers up for reëlection include Lowell D. Rutherford of Medinah, vice president; F. M. Quinn of Big Foot, secretary, and Charles S. Macferran of North Shore, treasurer. Directors to be approved include F. Ray Bowen, John R. Hackett, Dr. J. Earl Harris, Robert S. Hulbert, Melville Keim, Myron J. Kelly, Ross H. Kidston, Dr. William D. Mahoney, Dr. John A. Walters, D. Harry Elder, Leslie F. Muter, and George Rossetter.

SLOVAKS MAKE LINEUP CHANGES FOR CUP CONTEST

Changes in the lineup of the Slovak soccer team of the International league, which meets the Vikings Sunday in a second round national cup contest, were announced yesterday. The game will be played in Winnemac park stadium, Foster avenue and Leavitt street.

The Slovaks, present state cup champions, have obtained Thure Hallquist of the Linneas to play at outside left. George Wilson, star center forward stationed at Navy pier, is ill and will be unable to play. He will be replaced by Steve Cermak.

Elmhurst Beats Eureka Five; Pair Gets 15 Points

Bob Bizer and Guenther Ahlf each scored 15 points last night to lead Elmhurst college to a 44 to 40 victory over Eureka in Elmhurst. It was the third victory in five starts for Elmhurst which trailed at half time.

35,000 TICKETS STILL AVAILABLE FOR SUGAR BOWL

New Orleans Group Opens Local Drive.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 15 (AP).—With 35,000 Sugar bowl tickets unsold and the Tennessee-Tulsa football game only two weeks away, civic and state leaders got together today to whoop it up for a local sellout.

Leaders decided that a local reputation was at stake, after the Office of Defense Transportation asked that no out of town sales be made.

The idea is that there never was a gayer, better sports capital than this, either 50 years ago when Sullivan fought Corbett, or now—and that next to buying war bonds it is the duty of residents to put across a sellout as a strictly civic gesture.

Tickets Come Back.

The consensus was that this can be done or nearly done despite the 16,000 tickets sent back from Tulsa and Tennessee on orders from Joseph B. Eastman, defense transportation director, because there are enough football fans right here in the Crescent city to fill the 73,000 bowl if they like the match.

As the Tulsans and Tennessee Vols go thru their last home scrimmages, the football fever is beginning to take hold. Local fans are aware now that for the first time since the bowl was launched, they can get all the tickets they want.

Plenty of Seats Now.

Ever since the bowl games were launched in 1934 a considerable block of tickets has been reserved for purchase by bondholders, and large blocks were sent away for sale to participant team fans.

The result has been that when public sale was opened here, the tickets have gone fast. Last year the crowd knocked down heavy doors at the ticket window, and everything was snapped up in less than one week in mid-November.

Mr. Eastman has changed all that with his ban against camp followers, and good seats abound. Today's meeting was attended by Gov. Sam H. Jones, but he sat in an observer's capacity, because he lives in Baton Rouge, 85 miles distant.

It Happened in Dubuque.

Well, boys, in case you have the least doubt as to whether it's a woman's world we're living in, take a quick look at the following from a Dubuque newspaper: "James Williams told police shortly after 11 o'clock Monday night that a woman had been peeking in his second floor apartment. The woman, police were informed, had used a step ladder from which she did her peeking thru the apartment windows."

George Thomas came thru with a field goal and a free throw in the final seconds of play to give Lane Tech seniors a 26 to 25 victory over Fenger yesterday on the Lane court. It was the Lane seniors' fifth victory in six games. The Lane juniors also won, 28 to 19.

Another last second decision saw the Manley seniors beat Marshall, 38 to 37, at Marshall. Larry Goldberg fired in a field goal from the center of the court with only seconds left to play to give Manley the verdict. He scored a total of 17 points.

Crane Beats Harrison.

Wells seniors beat Sullivan, 25 to 19, at Wells. Art Weber led Crane Tech seniors to a 41 to 31 triumph over Harrison on the losers' floor, making 15 points. Taft took two games from North Park Academy, the seniors 44 to 13 and the juniors 44 to 28.

Weber gained a pair of decisive victories over Farragut in the Weber gymnasium. The seniors' score was 45 to 30, and the Weber juniors piled up a 51 to 18 margin. Tilden seniors, playing at home, nosed out Calumet, 32 to 31, after the Calumet juniors had won, 35 to 23.

Du Sable Beats Bowen.

Du Sable took a double victory over Bowen, the seniors 45 to 30 and the juniors 41 to 29. St. Patrick and Roosevelt broke even in their interleague games, the Catholic leaguers winning the senior game, 41 to 38, while the City league representatives won the junior clash, 54 to 20. Senn seniors beat Foreman, 49 to 40 and Gage Park split two games with alumni teams, the juniors losing to the grads, 27 to 23, and the seniors taking a 30 to 21 victory.

Overcoming a 16 to 14 halftime deficit, Leo won and counted its sixth in a row in the senior division by beating St. Philip, 25 to 23, last night at Leo. Ed Dawson, Leo center, led the point making with 10 points. Leo juniors also won, 36 to 31.

Mike Quinn's 32 Points Win for Kelly High

Kelly High school juniors, paced by Mike Quinn, defeated Kelvyn Park, whose chief sharpshooter was Johnny Sorenson, 59 to 50, in a basketball game at Kelvyn Park yesterday. The personal score between the two rival marksmen was Quinn 32 and Sorenson 21. Mike made 12 field goals and 8 free throws, while Johnny's contribution was 10 baskets and 1 free shot.

Schurz and Von Steuben also gained victories in junior games. Schurz beat Foreman, 27 to 24, and the Vons won over Tuley, 37 to 35, at Tuley, with Sid Novak making 14 points for the winners.

Play Two Overtimes.

Morgan Park Military academy and Harvard school heavyweights battled a couple of extra sessions before the Cadets won, 30 to 28, on their home court. Morgan Park led, 14 to 10, at the half, then dropped behind until Ed Magrini made a free throw in the last minute of the regular game to tie it at 25 to 25. At the end of the first overtime the count was 28-all, but Adolph Kalafut got a basket for the Cadets in the "sudden death" second session to end the game. In the lightweight game, Harvard won, 24 to 22.

Leo Will Be Strong Bidder in Tournament

Blair [Barney] Varnes, Chicago lawyer, who doubles in the evening as Leo High school's basketball coach, will be bidding for his fourth St. George preseason tournament title starting tomorrow night in the St. George High gymnasium.

Varnes took over the coaching reins at Leo last year, replacing Vince Dowd, and the Lions won the St. George championship trophy. In 1935 and 1936 when Barney was coaching at St. Patrick academy on the west side, he had two championship clubs.

Strong Contenders.

The Lions are strong contenders to retain their title, and practice games indicate they will be hard to eliminate. Probably the outstanding victory of Leo this season was a 31 to 30 triumph over St. Philip which broke a St. Philip six game winning streak.

There is a possibility that these teams may meet in the North Shore tournament. In the lower half of the bracket, St. Philip meets St. Patrick in a first round game Friday night at 8:30 o'clock.

The winner of the closing game on Friday night which brings together Mount Carmel and St. George, meets Leo the following day. St. Philip must first beat St. Patrick, and then take the winner of the St. Gregory-St. Michael game before getting another crack at Leo. If St. Philip and Leo meet it will be in the semi-final round Sunday evening.

Six Victories.

Leo has won six practice games, turning back Harper twice, St. Mel, South Shore, Morgan Park, and St. Philip once. The Lions have compiled 231 points to 114 for opponents. The Leo attack is centered around three of its outstanding football players: Bob Baggott, Tony Kelly, and Bob Hanlon.

In tomorrow's opening session the games will be: St. Mel vs. De La Salle, St. Rita vs. Loyola, and Fenwick vs. De Paul academy.

Zeravich and La Belle to Wrestle in Rainbo

Jack Zeravich, south side heavyweight wrestler, and Pierre La Belle will be principals in the windup bout of Promoter Fred Kohler's wrestling show tonight in Rainbo Fronton, 4836 North Clark street. Ole Olson is paired with Bobby Nelson, and Sailor Allen with Sergt. Joe Banek.

Prima, Gill Bowlers Will Meet Tonight

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

The Joseph L. Gills and Prima Pilsners, co-leaders of the Classic Bowling league with 25 games won and 17 lost, will meet tonight at the Stack & Ryan bowl, 1510 North Damen avenue, in the circuit's most important match. The Primas, who hit their stride only recently and fired a 3,158 series last week, will be bowling on their home lanes. Other matches:

Thompson Restaurants vs. Meister Brau at Gold Coast; Budweisers vs. Monarch Beers at Cascade; Washington vs. United States Beers at Hyde Park; Schlitz vs. Ambrosia at Park Manor.

Gold Coast Recreation is leading the major division in the city tournament at Windy City Recreation with a 2,924 count. Hunter's Bourbon is second with 2,882. Hooker's Barber Shop tops the handicap section with 3,030, followed by Old Pogue with 3,016. Doubles and singles start Jan. 2.

Barney Grogan Is High.

A 638 series by Barney Grogan was high as Atlas Prager defeated National Bank of Hyde Park in two out of three in the Hyde Park major. The Mann Novelty five and Dave Eichners swept their series. . . . Ed Schlichting rolled a 693 series with a 269 game as Playdium won two games from Congress Arcade in the Greater Chicago Traveling league. Avondale Recreation and Glunz Liquors both swept their series. . . . Bowling Lanes happenings: The Amazing Stories team shot three 754 games and lost all three to Bowling Lanes in the Men's Junior league. Rene Krueger and Sam Bosley captured the Sunday night mixed doubles with a 1,281 total.

Still Raising Funds.

Bowlers and bowling fans of Chicago who contributed to the cost of installation of the service men's bowling center in the Auditorium by attending the All-Star tournament which opened the 12 lanes there, also are finding other means of aiding the center. The tournament, which was conducted by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., with the Bowling Proprietors Association of America coöperating, closed Sunday and the center was made available for free use by men in uniform Monday.

A German shepherd dog was the means of raising $244.31 which was turned over to the Tribune charities yesterday. Carrying a basket, he circulated among bowlers and fans at Ray Schalk's Evergreen Towers and collected that amount. The check has been earmarked for maintenance of the bowling center.

Contribute Another $140.

Another $140 was raised last Saturday at Rose Bowl in Roseland, the occasion being a return match between the Logan Square Buick women's team, world champions, and Harry's Owl club of the South End Traveling league. The women's team won, 2,759 pins to 2,724. They had won the first match by nine pins. Nina Van Camp, Women's International Bowling congress all-events champion, rolled high total, 615. Eddie Costello Jr., was high scorer for the men's team with 587.

The Classic league also is contributing all the receipts of its weekly Sunday evening sweepstakes, being held at various houses thruout the city. Secretary Jules Sowa of the league estimates the circuit will raise $750 for the center during the season.

BOWLS 300 GAME.

Lone Robin Lingers Thru Wintry Blasts

BY BOB BECKER.

A brown thrasher and a robin have elected to spend the winter in our neighborhood [32 miles north of Chicago], so there will be a little extra Christmas excitement around our feeding stations this year. We can't help but consider their choice of Chicagoland as a winter resort rather a dumb one because in a few days' leisurely flight they could be down south where nature doesn't ration fairly warm temperatures at this time of the year. But apparently they are here to stay with the cardinals, nuthatches, chickadees, and starlings that are regular winter residents.

Yesterday the brown thrasher [rated as a rare or casual winter resident] discovered one of our two feeding stations and immediately stoked himself full of heat producing foods. The robin surprised us by showing up on a high bluff overlooking Lake Michigan. It stayed in a tree about 40 feet from us for several minutes. Then with a few cheerful chirps as if it didn't mind the chilly atmosphere it flew westward past our home.

Watch Aquatic Birds.

So far we haven't found a red headed woodpecker in our neighborhood altho last season four of these brightly colored birds were with us all winter. Perhaps these birds are smarter than the others. Last winter was a mild one with plenty of acorns. This year it's a different story what with January weather conditions appearing in December.

For one of the most exciting displays of bird life at this time of the year, nothing equals Lake Michigan itself and its aquatic bird population. A few days ago we had a drafty, front row seat to watch the ducks on the lake when we sat near the shore line with a stool of golden eye decoys out in front of us where the water was half filled with drifting floes of ice.

Set Out Decoys.

We joined Joel H. Barlow and Tom Evert, two Lake Bluff hunters, on the wind swept shore of Lake Michigan before daylight in order to launch a dinghy and help set out the decoys. By the time the sun was trying to sneak out from behind a cloud we could see golden eyes and mergansers flying back and forth in good sized flocks as they moved low over the water, some almost invisible in the steam rising from the surface.

Name Pallbearers for Funeral of Bill O'Connell

Pallbearers for Bill O'Connell, veteran boxing instructor, who died Sunday, were announced last night. They include Sam Frager, Tommy Geary, Phil Collins, Charley White, Abe Kaplan, and John Egan, all of whom are members or officers of the Veterans Boxers' association of Illinois. Services will be in Sacred Heart church, 19th and Peoria streets, this morning. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

1942's Top Athlete

Writers Vote Sinkwich No. 1 Athlete in '42

New York, Dec. 15 (AP).—Frankie Sinkwich, for the last two years a member of the All-American football team, has been voted the No. 1 male athlete of 1942.

The Youngstown, O., half back who led Georgia to a Rose bowl bid, polled 94 points in a wide open ballot race that saw the 69 sports editors participating in the Associated Press' annual poll spread their first place votes among 16 athletes. Sinkwich was placed in the No. 1 slot by 15 of the experts and 19 others judged him either the second or third best performer of the year.

A year ago the 22 year old star, who now is in the marine corps reserve, received only 12 votes as Joe DiMaggio, New York Yankees outfielder, topped the list. DiMaggio didn't receive a single vote this year. The standings:

	First.	Pts.
Frank Sinkwich, football	15	94
Ted Williams, baseball	12	55
Don Hutson, football	6	42
Johnny Beazley, baseball	6	38

Stuhldreher to Speak at Marmion Football Banquet

FEDERAL RULING ON SPECTATOR SPORTS ASKED to sport participation. This is the English method. Or some other reasonable plan might be worked out which would combine both the sport and the military duties to the nation of the athlete."

"In war, we all know it is necessary to be realistic. I believe 2,000 athletes, under some plan such as proposed, could supply the baseball and football needs of the nation. When consideration is given to the fact that 130,000,000 persons are involved, this, of course, is a low percentage.

"Spectator sport has aided materially in lifting morale and in providing entertainment, other than in a barroom, for members of the services, as well as the civilian population.

Would Insure Baseball's Future.

Elaborating on the statement that 2,000 men, combining sports activities and military duties, would suffice to keep the spectator sports program going, Marshall said:

"These 2,000, plus those under or over draft age or out of military service for one reason or another, would insure continuance of baseball in the major leagues and large minors. In football it would enable the National Football league to continue on a high plane; it would mean sufficient talent for colleges which are leaders in football and thus would keep alive the games which have national interest."

Illinois Skating Association Sets Derby Schedule

The Illinois Skating association yesterday announced after its regular meeting that it will conduct a regular schedule of derbies for the 1943 season. With a view to centralizing its activities, the association chose Garfield park as the site of all major races, because of its proximity to all transportation facilities.

Dec. 27—Pierce playground, Garfield park.
Jan. 1—Northwest S. C. [city championship], Garfield park.
Jan. 3—Glen Ellyn A. A. A. [state championship], Glen Ellyn, Ill.
Jan. 9—Chicago Park District, Garfield park.
Jan. 10—C. Y. O. [tri-state championship], Garfield park.
Jan. 16—Chicago Tribune Silver Skates, Garfield park.
Jan. 22—Sons of American Legion [19th district], La Follette park.
Jan. 23—Catholic Order of Foresters, Garfield park.
Jan. 24—George F. Barrett A. C. [Western Open], Garfield park.

Christmas 1880 . . . Chicago toasted "The Divine Sarah" in mellow CHAPIN & GORE
"I saw Bernhardt" boasted Chicagoans in 1880, and clinked glasses of mellow C&G Bourbon in her honor. Her visit marked the beginning of the era that was to make Chicago famous as a cultural center of music, drama and art.
LONG before Bernhardt's visit, Chicagoans knew and enjoyed Chapin & Gore Kentucky distilled bourbon. And, as in every year since 1865, C&G again this Christmas will be preferred as the whiskey to grace the festive board.
Solve your gift problem this year with C&G Bourbon. Ask for it at your favorite tavern, and lay in a supply for holiday entertaining. Reasonable in price, C&G is truly a finer whiskey.

10% POLICE-FIRE PAY HIKE HINTED BY ALD. BOWLER

Budgeters Study Salary Boosts of 4½ Million.

A hint that the city's 9,000 police and firemen may receive 10 per cent pay increases in 1943 came last night from Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman of the city council's finance committee. Asked if the increases might reach that percentage figure, Bowler said "we are pulling as hard as we can for it."

Meanwhile the gossip at the finance committee budget meetings, which have been in progress since last Thursday, is that city workers in the lower pay brackets generally will receive between 5 and 10 per cent more money next year.

Would Require 4½ Millions.

A 10 per cent increase for the policemen and firemen alone, according to finance committee staff estimates, would aggregate about $2,320,000 a year. Corresponding increases for other city employés earning less than $3,000 annually would more than double that figure.

Police and firemen now receive $2,140 a year when they enter service and are advanced to $2,500 at the beginning of their third year.

Just where the money is to come from, and the exact amounts of promised increases probably will be disclosed Thursday night if the committee sticks to its present plan of completing its work on the budge at that time.

Bowler said the committee expects to cut at least $800,000 from City Controler Robert B. Upham's corporate fund appropriation estimates of $55,498,510, and other aldermen expected a larger slash than that. About $459,000 shown on Upham's corporate fund balance sheet and not included in his appropriation estimates also is available for wage increases.

May Retard Payment of Bills.

One result of the anticipated wage increases, regardless of how the budget figures are shifted, probably will be at least a "slowing down" of the city's program for reducing its unpaid bills, aldermen said privately.

William H. Sexton, special city traction attorney, suggested to the committee yesterday that $300,000 be provided in the traction fund for another referendum should the Illinois Commerce commission render a decision on the proposed unified traction ordinance which would necessitate such a vote. He also asked $150,000 to set up a Chicago Transit commission if the traction ordinance becomes effective during the year.

Bowler said following the meeting that the council has "no definite plan" at present for seeking additional revenue from the state.

"Chicago pays 65 per cent of the state's revenue," he said, "and should have a larger share of it for use at home."

AUTO DEATH TOLL DROPS 75% FROM LAST DECEMBER

Coroner A. L. Brodie reported yesterday that automobile deaths in Cook county dropped 75 per cent for the first 15 days of December compared to the first half of last December. The current toll, up to noon yesterday, he said, was 13 as against 51 in the comparable period last year. The coroner attributed the decrease to gasoline rationing.

Reduced driving also was reflected in the Traffic court when only 90 defendants appeared before Judge John Gutknecht instead of the usual 200 to 300. "In my eight years on the bench I never saw such a light calendar," said the judge. "We can now almost close the Traffic court."

Michael Slovik, 60 years old, 6315 Raven street, a motorman, was injured yesterday when a street car he was operating skidded against a fire hook and ladder truck in front of 3811 Lake street. The truck was standing, while the men were fighting a small fire. According to Chief Helmer Strandberg of the 23d battalion, the street car skidded, and the ends of several of the truck's ladders poked thru the front window of the street car, injuring Slovik. He was taken to Garfield Park hospital.

Ernest Evans, 50, of 1433 North Maplewood avenue, was injured fatally when he was struck by a truck at North avenue and Rockwell street. Wilbert Rute of 2722 Wilcox avenue, driver of the truck, who is employed by the Cripps Overland Express company of 1700 Indiana avenue, was held for the inquest.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 626 had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 476 died in Chicago where 18,848 were injured during the same period.

EMIL ROHDE, 65, DIES; AUTHORITY ON HAIR DRESSING

Emil Rohde, authority on hair dressing and cosmetology, died yesterday in his home at 5444 Kenmore avenue. He was 65 years old. He was head of the E. Rohde Beauty salon in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Mr. Rohde was a past president of the National Association of Hairdressers and Cosmetologists, and also a past president of the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' association. He was particularly recognized for his work with hair dyes. He once traced the art of hair dyeing back to the ancient Romans, whose dark haired women sought to emulate golden haired Nordics.

Mr. Rohde was born in Germany, came to Chicago in 1906, became a citizen in 1912 and entered business on the north side. He was a charter member of the Uptown Kiwanis club, and later president of the North Shore Kiwanis club. His widow, Therese; a son, Ensign Carl Rohde, U. S. N., and two daughters, Mrs. Helen Rolston and Mrs. Eleanore Lindberg, survive. The funeral will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday in the chapel at 5501 North Ashland avenue.

U.S. BUROCRATS CHOKING COURTS, BAR HEADS SAY

Ask Defeat of Bills to Extend Arbitration.

The Chicago Bar association sounded a warning yesterday that the American court system is being squeezed between federal government administrators and arbitrators provided for under federal law.

The association's board of managers approved a report of its committee on federal legislation urging the defeat of bills pending in congress which would extend the United States arbitration act to include labor controversies and agreements entered into by officers and agencies of the United States.

"It seems apparent that there is a concertetd drive against the courts," said the bar association report. "If we may use a military figure of speech, it appears that this a pincer movement, one arm of which is administrative law, the other being arbitration."

Would Redefine Commerce.

The proposed bills, attacked in the report, were introduced by Sen. Francis Maloney [D., Conn.] and Rep. Estes Kefauver [D., Tenn.]. They would amend the arbitration act, redefining commerce to include any business directly and substantially affecting commerce. Sponsors urge passage of the measures on the ground that the courts are not expert in many fields and litigation is too slow and too expensive.

"We have already gone too far in the original act in making such agreements [to arbitrate commercial disputes] irrevocable as to further disputes," said the bar association report. "Too ofter the arbitration clause is overlooked or scarcely noticed until a dispute arises.

"Many contracts are awarded to the lowest bidder and no opportunity exists for negotiation as the contract must be signed as drafted. In such instances the insertion of an arbitration clause is scarcely voluntary. This would be especially true in the case of agreements with officers and agencies of the United States.

Call Arguments "Threadbare."

"Furthermore, the latter contracts often contain a clause for each party to select an arbitrator and for the two to select a third, but in the event they fail to agree within a few days a designated government agent shall act. Under existing conditions these reasons will apply with almost equal force to labor agreements.

"The argument that the courts are not expert in many fields and that litigation is too slow and too expensive are becoming threadbare and have often been refuted. We can say that many arbitrators are inexpert in their particular fields and often the process of arbitration is slow and perhaps quite expensive when we view the results."

FINDS A REFUGE IN HOME OF OLD FRIEND, BUT DIES

Martin Albert Ranft, 50 years old, 736 North Albany avenue, fled to the home of a former sweetheart in Aurora to obtain medical treatment and died there Monday after his wife appeared and ordered the physician away, witnesses testified yesterday at an inquest into his death. The coroner's jury returned an open verdict.

Miss Clara Bohnstengel, a retired school teacher, testified that she had known Ranft, a steel engraver, since 1929, when he operated a shop in Aurora. At that time, she said, he took her to Elmhurst to see her dying father and exacted a pledge to do him a favor if he ever were in need. Last Dec. 5 he called on her to keep that pledge, she explained, when he appeared and told her that his wife, Esther, 38, whom he married in 1936, had taken him from Cook County hospital, where he had been undergoing treatment for a heart ailment. Miss Bohnstengel gave him a room in her Aurora home and called Dr. H. Y. Greeley.

Mrs. Ranft appeared Monday and ordered Dr. Greeley out, Chief of Police Fred Hess said, and Dr. Greeley refused to act in the face of Mrs. Ranft's interference. Later in the day Ranft died.

REVISION OF BUS CUTS IS MAPPED FOR ODT CHIEF

A revised plan for the cutting down of service on the surface lines bus routes, ordered by the office of defense transportation, was in the making yesterday in the office of H. B. Potter, regional ODT director. Potter has been authorized by the ODT office in Washington to make such changes as he deems necessary.

The city and the Illinois commerce commission have asked that the elimination of seven bus routes be reconsidered, and that the cuts be spread more evenly over all routes. Their engineers, as well as those of the ODT and the surface lines, are participating in the conferences.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—Faik Konitza, 74 years old, Albanian minister to the United States for 12 years until the legation was closed in June, 1939, died today.

BEALS' DIVORCED WIFE ASKS $100 ALIMONY RAISE

Mrs. Meredith T. Beals replied yesterday to a Nov. 9 motion of her former husband, Maj. Frank L. Beals, assistant superintendent of schools, for a $100 decrease in his $275 monthly alimony payments because of increased income taxes with a counterdemand for a $100 increase for the same reason. Judge Thomas J. Lynch set hearing for Jan. 11 in Circuit court.

Mrs. Beals' attorneys, Joseph H. and Norman Becker, argued she must pay income taxes on her alimony for the first time next year. In addition, the attorneys said, Mrs. Beals, now in O'Reilly General hospital, Springfield, Mo., has suffered a back injury in an auto accident which will require medical treatment the rest of her life. They estimated Maj. Beals' income at $17,000 a year.

Lawrence J. Flynn, attorney for Maj. Beals, asserted that Beals' income has been reduced because he no longer is lecturing at De Paul university and estimated Beals would have to pay $3,000 added income tax next year. Mrs. Beals was granted a divorce Nov. 7, 1940, for desertion and was granted a property settlement of $25,000 in addition to $275 a month alimony.

JAIL FATHER IN SHOOTING OF CHILD.

Charles Stacker, 28 years old, 1240 West 61st street, a Negro, was held by Englewood police for manslaughter yesterday after his daughter, Lorna, 3, died in County hospital of a bullet wound. The child was wounded Monday when a .22 caliber rifle fell to the floor and discharged as Stacker and his wife were struggling for it.

CHARLES ADAMS, BRIDGE EXPERT, ATTORNEY, DEAD

Injuries in Auto Crash Sunday Are Fatal.

Charles True Adams.

Charles True Adams, Chicago attorney and contract bridge authority, died last night in Wesley Memorial hospital of injuries suffered in an auto accident. His car skidded and struck a traffic divider on the approach to the Dearborn street bridge, near Kinzie street, Sunday night.

Mr. Adams, who was 42 years old, was a special master in chancery and trustee for the Utilities Power and Light company, the reorganization of which he undertook in 1938. He was formerly contract bridge editor of THE TRIBUNE and author of several volumes on the subject, among them "Contract Bridge at Sight."

Native of Chicago.

Mr. Adams was a native of Chicago and a graduate of Harvard university in 1922. He received a law degree from Northwestern university in 1927. He maintained law offices at 231 South La Salle street. He served as senior counsel for the public works administration and referee in bankruptcy for the Northern Illinois District of United States court before undertaking reorganization of the utility company. He was a director of several utility companies.

Daughter, 2 Sons Survive.

3 YOUTHS ESCAPE TRAINING SCHOOL; GUARD OVERCOME

Russell W. Ballard, managing officer of the St. Charles Training School for Boys, announced last night that three Negro youths overcame a guard at the school yesterday and escaped.

Ballard said that the ringleader of the trio was Andrew Brooks, 18 years old, 1611 Central avenue, East St. Louis, Ill. Brooks, he said, served two years in the school on a charge of breaking into a store and was paroled in Janaury, 1941. He was returned last year as a parole violator. The others are David Strong, 17, committed for burglary, and Sherman Ingram, 17, committed for robbery, both from Chicago. They had been assigned to foster homes here before their conviction.

The boys overcame James F. Boyce of Sparta, Ill., after one of them feigned sickness in the basement of a cottage where 33 other boys were quartered. The other 33 made no attempted to leave, Ballard said. It was the first escape since last June.

JUDGE CUMMINGS IS DEAD; VETERAN OF CIRCUIT COURT

Judge John T. Cummings of Kewanee City court, who had served on the Circuit court bench here from time to time for the last 15 years, died yesterday in Perry Memorial hospital, Princeton. Judge Cummings, who was 76 years old, was en route to Chicago to hear motions in Circuit court when he became ill. He was removed from the train and died a short time later.

WATER IN GAS TRAPS EMPLOYE WHO STOLE IT

When gasoline kept disappearing from a portable container at the United Garage, 220 West Monroe street, the owners of the garage, Richard and Otto Lube, brothers, determined to set a trap. They drained the gasoline out of the 60 gallon container and refilled it with water. Yesterday Frank Sosnowski, 19 years old, cashier at the garage, had trouble starting his car. The Lube brothers examined his gasoline tank and found it contained water. Sosnowski, who lives at 1638 Cermak road, then confessed to Police Sergt. Harry Neuman that he had taken the gas and also had substituted an inferior battery for a good one in a car belonging to one of the garage's patrons. He will be arraigned today in the Boys' court on a charget of petit larceny.

Stays Icing Cost Hike

Federal Judge William J. Campbell yesterday postponed until Feb. 14 the effective date of an interstate commerce commission order increasing rates for servicing refrigerator cars in the shipment of all perishables except fruits and vegetables. Judge Campbell ordered the postponement to permit a hearing by a three judge court of a suit brought by four brewing companies—Anheuser-Busch, Inc.; Blatz Brewing company, Pabst Brewing company, and Schlitz Brewing company. They asked suspension of the order, saying the increase would raise their shipping costs $100,000 a year.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—Railroads of the United States today asked the interstate commerce commission to deny petitions from government agenies asking elimination "at the first sign of adequate earnings" of rate increases authorized early this year.

The carriers said the office of price administration, one petitioner, sought to reduce railroad rates below those in effect Sept. 15, the date generally used in stabilizing other prices and wages, tho "there is no known effort" by it to bring about a similar reduction in costs of labor and materials used by railroads.

"This nation can be strong in peace, and most especially in war, only if it has strong railroads," the rails answer contended.

Nation Depends on Rails.

"It is depending upon these railroads now for the greatest quantity of transportation service ever rendered, requiring their full strength. They cannot keep themselves in condition to meet imperative national needs if, at the first sign of adequate earnings, their rates are to be cut without regard to low earnings of the past or prospects of the future."

The railroads said current earnings seemed "large only by contrast with the low level" of the depression decade and are no more than is necessary to enable them "to keep on doing their indispensable job in the war."

Increased revenues, the carriers said, fall by 150 million dollars a year to meet added costs.

Costs Compared with Gains.

Material costs have increased 18 per cent, and wage levels are up 14 per cent, they said, compared with freight rate increases averaging 4.7 per cent and passenger fare increases of 9 per cent.

To offset authorized rate increases, the railroads said they voluntarily had given reduced rates on numerous commodities, such as ammunition, sugar, rubber and petroleum, with the cut on oil for the east coast area alone amounting to 158 millions a year.

The railroads contended that the revenue they now receive for hauling a ton of freight one mile averages 0.927 cent, "which is less than it was in 1941 an dless than in any year since 1918."

CONFER ON PAY DEMAND

New York, Dec. 15 (AP).—Representatives of eastern, southeastern, and western railroads and 15 nonoperating unions today started conferences on the demands of approximately 900,000 rail employés for a wage increase of 20 cents an hour and a minimum hourly rate of 70 cents.

After a session described as "exploratory," the railroad spokesmen issued a statement citing President Roosevelt's warnings against the dangers of inflation and asserting:

"The present demand for increases in wages in the railroad industry are presented under circumstances vastly different from those under which similar demands have been made in past years. . . . Let us have clearly in mind the fact that, in order to best serve the nation, we must follow the channel which congress and the President have established."

The conferences were scheduled to continue tomorrow and Thursday and then adjourn until after Christmas. They are separate from the recent notice given by the five operating brotherhoods of a proposed 30 per cent wage increase demand.

LARGE OCTOBER PROFIT INCREASE SHOWN BY RAILS

Large gains in October net income were reported yesterday by two major railroads operating out of Chicago. The Rock Island had October net income more than three million dollars higher than a year ago. The North Western profit for the month was more than 2 million dollars larger than in October of last year.

Railroad earnings reports made public yesterday follow:

Output of Beef Slides Below Year Ago Rate

A slump in beef production to less than 1941 levels for the first time in seven months was reportel yesterday as the packing industry prepared to go under wholesale beef price ceilings today with a protest that the ceilings will be too low to permit profitable operations while prices for cattle remain as high as they are.

The cattle market in Chicago held steady, meanwhile, influenced by a drop in receipts to 7,000 head, the smallest Tuesday run since July 7.

The department of agriculture reported that the federally inspected packers at 27 markets which handle the bulk of United States meat butchered 10 per cent fewer cattle in the last two weeks than in the corresponding 1941 period. Current beef production is the smallest since last May.

No Surprise to Packers.

Packing authorities at the stockyards said the drop did not come as a surprise to them. They attributed the trend to the abnormal summer and fall selling of beef cattle at lighter weights than usual, because of beef price ceilings, and to heavy shipments caused by labor shortages on the farm.

At the yards it was estimated that beef output the first half of this month was 12 per cent less than in the first half of November. Some yards spokesmen said they fear a further restriction of sales of beef to civilians as a result of the abrupt decline in production at a time when lend-lease requirements are growing.

Beef sales to domestic trade last October were cut to 80 per cent of the tonnage sold to civilians during the last quarter of 1941. Despite the record tonnage then produced sales to consumers later were cut to 70 per cent of last year's sales, causing the severe shortage of beef in retail channels in most parts of the country.

Other Slaughter Increased.

Packers under inspection at the 27 centers butchered 320,600 cattle during the last two weeks, compared with 357,680 a year ago. This dip in production is more than offset by abnormally large increases in output of other meats, however, bringing estimated production well over last month and a year ago.

In the last two weeks packers at the 27 points reported slaughter of 2,447,532 hogs, one of the largest two week totals in history. This was an increase of 541,946 head over last year. Lamb and mutton production continued to set records, the two week run of 864,981 head being an increase of 267,332 head from a year ago. Calves totaled 175,121 head, against 156,989.

Hog Prices Steady.

In yesterday's trading most steers and yearlings sold within a range of $13.75 to $15.50 a hundred pounds, compared with $14.50 to $16 at the highs last week. Best loads available brought $16.35.

Practically all hogs were bought at prices in line with Monday's advance. Both the top and average prices remained unchanged at $14.10 and $13.95, respectively, 40 and 45 cents above the low last week.

Young new crop spring pigs of 180 to 230 pounds brought $13.90 to $14.

Fat lambs were forced down mostly 15 to 25 cents, equal to the lowest prices since Nov. 27. Top grades of wool lambs were bought at $15.50.

Conserve Matches, WPB Warns, or Face Shortage

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—Matches, the WPB warned today, may become scarce if civilians fail to conserve them. Military and lend-lease purchasers are taking an increasing quantity of matches, WPB said, and the materials and labor for producing matches also are being curtailed.

1943 Toughest War Year—Gen. Ayres

Cleveland, O., Dec. 15 (AP).—Brig. Gen. Leonard P. Ayres today predicted that 1943 "will probably be our toughest war year, both for individual business men and corporations."

Industry "must look forward to being much more closely regulated," he said, because the army and navy will know more specifically what they want and will "be more urgently insistent" on having munitions on schedule, and because the controled materials plan will be in effect.

"The new plan, or any alternative, is going to prove irksome because our industry has been accustomed to purchase its materials in open and competitive markets . . . and in any amounts required," the Cleveland Trust company vice president added in his annual business forecast before the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce.

Makes Predictions for 1943.

Gen. Ayres retired this year as head of the army's statistical service, made these predictions for 1943:

Despite recent good war news, we probably "shall still be engaged in active warfare a year from now."

Physical volume of industrial production, measured by federal reserve board index, probably up more than 10 per cent from this year, but not more than 15 per cent.

National income 15 to 20 per cent larger than the expected 112 billions for 1942.

Wholesale prices up 4 to 6 per cent, after climbing 11 per cent from 1940 to 1941, and 13 per cent the last 12 months.

Cost of living, up 10 per cent this year, will advance 5 to 10 per cent more.

"Last Big Holiday Season."

Dollar volume of retail store sales down 10 to 15 per cent. "This is the last big season of holiday trade for the duration."

Electric power production up 8 to 14 per cent.

Civilian employment of nonfarm workers up 3 to 5 per cent.

Steel ingot production up 4 to 6 per cent from record breaking 1942.

Bituminous coal production about 5 per cent higher.

Railroad freight traffic, measured in ton miles, not more than 10 per cent higher than 1942, which is about 32 per cent over 1941.

"If all these forecasts prove to be right," Gen. Ayres added, "that outcome will be a near miracle."

CARL E. NEWTON NEW PRESIDENT OF C. & O.; SUCCESSOR TO BROOKE

Carl E. Newton.

Brooke also left the presidency of the C. & O.'s subsidiary Nickel Plate in favor of John W. Davin, a C. & O. vice president, and was replaced as head of the Pere Marquette by Robert J. Bowman, that subsidiary's operating vice president.

Chesapeake & Ohio directors said Brooke is in his 65th year and that his retirement came "at his own request," but he would continue "in a consulting capacity." He had headed the three main lines of the Alleghany corporation system since 1937.

Newton, 44, a member of the New York and Washington law firm of Donovan, Leisure, Newton & Lumbard, has been closely associated with Robert R. Young, chairman of both the C. & O. and Alleghany, having represented him in railroad legal matters. The new C. & O. president formerly was an assistant United States attorney and assistant attorney general of New York.

HENRY GARDNER NAMED TRUSTEE OF ALTON ROAD

Henry A. Gardner, Chicago lawyer whose grandfather was chief engineer of the original Alton railroad when its lines were constructed in the 1860s, was named trustee of the road yesterday in a step toward reorganization under the federal bankruptcy laws. The appointment was made by Federal Judge John P. Barnes and will become effective on approval by the interstate commerce commission.

An Illinois town on the Alton line was named for the grandfather, Henry Alansin Gardner, for whom the new trustee also was named. Gardner is a member of the firm of Gardner, Carton, and Douglas.

A preliminary reorganization plan was filed by the company several weeks ago. A plan for an exchange of securities made no provision for the present capital stock, all of which is owned by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

THREE CHICAGO COMPANIES BID ON WOOD TUGS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 [Special].—Bids from three Chicago companies were included among the 106 received by the maritime commission for construction of wooden tugs to be used in connection with the commission's wood barge program, it was announced today.

Not more than six tugs are to be built by each company. Bids for the 65 foot vessels ranged from $31,000 to $250,000 each.

Chicago companies entering bids were E. L. Archibald Company and Associates; Harrison Iron Works, Inc., and Hammond Shipbuilding corporation. Six Wisconsin lumber and shipbuilding companies entered bids, along with one Indiana company and four in Michigan.

Australia Loan Closed After Oversubscription

CANBERRA, Australia, Dec. 15 (AP).—The government announced today the closing of a 100 million pound [323 million dollar] austerity loan, which was oversubscribed.

Credit for War Work Success Given Industry

New York, Dec. 15 [Special].—Gilbert H. Montague, prominent attorney and member of the Commerce and Industry Association of New York, today declared that business men and not the federal government deserve the credit for American war production.

Addressing the Rotary Club of St. George, N. Y., Montague declared that in the last two years American business has "achieved a stupendous transformation."

"In 1929 the gross national production was 100 billion dollars," he said. "In 1941 it was 120 billions, and in 1943 it will be 165 billions. In 1929 military expenditures, including expenditures for veterans, was one billion. In 1941 it was 12 billions, and in 1943 it will be 80 billions.

Gives Credit to Business.

"All this has been accomplished with only a slight reduction of consumers goods, which were 71 billion dollars in 1929, and 76 billions in 1941 and will be 65 billions in 1943.

"Credit for this extraordinary achievement does not belong to government. It belongs to business, and chiefly what is called big business. Yet business is today being pushed around and sniped at by the government, with complete disregard of its unparalleled war effort.

"Other elements of the national economy have been richly rewarded for their war effort, especially after they have indicated that they would insist on full reward for full effort."

Quotes Henderson Remarks.

He quoted Leon Henderson, price administrator, as saying that farm net income is the highest in history, exceeding "by a full billion the income earned by farmers in the fabulous year of 1919, and every dollar of this income buys vastly more than it did in that year," and that "stabilization of wages will permit the worker to enjoy the most favorable position ever attained in our history."

"No such rewards have accrued to business," Montague asserted.

"Renegotiation of war contracts is recapturing for the government everything over a minimum profit on all war business. Mountainous taxation is taking for the government all but a moderate percentage of total corporate profits. Steep individual tax rates are taking for the government all but a moderate percentage of total individual incomes.

Reward Is Persecution.

"For two years business executives have borne the chief burden of converting business to a war basis. For their reward they have been derided as economic royalists, their patriotism has been aspersed, and they have been pilloried before congressional committees because of agreements highly beneficial to the United States when made years ago with foreign nationals then at peace with us.

"Beset by labor demands backed by government sympathy and the war labor board, and overrun by anti-trust investigators from the attorney general's office, they have had to steer their course thru bewildering regulations.

"And now they are singled out as the one group whose families must suffer immediate and painful deductions in living standards. This is disheartening, but business executives will take it. They will cherish the faith that this moment will pass, as such moments in our history always have passed."

12,000 LAKE TARS ARE CONSIDERED AS 'ON FURLOUGH'

Cleveland, O., Dec. 15 (AP).—Approximately 12,000 Great Lakes seamen, backbone of the vital interlake transportation system, are to be considered "on furlough" from their posts during the winter season, the war man power commission announced today.

The furlough program, designed to avert the possibility of a serious shortage of lake seamen when the navigation season reopens next spring, provides that they be assigned temporary employment in their home communities during the off season and that they be available for lake duty again in 1943.

Introduction cards, prepared by the WMC, will direct seamen to report to their local United States employment service office for job placements.

SCRAP PURCHASE TO CLEAR YARDS ASKED BY NELSON

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the war production board today asked the Reconstruction Finance corporation to purchase at OPA ceiling prices 35,000 tons of iron and steel scrap from congested far western scrap yards.

In a letter to Secretary of Commerce Jesse H. Jones, RFC chairman, Nelson said the accumulation of scrap in dealer yards in some areas was "making it impossible in many instances for these dealers to continue to handle the scrap which is being accumulated by the salvage committees.

"This creates a situation which, as found in the case of the aluminum and paper scrap drives, seriously threatens further scrap collection."

January Onion and Potato Futures Higher at Close

January potato futures closed 3 cents higher at $3.04 per 100 pounds on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, and January onions rallied to finish with a gain of 1 cent at $1.54 a 50 pound sack after breaking 2 cents earlier.

CANADA BLAMED FOR FAILURE OF LUMBER SUPPLY

Senate Group Also Censures WPB.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—The Truman committee of the senate today accused the Canadian government and certain officials of the war production board of contributing to an acute shortage of lumber in the United States, which is estimated in 1943 to fall more than 2 billion board feet below military and civilian requirements.

In a special report, the committee investigating the war, censured the Canadian government for placing an embargo on shipments of logs to American mills, despite concessions granted by the United States on Canadian lumber.

The committee also found the lumber division of the WPB guilty of unnecessarily delaying consideration of a plan to stimulate lumber output.

Pre-War Practices Halted.

The committee noted that Canadian authorities have stopped the pre-war practice of selling stands of timber on crown grant lands in British Columbia to American lumber operators and agreeing that such timber could be taken in the form of logs to the Puget sound area for milling. The Canadian government has maintained an embargo on such exports since Sept. 1, 1941, and in September, 1942, similar restrictions were extended to prevent exports of hemlock logs used in the manufacture of pulp.

"These embargoes have had a serious effect upon production of lumber in the Pacific northwest, as many specialty items, such as ship timbers, were manufactured from the logs formerly imported from British Columbia," said the committee report.

Production Impeded.

"Such specialty items are necessary to the successful prosecution of the war. . . . Efforts of American government officials to have the embargoes lifted have been unavailing.

"The attitude of the Canadian government is difficult to understand, in view of the fact that the President of the United States has suspended the domestic origins act, the effect of which allows Canadian lumber to enter the United States on a parity with American lumber for any public use in the United States.

"The committee recommends that WPB present the facts . . . to the forest products subcommittee on lumber and paper of the materials coordinating committee of the United States and Canada and insist appropriate action be taken to remedy this situation."

Shortages Predicted.

Shortages will be felt particularly in the important types of lumber used for shipbuilding, pontoons, and heavy construction, according to the report. The committee recommended that the army and navy simplify specifications wherever possible to use types of lumber most readily available.

The committee found that consideration of the forest products service plan, designed to stimulate production of necessary lumber products by providing loans and firm markets for small producers, was delayed unnecessarily in the WPB. The plan now is on the President's desk awaiting his approval.

"Ben Alexander should be censured," said the report, "for unnecessary prolongation of a dispute between the lumber division of the WPB, of which he is chief, and the forest service of the department of agriculture, to the detriment of the war."

WPB ENDS WORK ON SOME STATE ROAD PROJECTS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—The WPB has ordered work halted immediately on 30 highway and school projects to conserve materials for war production. Included were the following in Illinois:

Concrete bridges grading and drainage, United States route 40. Concrete paving, grading, and drainage structures, United States 66 between Bloomington and McLean; timber bridge, United States 66, between McLean and Bloomington; 5.13 miles of concrete pavement, United States 66, between McLean and Bloomington.

Senators to Question Federal Officials on Lack of Materials

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—Officials of various war agencies will be called before the senate committee on small business to explain what they have done or propose to do about obtaining a more adequate supply of essential raw materials for war use, Sen. James E. Murray [D., Mont.], chairman of the committee, announced tonight.

The senator said his committee has received a flow of complaints from the smaller mine operators that their productive facilities are used sparsely altho the production of metals and minerals is not up to requirements.

Wide Quiz Planned.

Officials of the War Production board, and the war, navy, interior, and commerce departments will be interrogated, asserted Murray. It comes as a result, he said, of the recent testimony of James W. English, president of the Boulder Mining company, operating a lead and zinc mine in Arizona, that company officials had been given a year's "run around" by Washington war agencies.

English said that after the agencies had examined the mine, pronounced it worthy of development and expansion for war purposes, and advanced $40,000 of a promised $200,000, they decided the mine should be abandoned.

Ickes to Be Questioned.

Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes is expected to be quizzed on this when he appears before the committee.

The committee today heard a WPB official assert that complete war mobilization may call for "radical changes in our business and social institutions" and recommend that new legislation be enacted for bringing idle plants into war production. Houlder Hudgins, WPB director of procurement policy, told the committee that the smaller war plants law "is out of date because it no longer comprehensively expresses an all-out productive effort."

Metal-Plastic Rivalry to End in Partnership

Plastics and metals, working together as partners instead of competitors, as an industrial union was predicted last night by Dr. A. Allen Bates, manager of the chemical and metallurgical department of the Westinghouse Research laboratories, East Pittsburgh, Pa. He spoke to the Calumet chapter of the American Society for Metals at Gary, Ind.

Dr. A. Allen Bates.

Bates said that both materials have inherent advantages and disadvantages which will prevent effectively one taking over completely the fields of the other.

Use of plastics actually will extend the uses of metals in the future, Bates said, because it will result in new products in which both can be used to advantage.

Will Work Together.

"In some instances, of course, the two materials will be rivals until the 'better man' wins out," Bates said. "But more and more they will work together in vastly improved airplanes, automobiles, electric generators and motors, and thousands of other industrial products.

"Some partisans claim that plastics and synthetic resins eventually will be used for everything except food. But there are innumerable articles that will be metal for years to come—automobile crankshafts and valves, electric transmission lines, blast furnaces, and electric motor armatures among other examples.

"Plastics burn or melt at temperatures that have little effect on most metals. And plastics are not useful as conductors of electricity."

Bates added that the advent of plastics may be considered more of a promise than a threat to metallurgy.

Promise of Plastics Told.

"Any one who doubts that it is a promise need only look at the automobile industry of peacetime," he continued. "Mass production of automobiles would be impossible without the one coat synthetic resins and lacquers which are sprayed on an automobile body. Before these synthetic resins were discovered, automobile bodies received a great many coats of paints and each coat took many hours to dry."

Bates said the low cost era of plastics has not arrived yet—a situation which will continue to give metals advantages.

Grant Chain to Distribute $200,000 in Yule Bonuses

New York, Dec. 15 (AP).—Employés in the 500 stores of W. T. Grant & Co., today were told the company would distribute Christmas bounty totaling more than $200,000 to its 14,000 workers. Amounts ranging up to $50, depending on length of service, will be given to all employés of six months or longer.

BYRNES GIVEN POWER TO SETTLE DISPUTES OVER FOOD PROGRAM

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—The White House disclosed today that President Roosevelt has given James F. Byrnes power to settle any disagreements which may arise between Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard and any officer or agency of the government from Wickard's direction of the nation's food program.

Designation of the economic stabilization director to adjust disputes, it was reported, might be considered to establish a pattern likely to be followed in other war regimentation fields. One authority said it pointed up Byrnes more and more as a sort of "assistant President."

No specific disagreements were responsible for the delegation of authority to Byrnes, this authority said, and it is designed mainly to provide machinery for handling any disagreements that may crop up between the agriculture department and the war production board.

VULTEE TO BUILD TORPEDO PLANES IN MACK PLANT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—The WPB disclosed today that Vultee Aircraft, Inc., would build "a large number of torpedo bombers" for the navy at Allentown, Pa.

Charles E. Wilson, production vice chairman of the WPB, estimated that by using the Mack plant at least six months would be saved in starting production of the bombers.

JONES PREDICTS BIG RFC LOSSES IN WAR OUTLAY

Reports 18¼ Billion Spent on Projects.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones tonight made public his report to President Roosevelt on activities of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and its subsidiaries in connection with the war. He revealed that the government agencies had made loans, investments, purchase contracts, and other commitments for war materials and plants up to Oct. 31 aggregating $18,289,576,761.

The report disclosed that Jones expects the government to suffer huge losses on many of these investments. Losses reaching into the hundreds of millions of dollars already have been incurred in sugar and tire rationing, the scrap steel and rubber collection drives, and thru the payment of subsidies to maintain office of price administration price ceilings on many articles.

DPC Has Used Most.

Jones revealed the Defense Plant corporation as the RFC subsidiary making the largest commitments. It agreed to finance the construction, equipment or expansion of 1,337 plants for the production of ships, planes, tanks, guns, ordnance, aluminum, steel, tin, copper, synthetic rubber, gasoline, pipe lines, and a long list of other articles.

Total DPC commitments up to Oct. 31 were about 8½ billion dollars. Over 800 of the plants are already in "full or partial operation," Jones reported.

"Commitments made by DPC include $2,448,477,447 for the production of aircraft and parts, including $18,000,000 to Henry Kaiser and Howard Hughes for the design and construction of three super-cargo planes."

Aluminum Production Outlay.

He said DPC and the RFC have made commitments of $737,391,674 for the construction of 12 plants for the production of aluminum. He said that "in the opinion of the war production board and the army and navy munitions board" the output of these plants plus the capacity of privately owned plants and what "we are able to buy from Canada will provide sufficient aluminum to meet our requirements."

Other Defense Plant corporation commitments include $422,074,007 for magnesium plants and production facilities; $893,369,207 for the construction of 144 new steel plants and the

PRESENT-DAY STATUS of Tax-Exemption of Municipal Bonds

THIS Informative BOOKLET* TELLS

Why Municipal Bonds Have Had Tax-Exemption Privileges

Whether municipal securities will continue exempt from Federal income taxes is a question of vital concern not only to investors but to taxpayers. The above illustrated booklet tells why municipal securities have had certain tax immunities; reviews previous attempts to subject them to taxation; and discusses their investment position if this tax freedom is removed. *Sent on request as a service to investors, together with Ready-Reckoning Chart showing whether tax-exempt or taxable bonds yield more at your level of income. FIRST ADVANCE FOR WEEK MADE IN STOCK MARKET

Some Irregularity Persists Tho Average Rises.

New York, Dec. 15 (AP).—The stock market today advanced for the first time in a week.

Altho the comeback was of the selective type, and many leaders continued to jog along behind minus signs, many gains of fractions to a point or more were shown at the close and there was an assortment of new highs for the year. The list improved after a ragged start. Some advances were reduced in the final hour of trading.

Lightness of tax selling and hopes for the usual year-end rally provided the principal bullish inspiration, brokers said. Replacement of sold-out investments also was a prop.

Rise Is First Since Friday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 0.2 to 40.2 after being unchanged since last Friday. Sizable blocks of low priced issues again aided volume. Transfers totaled 696,270 shares, largest since Nov. 12, against 684,505 yesterday.

It was a broad market, with 847 individual stocks traded—358 up, 231 down, and 258 unchanged.

Top marks for 1942 were recorded for Firestone Tire, American Air Lines, Union Carbide, Johns-Manville, Eastman Kodak, United States Gypsum, Loew's, Warner Brothers, Industrial Rayon, and Zenith Radio.

Twin City Rapid Transit preferred dropped 2 points as a dividend voted on arrears was smaller than some traders expected.

CHICAGO LIST UNEVEN.

Chicago stocks moved indecisively yesterday within a narrow range. Of the 118 issues which made up the day's total turnover of 34,000 shares, 41 closed higher, 34 were lower, and 43 unchanged.

United States Gypsum attracted attension by rising to 61⅛, highest point of the year, on a limited sales volume. The price represented an advance of 3⅛ points over the last transaction in Chicago several days ago. The stock meanwhile has risen on the New York board. Zenith Radio advanced ¾ point to a new 1942 peak at 13⅝.

RAIL BONDS RALLY.

New York, Dec. 15 (AP).—A flurry of buying in railroad obligations gave the bond market a lift in the final hour today and at the close numerous low-priced issues were up fractions to a point or so. Volume expanded with more than a third of the day's total sales of $8,918,300, face value, taking place in the last hour. Monday's turnover was $7,140,500.

Well up in front were various obligations of the St. Paul, Burlington, North Western, Rock Island, Great Northern, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, Southern Pacific, and New York Central.

Argentine 4s, Brazil 6½s, and Denmark 6s were up moderately. Brisbane 6s jumped 8 points to 82 on sale of six bonds.

WHEAT FUTURES CLIMB 2 CENTS TO SEASON HIGHS

Wheat futures advanced 2 cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday to new seasonal peaks and cash grain to new high ground since 1928.

Bids of $1.51¼ were made late in the day for No. 2 red winter wheat, within ¾ cent of the parity price at the time the government loan basis on the 1942 crop was announced. A car of No. 2 hard winter wheat was sold for deferred shipment from the country at $1.39¾ or 7¾ cents above the basic loan rate.

Persistent buying of the December future, attributed to mills and cash interests, furnished the background for the price rise and closing trades were at the day's highs. December sold at $1.34¾ and September at $1.36¾, only ½ cent under the highest at which any future has sold on the exchange since 1937.

Other grains were carried upward by the strength in wheat. Corn closed ⅛ to ⅜ cent higher and oats gained ⅛ to ⅜ cent. Rye was 1¼ to 1⅜ cents higher.

Treasury Makes No Market Investments in November

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau announced today that during November there were no market transactions in direct and guaranteed securities of the government for treasury investment and other accounts.

Bank Acceptances Drop 2½ Million in November

New York, Dec. 15 (AP).—Bankers' acceptances outstanding at the end of November amounted to $116,067,000, a decrease of $2,514,000 compared with $118,581,000 outstanding on Oct. 31, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported today.

PROFIT OF FLORSHEIM SHOE SHOWS DECLINE DURING FISCAL YEAR

Net earnings of the Florsheim Shoe company, Chicago, were lower in the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, Irving S. Florsheim, president, disclosed yesterday in the company's 50th annual report to shareholders. The total was $1,031,770, equal under participating provisions of the stocks to $2.58 a share on class A and $1.29 a share on class B stock, compared with $1,238,739, or $3.10 and $1.55 a share, in the preceding fiscal year.

Profits this year were figured after charging off $465,000 for normal federal income tax and surtax and $505,700 for excess profits taxes, less a postwar credit of $9,300.

JONES PREDICTS BIG RFC LOSSES IN WAR OUTLAYS

Reveals 18¼ Billions Spent on Various Projects.

installation of equipment in 29 existing plants to step up their output; $1,826,230,695 to finance the production of machine tools; $102,850,000 for the construction of four oil pipe lines, and some 44 million dollars for establishment of strategic metal production facilities in foreign countries, primarily in South America.

Predicts Wide Losses.

Jones observed that many of the activities of the Defense Supplies corporation, which finances all war procurements except those handled by Rubber Reserve company, Metals Reserve company, Defense Plant corporation, and United States Commercial company, "will involve very substantial losses."

He said the DSC contracted to purchase the entire 1942 Cuban sugar crop, one-third of which was to be delivered in the form of molasses. Because of the shipping situation which will limit the amount that can be imported, he asserted there not only will be a "money loss" but also a loss in alcohol production. Jones recover DSC has allotted 30 million dollars to cover extra transportation costs occasioned by the sugar rationing program and "whatever amount is paid will not be recovered."

Jones asserted that in the DSC program for the purchase and redistillation of wines the corporation would "entail a substantial loss" as a result of the alcohol costing 68 cents a gallon to produce as against the OPA ceiling price of 50 cents per gallon.

Big Transportation Costs.

The report told of the DSC paying "abnormal transportation costs in connection with the movement of coal to the northeastern seaboard" because submarine warfare had interrupted the movement by water. Jones "estimated that this may cost as much as 40 million dollars during the current fiscal year which will not be recovered."

He declared that the corporation also would suffer large losses from the payment of extraordinary expenses in connection with the movement of petroleum and petroleum products to the east coast area.

He said 500 million dollars has been set aside by Metals Reserve to buy scrap steel, much of which will cost many times its market value.

Losses on Scrap Rubber.

Rubber Reserve company, he disclosed, is still obtaining rubber from Ceylon altho the island's output of some 100,000 tons must be shared with Britain and Russia. He said the company had purchased $18,460,540 worth of scrap rubber [all in the country] at $25 per ton and already has suffered "substantial losses" on 161,228 tons sold at ceiling prices to reclaimers.

U. S. Commercial company, created to compete with enemy countries for the purchase of any materials in foreign countries that might be of use to the enemy, will "sustain proportionately heavy losses," Jones reported.

RENTAL OF WAR HOUSING BEFORE SALE IS ORDERED

Effort to Get Building Materials Pledged.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—Strict new regulations requiring that war housing must be rented for at least four months to war workers, with the occupants then being entitled to buy, were announced today.

War housing, either publicly or privately financed, is new construction which is given war priorities, and its occupants must be war workers as defined by the war production board, national housing agency, and war man power commission.

The new rules were set forth in a joint declaration of policy by Donald M. Nelson, WPB chairman, and John B. Blandford, housing administrator.

Pledges Materials Aid.

Nelson accompanied the statement with a pledge that WPB would try to provide materials for approved housing programs, designed to get the maximum dwelling space from the limited materials available, as fast as possible.

The new policy, in addition to the rental-sale requirements, sets forth that only material authorized by WPB may be used in building a war housing project.

"Other material may not be used, regardless of how it may be obtained," the statement said.

Much to be Standardized.

The agreement makes NHA responsible for developing war housing programs, while WPB will allot materials by calendar quarters to meet each approved program. NHA will inspect the projects to see that they conform to regulations, and WPB will enforce compliance.

Lighting, plumbing, and other utilities units will be standardized, and the major part of the entire program will continue to be of temporary type construction.

WPB ASKS POOL OF NATURAL GAS BY 8 COMPANIES

The WPB yesterday asked representatives of eight natural gas pipe line companies to pool their natural gas resources to alleviate shortages it said existed in the midwest.

W. A. Lyons, chief of the supply allocations section, WPB power division, Washington, said the proposal was "received favorably" at a meeting of some 79 representatives of pipe line and distributing companies. Under the plan, which will be considered by a joint committee of the industry at Kansas City, Mo., Friday, the gas resources of the entire midwest would be pooled, so that surpluses in one area could be made available to some other area.

The WPB reprsentatives at the meeting contended the arrangement was necessary to assure sufficient fuel for steady war production.

Treasury Offers 2 Billion in Certificates to Banks

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15 (AP).—The treasury's record 9 billion dollar war financing drive will make a last major spurt toward its goal tomorrow when 2 billion dollars in ⅞ per cent certificates are offered to commercial banks. They will be available to the banks for three days.

ARMY, HIBBARD SIGN LEASE FOR BIG WAREHOUSE

BY AL CHASE.

One of the largest industrial leases ever negotiated by the government in Chicago and one of the most unusual federal deals of its kind was signed yesterday. The lease is for the Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co.'s 13 story building, containing slightly less than 1 million square feet of floor space, at 211 East North Water street on the north bank of the river, for army air force warehousing and offices.

C. J. Whipple.

The lease, which is being used by government officials as a model, is said to be the first in which a federal agency has negotiated for space to be paid for as it is taken over. Ordinarily the government leases an entire building, altho it may need only a fraction of the space at the beginning of the term, and pays for the unused space.

Lease Goes Past Duration.

C. J. Whipple, president of the company, said the lease provides for "possessive occupancy" — the big wholesale hardware concern will vacate as fast as the government needs the space. The lease is for the war's duration and six months.

The army air force has occupied all the 12th floor and half the 11th, Whipple said. As inventories continue to shrink the concern will be able to turn over more space to the government.

Whipple said inventories are less than half of those a year ago and predicted that by midsummer of 1943 they would be one-third of normal, where he expected they would remain.

Less Hardware Available.

The war production board on Dec. 8 cut hardware lines from a normal total of 27,000 items to 3,500 effective Jan. 15. Production of all hardware items already had been curtailed.

The lease provides that the government will not take over the entire building in less than 14 months and not more than 17 months.

The company will move when the government has need for all of the present space, and will announce its location later, Whipple said.

TENTATIVE PLAN.

How are present security holders and principal creditors treated under the tentative plan of reorganization of the Alton railroad?—J. G.

Answer: Attorneys for the Alton railroad filed a petition last month for reorganization of the road under section 77 of the bankruptcy act in the federal District court of Chicago. A tentative plan of reorganization was proposed under which the new company would issue $24,205,562 of income 4 per cent bonds and 242,055 shares of no par common stock. The existing funded debt of $45,350,000 refunding 3 per cent bonds would be eliminated with holders of the issue receiving half their claims in new bonds and half in new common stock.

The plan made no definite provision for settlement of loans of $8,269,000 advanced by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad or for issuance of new stock against the 250,000 shares of common outstanding and owned entirely by the B. & O. No provision was made for payment of a Reconstruction Finance corporation loan on which $1,102,591 is still due. This loan was guaranteed by the B. & O.

The plan does not disturb leases of the Joliet and Chicago and the Louisiana and Missouri River railroads but scales down rentals on the lease of the Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago railroad.

DIVIDEND INCREASED.

Did General Refractories company increase the December common dividend over the preceding payment?—D. F.

Answer: A dividend of 35 cents a share on the common is payable Dec. 22, compared with a preceding payment of 25 cents in September.

CORRECTION.

Budd Manufacturing company's net income in the first nine months of 1942 was $2,136,825, equal to $1.10 per common share, against $1,754,832, or 87 cents a share in the same 1941 period.

DON'T BORROW

Borrowing is not always the proper solution to a money shortage. But there are times when a loan is both provident and wise. For instance, you might borrow to move into a more economical house, nearer to work . . . to pay cash for medical and dental attention before your favorite doctor is called into the armed forces . . . to buy winter fuel and clothing . . . to clean up past due charge accounts and other bills . . . to buy tools, to pay union dues, or to take special courses for a new job on war production . . . and for many other purposes equally worthy. Loans $10 to $300. "While you wait" service to those who phone ahead or come prepared to present proper identification and evidence of employment.

GENERAL LIST
We have innumerable openings, loop and all parts of city, for stenographers with no experience to girls with exp. up to 10 years. They pay from $90 for beginners up to $125 for experienced girls. These are all permanent with good firms; not defense work. Can be developed into secretarial by right girls.
SPECIAL LIST
We are seeking the services of several stenographers and secretaries; at least 1 year exp. required. This is defense but not government employment. Will pay from $125 to $160 with ample opportunity for increases for girls that "get in and pitch." If you are willing to help win the war by working a 48 hour week, here is your oppor. to make some real money. Ask for Mr. Balantyne when applying for all positions of stenos. and secys.

MRS. TRUEHEART, DID YOU PHONE FOR ME?
YES, COME IN, JUNIOR.
GEE! IS THIS A SECRET OR SOMETHING?
YES, SHUT THAT DOOR. I DON'T WANT ANYONE TO HEAR US.
YOU SEE, JUNIOR, TESS AND TRACY THINK I'M AN OLD FOGEY. THEY THINK I DON'T HAVE MY EYES OPEN. BUT I DO, AND HOW I DO!
AND BETWEEN YOU AND ME, WE ARE GOING TO DO A LITTLE DETECTIVE WORK. WE'RE GOING TO SHADOW MY NEW ROOMER.

300 MILES
DEC. 16, 1942

For nearly all of the 400 miles from El Aghella to Misurata the highway runs thru forbidding country with the Gulf of Sirte [Mediterranean] on one side and cliffs, rocky desert or salt marshes on the other. There are few settlements of any consequence and these offer only anchorages for the smaller coastal vessels.

In all there are only four spots with good water—at Zauta en Nofilia, 125 miles west of El Aghella, where there are three big wells; at Sirte, which has several good wells; at Fourat el Souen, where there is water enough to support a population of only 200, and at Misurata, which is a large oasis with good water.

Westward from El Aghella the beach is rocky and the cliffs rise near the shore. At some points farther on there are individual heights of from 100 to 475 feet. About 90 miles out is the anchorage of Mersa el Auegia, but it is considered neither good nor safe.

Thirty-five miles farther down the road is Zauta en Nofilia, which has been suggested as a place where Rommel might make a stand. Near by are rocky heads which at some places extend more than a quarter mile into the gulf.

Sand hills surmounted by small tufts of trees arise near Sirte. Ruins of massive walls [probably the ancient city of Aspis] and square towers on commanding eminences stand on rising ground near the harbor. The greater part of the harbor is filled with sand, and it affords shelter only to boats of shallow draft.

Along the more than 100 miles from Sirte to Misurata a great salt marsh flanks the highway for much of the distance. The marsh is narrow near Sirte, but broadens to nearly 15 miles near Misurata. The marsh has isolated mounds of earth and sand, but generally is destitute of vegetation. There is one opening to the sea thru which at times it becomes entirely inundated.

A comparatively shallow anchorage, shielded by a point, forms the harbor of Misurata. Large vessels must anchor about a mile out. Misurata, however, has long been a center of coastal trade and is a center of wire and road communications. Misurata has been suggested as a second likely point for a stand by Rommel.
